"The ascendant hand is what I feel most strongly; I am bound in and in with my forbears. . . . We are all nobly born; fortunate those who know it; blessed those who remember."

—Robert L. Stevenson, Letters II, p. 230.

INTRODUCTORY NOTES

The present volume was prepared under the direction of the Association of Descendants of Andrew Ward by its Secretary.

The record is incomplete, and the compiler has no apology to offer for the fact, since completeness in a work of this nature, under present conditions, is unattainable. There will be found mistakes scattered through the volume, due in part to clerical errors—unavoidable in a book which is mainly statistical in character; in part to errors of earlier genealogists whose works have been consulted; in part to misleading statements of correspondents and, finally, in some measure, to lack of attention to detail upon the part of the compiler himself. The fact that the names of some fifteen thousand or more descendants have been gathered and classified speaks for itself.

In a certain sense this work is a joint affair, a large part of the material having been contributed by scores of people, who have been interested in the project since its inception. While it is no exaggeration to state that hundreds of descendants have helped to make as nearly complete as possible the data here presented, space will not permit the mention of their names in detail. It is proper, however, that the author should here give expression to his appreciation of the aid afforded by the following descendants who have contributed most largely to the subject matter of the record: Mrs. Teunis S. Hamlin, Miss Clara Mossman Hill, Miss Cora E. Ward, Mrs. John H. Hall, Miss Augusta Wheeler, Miss Loretta B. Perry, Winthrop Hoyt Perry, Mrs. Alfred C. Howland, Frank Grant, Mrs. Frederick P. Allen, J. Seymour Currey, C. W. DeLyon Nichols, Gen. Chas. H. Whipple, Prof. Everett Ward Olmsted, Alexander Meigs Ward, William Ward, Mrs. Edward H. Jenkins, Thomas D. Barlow, Capt. Franklin Hanford, Miss Caroline J. Calef, Mrs. Eugene H. Wells, Mrs. Sarah E. Tingue, Miss Mary K. Wheeler, Mrs. Ida Rust McPherson, Christopher L. Ward, Miss Mary E. Ward, Clarence A. Torrey, Orpheus N. Parmelee, Miss Emma I. Hudson, Mrs. Kate Coe, Mrs. Harriet E. G. Whitmore.

The hearty co-operation and sound judgment of the Advisory Committee have been invaluable adjuncts in determining the general character of the volume.

The reference system adopted in the genealogy is the simplest that has been found practicable, viz., the designation of each name by a single number, strictly adhered to throughout. The inquirer has only to turn to the index, find the number of the page upon which the desired name occurs and then trace it out in the body of the work. Where the name represents the head of a family, the facts regarding the family will be found upon a subsequent page under the same number in brackets.

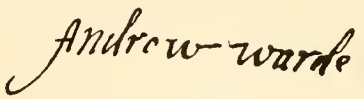
That portion of the book which is found under the heading, "Biographical," contains, in narrative form, the history of several of the prominent families in the Ward connection, and will be read with great interest, as will also the chapter upon "The Association of Descendants of Andrew Ward."

Abbreviations—b., born; bap., baptized; Co., company, county; Coll., college; d., died; dau., daughter; grad., graduated; m., married; prob., probably; univ., university.

HISTORICAL

The family of Ward, or Warde, is of English origin. Among the numerous bearers of the name, both in England and Ireland, the name is spelled either with or without the final e. Andrew Warde, the New England settler, spelled it in the latter fashion. A fac-simile of his signature is here reproduced.



The family belonged to the nobility, including barons, lords, knights, etc. Horatio Ward, Esq., of the Andrew Warde line, in his valuable manuscript volume, has a score or more of these allied families living in the British Isles, including their respective coats of arms. Mr. Ward, who was a gentleman of wealth and culture, spent twenty or more years of his life in London, much of it being given to an assiduous search for the ancestors of Andrew Warde among the many families of that name in the United Kingdom. His researches led him to the conclusion that the American colonist of that name belonged to the Ward family living in Homersfield and Gorleston, Suffolk County, England. From a careful examination of his and other manuscripts, the compiler of this volume is led to believe that Andrew Warde, of Fairfield, Conn., was a grandson of Richard Ward, of Homersfield.

The current opinion, viz., that Andrew was the son of Richard, seems to have been founded upon insufficient evidence. This opinion, no doubt traditional in the beginning, after a time assumed the form of established fact, and thus came to be accepted as genuine. Hence, it will be found that in most instances where reference is made to Andrew Warde by historians and genealogists of the Nineteenth Century the above relationship is assumed to be correct. Later investigations, however, have changed the complexion of things and seem to lead to the conclusion that the earlier writers were mistaken. The single fact, to say nothing of confirmatory proof, that Richard Ward died in the year 1598 in extreme old age, while undoubtedly Andrew was born in or about 1597, goes far to disprove the idea that has so long prevailed. In this connection the conclusions reached by Mr. Emory McClintock, of New York, who has made a long and careful study of this question, are worthy of reproduction and will be read with interest. He says:

"Richard of Homersfield's will seems to indicate that his son Andrew had the bulk of his inheritance, obviously to start him with an estate, or in some business, so that he was certainly over twenty-one years of age in 1597, and perhaps considerably more. My estimate that he was born about 1570, based on his brother Henry's birth in 1559, and that of his brother Ralph's wife in 1572, is not far wrong. I consider that Richard's Andrew was probably married and settled a dozen or more years before our Andrew's wife was born in 1606. With these dates before us, it is fair to ask whether it is conceivable that Richard's Andrew, reputed to be Andrew, of Fairfield, over sixty years of age in 1635, could have been named last in the list of seven to govern Connecticut. Is it conceivable that a man of that age would have been one of the Wethersfield explorers of 1634, as Stiles thinks our Andrew was? . . . Is it conceivable that his large family should all be born when he was aged? . . . That an old man should lead at Wethersfield, and then rush off to settle Stamford, seems incredible. These difficulties diminish greatly if we regard our Andrew as grandson of Richard, of Homersfield."

In support of the latter conclusion, we have the testimony of a noted genealogist of half a century ago, H. G. Somerby, of Boston, based upon Blomfield's History of Norfolk County, England, to the effect that Andrew, of Fairfield, was the grandson and not the son of Richard.

Further testimony: In a manuscript account of a journey through Suffolk in 1657, by a Mr. Leverland, it is stated that "the descendants of Andrew Ward, son of Richard. of Homersfield, were in New England." (From a private letter from Roswell B. Ward, of New London, Conn., son of Col. James Ward, of Hartford, Conn.)

Extracts from the East Anglian (Suffolk and adjoining counties) New Series, vol. vii, p. 148: "He (Leverland) was a schoolmaster there and a diligent searcher into the antiquities of this county." This is contained in a copy of an old publication entitled "Arms of Suffolk Gentry," published about 1800 by W. Sharp, a learned genealogist of the period. The above quotation gives the arms of the Leverland family, with some additional remarks, as above, concerning the head of the family.

"In this volume there is a letter from a Suffolk lady, who, in a visit to London in 1759, gives the name of Mrs. Leverland as of one well known, whom she met at a friend's house. Mr. and Mrs. Leverland may have been living in London at this time." (Vol. x, p. 272.)

Unfortunately, a most careful search, instituted by learned genealogists of the present day, has failed to reveal any positive facts regarding Andrew Ward, the supposed father of Andrew Warde, of Fairfield, Conn. This much, however, is known, viz., that a Mr. Andrew Warde, gent., was buried January 23, 1615, at St. Michael's, Cornhill, London. (Harleian Collection, Parish Register Series, vol vii, p. 219.)

It appears, also, that a certain Ralph Ward (which is the name of a brother of Andrew, son of Richard) was buried at the same place. The two names coming together, and the accompanying date, are suggestive features of this discovery. (From private letter of Wharton Dickinson, genealogist, New York City.)

Investigation is now being made along the above line, and it is hoped that information may soon be secured which will set the matter at rest. Until such time, we are left to conjecture, supported by plausible theory, in regard to the pedigree of our honored ancestor.

Extract from address of Emory McClintock, of New York City, at First Reunion of Andrew Ward Association, May 10, 1905:

"Andrew Warde's ancestry was undoubtedly a good ancestry, because he took his place immediately in the affairs of the colony, although probably a man not over 35 years old at the time of the immigration from Watertown, which settled the town of Wethersfield, afterward decided to be the oldest town on the river and in the State." [In the section entitled "Bounds of Towns and Particular Lands" is the following: "It is ordered . . . That every Towne shall set out their bounds . . . and that once in a year three or more persons in the Towne appointed by the Selectmen, shall appoint with the adjacent Townes, and renew their marks . . . . The most ancient Towne (which for the River is determined by the courte to be Wethersfield) to give notice of the time and place of meeting for this perambulation."—From Col. Rec. I, p. 513. "From the point of view of a habitation by white men, Hartford was first occupied by the Dutch; from the point of view of occupation by Englishmen, Windsor can claim to be earliest settled; but from the point of view of settlement by Massachusetts Bay people, by agriculturists and colonists, Wethersfield has undisturbed right to the title." —From "The River Towns of Connecticut," by Chas. M. Andrews, Johns Hopkins University Studies, p. 17.] "Ward was the only man who was a member both of the committee to govern the colony, and of the committee of church members who were appointed to establish the Christian religion in the new colony.

"There were six members of the original church who were deputed to establish the Christian church in the new colony on the river. Andrew Warde headed the list. There were a number, some six or eight, of gentlemen appointed by the General Court of Massachusetts to establish the Colony of Connecticut and govern it until a government should be inaugurated. He was not the first of this list, and the fact that he was not the first, but the last, makes me think he was not an old man, but a man in the prime of life. This is particularly indicated by the fact which Dr. Stiles in his recently published book on Wethersfield indicates, viz., that Andrew Warde was probably one of the first eight men, who came a year before the colony was organized, to the site of Wethersfield, and planted some corn, and decided that there should be a colony there. That is, while the colony was established in 1635, these men, possibly eight or nine, or more, came in 1634, in the summer, and did preliminary work, and went back for the rest, who came over the following spring.

"In every way, therefore, both as a pioneer—one of the very first to come—and as the one man of all others who was on both commissions of Church and State, Andrew Warde was the founder of Connecticut. He did not appear as prominently as Ludlow, who was named as Governor, but he did more for the colony than Ludlow, who soon got into trouble and left the colony. He was not only the founder of Wethersfield, but he was, I feel sure, the man who named Wethersfield, because he was the only man in the Council who came from there and that could have named the town. He also founded Stamford, and he died in Fairfield, one of the most eminent, capable men in the colony. Until the year of his death he was deputy of Fairfield, and his family has always held the highest rank since in the State of Connecticut and other States.

"He must, therefore, have had good ancestry, but the trouble has been to find the ancestry. For a long time there was a widely believed statement afloat that Andrew Warde was the son of Richard Ward, but that was undoubtedly a mistake. On the other hand, it has been as good as known to a very few for a number of years that he was a grandson of Richard Ward.

"I think we may, therefore, take it as practically certain that our Andrew Warde was son of another Andrew, one of the five sons of Richard Ward, of Gorleston, in England, who was lord of a manor there, and who had property in several parts of the country which was left to his children.

"There were five sons of Richard Ward. The oldest was Henry, born in the year 1559, and the fourth was Ralph. Ralph married a lady who was born in 1572. Now the next son, and the youngest, was Andrew, and Andrew's wife could not, naturally, be expected to have been born in 1606. So far as ages are concerned, they go to show that it was a grandson, and not a son, who came to this country.

"Now, as regards Richard Ward, his will was probated in the Bishop's Court in 1598. He gave to his son Henry all his lands in Horstead and Stoninghall, in Norfolk; to his son Richard all his lands, tenements, etc., in Metfield, Wethersdale, Menham, Sandcroft, Homersfield, St. Michaels and Flixton, in Suffolk, and all his remaining lands in Norfolk; to his son Andrew 333 pounds! He was succeeded by his son Henry Ward, lord of the manor, who was born in 1559 and died in 1645. He sold the manor to people of another name and moved to Norfolk, where the family continued for one or two generations, and then died out without issue. So much for the family of Richard Ward, the father of Andrew Ward, and of whom our Andrew was doubtless the grandson.

"We do not know that Richard Ward was the son of Thomas Ward, of Homersfield, in the northeast corner of Suffolk. Thomas Ward married the daughter of Dr. John Hare. Richard Ward married the daughter of Richard Gunville, of Gorleston, and his wife inherited the manor from her brother, Henry, whose widow died in 1580; and at his widow's death it passed to the wife of Richard Ward.

"There is an old and famous family of Gonvilles, in Suffolk, and this family is believed to be related to them, because they have the same arms as the more illustrious Gonville family who founded Gonville College, and the names of some of their descendants are given in this statement; but the exact connection between the older Gonville family and the Gonville family of Gorleston is not directly traced, although a connection is plain from the arms. The heralds are very particular not to give the same arms to persons who are not of the same family, even if the names are the same. It was a rule that the consent of the heralds had always to be obtained before any family could get the arms, unless it was the same family; and the arms of this Gunville family are the same as those of the earlier Gonvilles.

"As for the Hare family, there is a similar pedigree traced down to this John Hare, who became a Doctor of Laws, and was a man of property, who died in 1526. His daughter married Thomas Ward. His father was Nicholas Hare, who was the son of John Hare.

"Thus, the Ward family was undoubtedly a good family. It is impossible that this Richard Ward could have sprung suddenly into riches, simply because he married the lady of Gorleston. His father was also a rich man, because he owned property at Homersfield, where his father came from. Although we do not know for certain the ancestry of Thomas Ward, his father, it is quite likely that it may be connected with the Ward family which is contained in the published pedigree I have spoken of. Many persons have attempted to prove this, but the actual proof has not yet been found. Still, the fact that this Thomas Ward was a country gentleman and the owner of property is well certified, and he must have inherited it from his father or mother. This is practically certain, because in those days it was very uncommon for people to make money in trade and then settle in the country and found families.

"So that our Andrew Warde himself came of a Ward family which was of good landed stock in Suffolk, perhaps earlier in Norfolk; his grandmother, Anne Gunville, came of another noted family, and his grandfather, Richard Ward, was the son of a lady named Hare, who came of another noted family."

ANDREW WARDE

Born in England, probably near the beginning of the seventeenth century, Andrew Warde, while yet a comparatively young man, left his home and emigrated to New England. This is said to have been about the year 1630. Among his fellow voyageurs are said to have been John Winthrop, Jr., afterward Governor of Massachusetts; Rev. Mr. Phillips, and other emigrants from Suffolk and Essex counties, who came across the sea to join that resolute and hardy band of pioneers who were conquering a new world. We first hear of Andrew Warde at Watertown, Mass., where he early assumed prominence as a man of affairs in the small colony there established. His name is recorded in the second book of inventory, as having "an homestall of 10 acres, by estimation, bounded, the east by the driftway and John Dogget, the west by Winifred Wolcott, and the north by the great Pond, granted him."

He held this estate as late as the year 1642, some seven or more years after his removal from Watertown.

"The first month and 24th day, 1640. Lands of Andrew Warde, lying in Wethersfield on the Connecticut river. One piece whereon his house and barn stand, containing fouer acres more or less. The ends abutt against the street west and Great Meadows east, the sides against the house lotte of Mr. Smith south, and John Reynolds north. One piece lying in the Great Meadows con: fourteen acres two roods. One piece lying in the Great Meadows. One piece lying in the Great Meadows. . . . foure acres. One piece lying in on backe lotte con: two acres 3 roods. One piece lying in the Dry Swamp . . . 8 acres. One piece lying in the middle rowe of Wet Swamp . . . 5 acres. One piece lying on Westfield . . . fifty-four acres. One piece lying on the west side of the Connecticut river, 274 acres. These lands abut against the Connecticut river west, the side against the lands of Mr. Smith and Jo. Reynolds, north. The lands across the Conn. river, opposite Wethersfield would be in what is now Glastonbury."—Watertown Land Records.

He was made freeman May 14, 1634. "Under the first charter of the Mass. colony none were regarded as freemen, or members of the body politic, except such as were admitted by the General Court, and took the oath of allegiance to the Government here established. This custom continuing in existence until by the 2d charter the colony was transferred into a province."

AT WATERTOWN

"There is no record extant of any municipal transactions of Watertown, of earlier date than 1634, four years after its first settlement . . . . No one had a right to vote, unless he were a freeman; none could be admitted a freeman unless he were a church member, and the church was Congregational, wherein its affairs were managed by the votes of the members. The church officers seem to have taken the lead both in civil and ecclesiastical affairs, and it is probable that, previously to 1634, the records were kept accordingly. Whatever those records were, they are lost."—Bond's History of Watertown, pp. 993-4.

"In order for such admission, it was necessary to be a church-member, and for this reason there were some men holding respectable social positions, who never were thus admitted, or not until of advanced age. It was not necessary, however, to be a church-member, or a freeman, in order to hold office in the town or appointments from the Court. This could be done by taking the oath of fidelity, and, in some instances, townsmen, who were not freemen, were allowed to vote. Thomas Mayhew held a responsible appointment from the Governor and Assistants, more than two years before he was admitted freeman."—Bond's Appendix I, p. 1016, § 78: Freemen.

"Within the boundaries of Watertown, as determined by the Court in April, 1635, were embraced the present towns of Watertown, Waltham, Weston, the largest part of Lincoln, and that part of Cambridge lying east of Mount Auburn Cemetery, between Fresh Pond and Charles River."—Bond's App. I, p. 990.

So, knowing the man well from his reputation in later years, and judging from the fact that he was honored with a place upon an important commission, we may safely conclude that during those few years of residence in Watertown, Andrew Warde was building for himself a reputation for honesty of purpose, sagacity of insight, and skill in the direction of municipal affairs; that he was growing every day in the esteem of his fellow men, and assuming the exalted position of a leader in all that pertained to the temporal and spiritual welfare of the community with which his lot was cast. The second period of his life was passed at Wethersfield, Conn. The occasion of his removal from Watertown to this place appears from a perusal of the minutes of the Bay Colony at its session held May 3, 1635-6. They are as follows:

"A Commission graunted to severall persons to governe the People att Conecticott for the space of a Yeare, now nexte comeing. That some present governm't may be observed, thinke meete, & soe order, that Roger Ludlowe Esqr. Willm Pynchon Esqr. John Steele, Wm. Swaine, Henry Smith, Willm Phelps, Willm Westwood, & Andrew Warde, or the greater p'te of them shall have full power and aucthorite to hear and determine in a judiciall way by witnesses vpon oathe, examine within the said plantacon, all those differences w'ch may arise between 'partie & partie' as also vpon misdemeanors to inflict corporall punishment or imprisonment to ffine & levy the same if occacon so require," etc. . . .

Six public courts of this Commission were held during the year. Four of them at New Towne (Hartford), one at Dorchester (Windsor), and one at Watertowne (Wethersfield). The last meeting of the Commissioners' Court before the expiration of their year of office was held Feb. 21st, 1637.

Following out these instructions, Andrew Warde removed from Watertown, Mass., and settled with his family in Wethersfield. He was a member of the Upper House when war was declared against the Pequots, May 1, 1637 (o. s.). This was the first formal assertion of the sovereignty of the Colony. He was twice a member of the Committee, or Lower House of the General Court in 1637, and of the same House again in 1638. He was Deputy for four sessions after the confederation of the three towns (Windsor, Hartford and Wethersfield) into a colony in 1639. Afterward he was frequently a member of both branches of the Gen'l Court. In 1637 he was a collector of rates, and in connection with Cap't John Mason and Mr. Allen he was ordered to go to Agawam (Springfield) and treat with the Indians of Waronocke (Westfield) concerning the tribute toward the charges (assessments) of our war. In 1637 he was a member of the church in Wethersfield, and one of its staunchest and most esteemed supporters. Wethersfield, the oldest town in Connecticut, received from Watertown its first considerable emigration in 1634. Pyquaug, its Indian name, was changed in 1635 to Watertown, and later to Wethersfield. The few persons known in the Wethersfield records as the "adventurers" (i. e., occupants of lands not deriving their title from town), were either in person, or by representatives, the settlers of 1634. Stiles, the historian, remarks: "The interesting question naturally arises at this point, who were the hardy, we might almost say reckless, persons who first established themselves here? The problem is difficult of solution, and perhaps may never be settled beyond dispute. It is conceded that they were a mere handful in numbers, probably not a dozen all told. There is little doubt that they were all from Watertown, Mass. A church had been organized there as early as June, 1630. Under the leadership of Sir Richard Saltonstall, and the spiritual care of Rev. George Phillips, both of whom, in company with Governor Winthrop, had arrived there in June of that year."

It was not until May of the following year that they had the permission of the General Court of Massachusetts "to remove whither they pleased so they continue under this government." Wethersfield's existence as a parish dates from the spring of 1636. The General Court of Connecticut, at its first session, April 26, 1636, ratified and confirmed a dismissal of certain members of the Watertown (Mass.) church, which had been granted on the 29th of March, 1635. The persons thus dismissed were: Andrew Warde, Rev. John Sherman, Robert Reynolds, John Strickland, Jonas Weed and Robert Coe.

The first mentioned of this company was Andrew Warde. He was one of the foremost men of the colony, and seems to have left Watertown immediately after being admitted there as a freeman—May, 1634—and come to Wethersfield, or else some other person, acting in his interest, preceded him (he following in May, 1635) and took possession for him of 20 acres of the "Adventurers' Land." Prior to his removal to Rippowams (Stamford), in 1640, he sold these lands to Robert Rose, who already held the same amount in his own right. So, with these members of the Watertown church, our ancestor came to Wethersfield.

Others, doubtless, were in the company, but these are mentioned as the leaders. They were authorized to form anew in a church covenant in Connecticut, and they promised to renew the covenant, so the record of the General Court says. Mr. Warde was one of the five members then constituting that court. With the possible exception of Robert Reynolds, the persons named formed the nucleus of the new ecclesiastical society.

In 1637, when the General Court was divided into an upper and a lower section, "Andrew Warde and William Swayne, Gentleman, became members of the upper section," and hence may be said to have been the first members of what would now be called the Senate, from Wethersfield.

In the History of Connecticut, by Dr. Benjamin Trumbull, we find the following notes:

"Mr. William Swayne, Mr. Thurston Raynor, Mr. Henry Smith, Mr. Andrew Warde, Mr. Mitchell and Mr. John Deming were some of the chief men who settled the town of Wethersfield. These were the civil and religious fathers of the colony. They formed its free and happy constitution, were its legislators and some of the chief pillars of the church and commonwealth. They, with many others of the same excellent character, employed their abilities and their estates for the prosperity of the colony."

Speaking of the court which assembled in Hartford on Monday, May 1, 1637, he says: "As they were to deliberate on matters in which the lives of the subjects and the very existence of the colony were concerned, the towns for the first time sent committees. The spirited measures adopted by this court render the names of the members worthy of perpetuation." The magistrates were Roger Ludlow, Esq., Mr. Welles, Mr. Swain, Mr. Steele, Mr. Phelps and Mr. Warde.

AT STAMFORD.

We now pass to the third period in the history of our ancestor, which began with his removal from Wethersfield to the town which is now known as Stamford, Conn. In the Church of Christ to-day there are, as the Scripture saith, "differences of administration," or, as we should say, "diversity of talent." Some men are peculiarly gifted as leaders of spiritual thought; others have talent for stimulating and turning into practical and elevating channels the social instinct of the members; others possess marked capacity for leadership in new enterprises. These last are the organizers, the men who assume and sustain the executive burdens of every scheme looking to the welfare of their particular church.

The same diversity of talent is observable in the men who perform the duties of pioneers in the work of transforming rural settlements into towns and towns into cities and cities into great centers of industry. Some there are who seem to have developed very largely a love for and skill in the building up of the waste places into habitable homes, where men and women dwell in peace under the protection of just laws, enforced by righteous rulers.

Andrew Warde seems to have had this intuitive love of town building. He was a great organizer. Wise in counsel, energetic in advancing schemes for the development of the resources of new fields, and possessing a personal magnetism which awoke enthusiasm in his enterprises and gained recruits for carrying forward the plans which his fertile brain had matured.

He was a leader in Watertown, a leader in Wethersfield, a leader in Stamford, a leader in Fairfield. Wherever he cast his lot he assumed the leadership—not boastfully, not in any sense arbitrarily, but by sheer force of persistency in getting things done and through the recognition of his peculiar abilities by his fellowmen which invariably followed.

The present town of Stamford was originally settled under the name of "Wethersfield Men's Plantation." As was the case in his earlier career, when he left Watertown to found a new habitation in Wethersfield at the behest of the Bay Colony, so now, through negotiations with the General Court of New Haven, Andrew Warde, in company with others, becomes the founder of a new settlement. I quote from Dr. Huntington's admirable history of Stamford, Conn., p. 15.

The following record of the decision of the General Court of New Haven, held the 14th day of the ninth month, 1640, exhibits the title under which the colonists were to take possession of their new domain: "Whereas, Andrew Warde and Robert Coe, of Wethersfield, were deputed by Wethersfield men, the 30th of the eighth month, commonly called October, 1640, to treat at New Haven about the plantation lately purchased by said town called Toquams, which, being considered of, it was agreed upon by the said court and justices aforesaid, that they shall have the said plantation upon the terms following: First, that they shall repay unto the said town of New Haven all the charges which they have disbursed about it, which comes to thirty-three pounds, as appears by a note or schedule hereunto annexed; secondly, that they shall reserve a fifth part of said plantation to be disposed of at the appointment of this court to such desirable persons as may be expected, or as God shall send hither, provided that if within one whole year such persons do not come to fill up those lots so reserved, that then it shall be free for the said people to nominate and present to this court some persons of their own choice, which may fill up some of those lots so reserved, if this court approves of them; thirdly, that they join in all points with this plantation in the form of government here settled, according to agreement, betwixt this court and Mr. Samuel Eaton about the plantation of Totokett. These articles being read, together with Mr. Samuel Eaton's agreement, in the hearing of the said parties, or deputies, it was accepted by them, and in witness thereof they submitted their names to the articles in the face of the court.

"The following passage is from the first book of the Stamford records, defaced in some places and wanting in others. The effaced portions are here included in parentheses. The earlier records are all in the handwriting of Richard Law. The first paragraph, which is a mere title, was evidently inserted after the name of the settlement had been changed. '1640-41. A townebo(ok of the) freeholders of the towne (of Stamford as it) was afterwards called, but now Rippowam, contay(n)in(g the acts) and conclusions of the companie of Wethersffeld men, to (begin a) removal thither this Winter. Andrew Warde seems to have continued his municipal activities during his sojourn in Stamford. He was honored by the inhabitants of that town in his election, first as constable, October 26, 1642, and later as magistrate, which office he assumed October 27, 1646, and held for the term of one year. He represented Stamford in the General Court of New Haven Colony in 1644.

On the 27th of October, 1641, he was with Francis Bell, Representative of Stamford, at New Haven, and both were admitted members of the court and received the charge of freemen to treat with the court about the plantation (Toquams, or Stamford), lately purchased.

In the October (1642) session of the Court, "Goodman Warde" is chosen constable for Stamford. His office was a very different one from that which is now discharged under that name. It was one of high dignity and of solemn responsibility. (Huntington's Hist. of Stamford, pp. 67-8.)

At the assembling of the General Court at New Haven, April 15, 1643, his letter was presented, written in the name of freeplanters, introducing Capt. John Underhill and Richard Gildersleeve as Deputies to the court at Stamford, at the same time requesting that a magistrate might be chosen for the better administration of the prudential affairs of that town. He, with Rob't

Coe, was appointed to assist at the next General Court of Election at New Haven, in counsel and advice for the more comely carrying on of public affairs. He was again elected one of the Deputies from Stamford to the General Court of New Haven in 1644 and 1646. At the same time Andrew Warde, George Hull and William Beardsley, of Stamford, were nominated as assistants to join with the magistrates for the execution of justice in the towns of Connecticut by the seaside. He purchased Simon Hoyt's lot, west of Hyde Pond, which he sold in 1653 to Edward Adams, and purchased from Alexander Bryan, the same year, Thomas Newton's home and house lot on the Ludlow Square. He was one of the most important and influential men in Fairfield.

AT FAIRFIELD, CONN.

From address of Henry C. Sturges, Esq., of Fairfield, at the unveiling of the Andrew Warde monument in Fairfield cemetery, June 13, 1907:

"This is a memorable occasion, and a notable gathering on a most historic site, and no better preparation could be made for the exercises of the day than to dwell for a few moments on that far off time when Andrew Warde dwelt almost under the shadow of this building (Fairfield Historical Society Building) and had for his neighbors one of the goodliest companies to be found in all the eastern colony. Imagine, then, that you are once more standing on this spot and gazing around you at the ancient settlement of 1651. But what a change! To the north, as a background, arises the rock, crowned with a growth of lordly pines. The scene reminds you of a western clearing fifty years ago. Stumps of trees are in evidence, and rocky grounds. There are well defined trails to the north, south, east and west, following the roads of the present day. On the left is a lovely pond seen through surrounding trees and on these trails around the pond are rude log structures one story in height. The northernmost house to the left is the first Fairfield home of Andrew Warde, and opposite we see the fine homes of Roger Ludlow and Nathan Gold. Facing us on the corner stands the first home of John Banks, the Surveyor of Fairfield, to whose skill we owe it that the squares of the town were laid out in such a regular manner. To our left, where Dr. Donaldson now resides, we see the home of Richard Lyon, and earlier of Thomas Wheeler, Jr., worthy ancestors of the good man who founded this library. Next to him stands the home of Thomas Pell, who later on was to give the name to Pell-Ham-Manor, and opposite (on the postoffice side) the home of Humphrey Hyde, who afterwards gave the name to the pond; and about where the depot now stands, the first houses in Fairfield of Joshua Jennings and Francis Bradley, the progenitors of families who for generations have stood for what was great and good in town and nation. On the site of what is now the library corner, there was at that time the homestead of Alexander Knowles, a man prominent in public affairs, and judge of the

Gen. Court of Conn. Looking up the street to the right, stood the house of Philip Pinckney, ancestor of Gen. Charles Coleman Pinckney, of Revolutionary fame, and those distinguished men and women whom South Carolina is proud to call her own. Opposite Philip Pinckney (the Flint corner) the homestead of Henry Rowland; opposite to him, Anthony Wilson, and to the southward, the home of Capt. Richard Osborn, hero of the Pequot War. There were no fences, the home lots being defined by stone markings, much uncleared land and dense forests on all sides. To properly people this wild scene, remember, that the period of Andrew Warde's sojourn covered that part of English history given up to the Cavalier and Round Head, the reign of Charles I, his execution, the Protector, the death of Cromwell, and the accession of Charles III, all proclaimed on these streets. The homes and household were of the simplest, but the keynote was Godliness. The Bible, but also the great and little gun and sword, were to be found in every household. Andrew Warde came to place on record the most memorable of God's passages in settling his people in this country. On or about the time that he moved his residence to what we are pleased to call Main street, many of his old neighbors moved with him—so we find in close proximity again the homes of Roger Ludlow, Andrew Warde, Nathan Gold, Richard Lyon, Thomas Pell, Thomas Sherwood, Robert Hawkins, Jacob Gray, Alexander Bryan, all his near neighbors, while from the Church corner south, reading right to left, were located John Banks, John Burr, Nehemiah Olmsted, Nathaniel Baldwin, Simon Hoyt, John Nichols, Henry Rowland, and opposite, the Pinckneys and Burrs, names identified with every phase of early colonial history. Mention has been made of the crudeness of the dwellings and the roughness of the surroundings. It was years after the time of Andrew Warde that the town assumed shape and comeliness. There were structures of stone as well as of logs, but the early settlers were of sturdy stock, hardened to toil.

"Appended to the will of Andrew Warde are the names of Alexander Knowles (who probably drew up the document), and Nathan Gold, both lifelong friends and neighbors.

"Andrew Warde lived among us for some fourteen years, dying in 1659. As we wend our way this afternoon to the ancient cemetery, where he was laid to rest, and listen to the narration of his life and good works, having previously visited his home and tried to picture the town as it then was, and the inhabitants as they moved to and fro in their various avocations, will it not be natural to try and imagine the last scene in the drama—his funeral—the beat of muffled drums and armed men bearing the bier to the rough church structure, a notable gathering, among many others the names Nathan Gold, Alexander Knowles, John Banks, representatives of Church and State delegations, also representatives of the Burrs, Jennings, Beers, Lyons, Wheelers, Sturgesses, Osborns, Rowlands, and other ancestors of those who will this afternoon dedicate the monument to his memory.

"And as we stand around the spot where his ashes repose, let us hope, if it is possible, for the spirits of those long since dead to revisit the scenes of their earthly habitations, that the invisible presence of this noble company of the founders of ancient Fairfield may be present with us in spirit, as they were present in body in that long past day in 1651."

Upon the same occasion an admirable address was made by Judge John Hoyt Perry, of Fairfield, upon the topic, "Andrew Warde as a Citizen of Fairfield." Judge Perry's remarks, largely historical, covered much of that which has already been recited. He closed with this eloquent tribute:

"We do not mark a grave to-day, we memorialize a life; and of that life the foregoing is the story as told in the records of the communities where it was spent. It is merely an articulated skeleton showing fitness for work, adequacy under burdens, capacity to accomplish, and because it is of necessity a skeleton we miss the flesh and blood which, clothing bare capacity, make for human interest and attractiveness. Candor compels us to admit that he was not the ablest or most important or most famous citizen of the town. Roger Ludlow heads the list of several to whom history accords at least as high a place as his. He was simply a well bred, intelligent, conscientious, public spirited, ambitious man. He led a useful, trusted life and followed the way. He consorted with the best and served his fellows. His descendants have achieved distinction in widely separated fields, and in this town are called by the names of Jennings, Sturges, Wheeler, Wakeman, Gould, Burr, Bulkley, Ogden, Dimon and Perry. Whether they have preserved the Ward tradition of disinterested public service you can best decide. And now, your labors, long since done, your untiring quest for something better satisfied, rest well, Andrew Warde, Adventurer. You lie in friendly soil. Fairfield cherishes your memory, honors your descendants and is a better town for your guiding hand upon its infancy. 'Rest well!' "

Prof. Edward J. Ward of Hamilton College, then delivered an address upon the topic, "Our Debt to the Fathers," which was in part as follows:

"Here is our debt to Andrew Warde that in his life he built and handed down to us the legacy of a strong, deep chested, clean limbed, sturdy body, and a mind, firm fibered, balanced, sane. In his work he was faithful in places of public trust and so gives us a heritage of faithfulness; in his home he was true and so the stream of our heredity is pure. It is not the positions that he held and the power that he gained that make us his debtors; it is the fact that he was worthy of those positions and that his will to do the right was stronger than the temptations which came with the power that he had. This is a heredity better than ancestral halls or lands or crests. With a good heritage of body, brain and will a child is rich. Without this, though he be heir to the wealth of the Indies, he is poor. In the will of that old Puritan we read: 'The last will and testament of Andrew Warde, situate and living in Fairfield, being at present, through mercy, well both in mind and memory.' Then he goes on to bequeath to his wife and children his estate. But his true bequest to his posterity was not the third of his estate or the forty pounds given to this child or that; it was in the fact that, in mind and body and in character, he was well."

Thus ended the life of this good man. His career was an eventful one. Covering a period of only threescore years, it left its impress upon four distinct communities. The records of Watertown, Wethersfield, Stamford and Fairfield, each in turn bear witness to the valued services of Andrew Warde. His abilities, quickly recognized, secured for him honorable position, placed him in the front rank and singled him out as a man whose fitness to represent his constituents honorably and with discretion was unchallenged. Unfortunately, we have no written statements and very few traditions upon which to base an estimate of his domestic life. There is likewise a paucity of detail as regards his religious and ecclesiastical life; but in the absence of positive information touching these matters, the whole career of the man points unerringly to a beautiful home life and a consistent daily walk and conversation. As an office-bearer in the church he undoubtedly brought to the duties of his office the same honest purpose, discriminating judgment and tireless zeal in service which marked his career in secular affairs.

Would that some contemporary of our distinguished ancestor were here to-day to draw us within the inner circle of that life, whose outward development was so fruitful of good to his fellowmen, so genial in its companionships, so honest and painstaking in its conduct of business and legislative pursuits, so intense in its application to duty.

THE GENERATION FOLLOWING

In his valuable history, Savage gives a list of the nine children of Andrew Warde, following its recital with these significant words, "of not one of whom is the date of birth known, except Andrew's (1647)." After careful examination of genealogical data contained in local and State histories, biographical volumes and private papers, I have found nothing to contradict that statement. But, while we may not be certain of the exact year of birth of any of these children, we may unquestionably determine the approximate ages of at least several of them. In the valuable manuscript treatise of H. G. Somerby, Esq., of Boston, official genealogist for the N. E. Historical and Genealogical Society, upon the Andrew Warde family, we note the following items:

"The children of Andrew Warde and Hester, his wife, were: (1) Edmund, named in his father's will as being away; as he is not alluded to in his mother's will, he probably died before 1666, without issue. (2) Anna. (3) William, probably born in 1635. In 1656, he purchased a house and land in Fairfield, where he died in 1676, and his widow administered upon his estate. (4) Mary, b. 1637. (5) John, b. 1639. (7) Abigail, b. 1643. (8) Andrew, b. 1645. In 1668 he purchased of his brother Samuel half of the house and home lot which was left to them by their father. (9) Samuel, b. 1647. He died at Fairfield, Jan. 8, 1693, and his widow and son Edmund administered upon his estate.

"The time of birth of Andrew Warde's children is calculated from that of the youngest son. In the year 1659, the date of the father's will, Andrew and Samuel were both minors, and the legacy to them was to be divided when the youngest of the two became of age. The town records of Fairfield show that this division took place in 1668, which places Samuel's birth in 1647. Supposing two years to have intervened between the births of all the children, it would give the ages as I have enumerated them. This calculation is strengthened by the fact that William purchased a house and lot in 1656, the year when he probably arrived at his majority. As Edmund is not alluded to in his mother's will, and no mention made of him in subsequent records, it is probable that he died before that time unmarried. It is also fair to presume that John was not living when his mother died, as his children only are spoken of in her will, and he does not afterward appear in any records."

The mere repetition of the names of the families with which the children of Andrew Warde made alliance seems at once to link more closely the men and women of the present day with the old Fairfield ancestor. The Hunts, Bulkleys, Wakemans, Hawleys, Perrys, Wheelers, Nichols, Dimons, Meigs, Lockwoods and Ogdens, are all of to-day, the representatives of large and influential families in New England, in the Empire State, and in many other States of the Union. Of these families the descendants of Andrew emigrated to what was then the frontier country of western New York and settled in Erie, Genesee and Monroe Counties. They were prominent among the founders of Buffalo, Rochester, and other cities in that part of the State. The descendants of Samuel became Westchester Co. and New York City people, and through this line have come many of the influential men and women of the Metropolis.

The will of Andrew Warde, dated Fairfield, June 8, 1659, is as follows:

"The last will and testament of Andrew Warde, situate and living in Fairfield, being at present, through mercy, well both in mind and memory, yet not knowing how the Lord may deal with mee. I therefore commit my soul to God that gave it, and my body to a comely buriall. And for all my estate as followeth: All our debts first pay'd. Imprimis, I give unto Ester, my beloved wife, forty pounds, to be pay'd out of my movable estate, and one-third part of all my lands and housing in Fairfield during her widowhood; but in case a second marriage be performed then to possess noe part of the said housing or land any longer, but my will is, a third part of what the said lands may be indifferently judged to be rented per annum shall be pay'd unto her use during her life. 2. I give unto my sonn, John, fifty pounds, to be pay'd unto him at the age of one and twenty years. 3. I give unto my daughter, Sarah, forty pounds, to be pay'd within one year after her marriage. 4. I give unto my daughter, Abigall, forty pounds, to be pay'd unto her at the age of eighteen years. 5. I give unto Andrew and Samuel all my housing and lands, with such rights and dues that doth belong, as an installment, equally to be divided when the eldest commeth to the age of one and twenty. And what improvement can be made before the said Andrew commeth to the age of one and twenty, to be equally, to be divided between them. And what improvement can be made of my sonn Samuel's part before he commeth to be twenty-one years of age, to be for his proper use. And at twenty-one years of age to enjoy the full propriety, according to the promises, yet not at all molesting or hindering my wife's thirds during her widdowhood; and in case any of my two sonns Andrew and Samuel dye before they come to age of one and twenty, as aforesaid, then my will that the survivor shall enjoy all that is due to both. 6. And, farther, my will is that what doth remayn of my movable estate after all debts and legacies be pay'd, shall equally be divided between my two sonns, Andrew and Samuel.

"7. And for the rest of my children, they have received their full portions already, except my sonn Edmond, who, if he come to this place, my will is that out of my two younger sons, Andrew and Samuel's, portions, there may be pay'd twenty pounds. In witness to the premises that this is my true and last will, revoking all others, I have hereunto subscribed my name (tho written all by my owne hand).

"ANDREW WARDE."

This will was probated at a session of the court held at Fairfield the 20th day of October, 1659. The inventory of the estate was exhibited to the court and attested by the widow, Ester Warde. There being no executor mentioned in the will, the court duly appointed Ester Warde and William Warde, the son of Andrew, as his administrators. The inventory showed the estate to be valued at the sum of £242 10s.

PEDIGREE OF HESTER (SHERMAN) WARDE.

"The Shermans are of German origin. In the fatherland, the name Sherman, Schurman, Schearmann, Scherman, often occurs, and it was no doubt transferred many centuries ago to the vicinity of London by the Anglo-Saxon emigration, where it still remains numerous. From this metropolitan stock, a scion was transplanted to Dedham, Essex Co., England. The name is derived from the original occupation of the family; they were cloth dressers, or shearers of the cloth. The family at Dedham retained the occupation, and also the coat of arms, worn by those residing in or about London. In New England are found two distinct families bearing the name of Sherman. One of these descends from William Sherman, who came to Plymouth with the Pilgrims and settled at Marshfield, where his descendants still remain. Of his place of birth, or English antecedents, we know nothing. The other is the Dedham stock, a branch of which emigrated to New England and settled in the vicinity of Boston, Mass. The first of the name of that line, of whom we have any knowledge, and perhaps the one who originally emigrated there, was Henry Sherman, the ancestor of Hester (Sherman) Warde, and also of these distinguished men who occupied so exalted a place in the nation's history —Roger Sherman, and the brothers Gen. William T. and Senator Sherman. Edmund Sherman, grandson of the above Henry, was born in England and married Judith Angier. They came to America about 1632 and settled in Watertown, Mass.; thence removed to Wethersfield, Conn., and finally to New Haven, Conn., where they died. They had as their fifth child Hester, born Apr. 1, 1606."—Rev. David Sherman, A.M., Wilbraham, Mass., in N. E. Gen. and Biog. Reg., vol. 24, pp. 62-3.

There are other families of the Ward name living in the United States which have become prominent in social, political and literary circles.

Andrew Henshaw Ward, a distinguished genealogist of half a century ago, tells, in his History of the William Ward family, of the fame achieved by men like General Artemus Ward, of Revolutionary times, and Dr. William Hayes Ward, the eminent writer of our own day.

Then there is the Ward family of Rhode Island, one member of which, the Hon. Samuel Ward, was a member of the Continental Congress and thrice Governor of his State, and a large family of this name in New Jersey, in whose ranks are found men and women of eminence in business and social circles.

It is well known that the Wards of Massachusetts and Connecticut came from the same general locality in England and the coat of arms of the Samuel Ward (Rhode Island) line is similar in almost every detail to that of the Andrew Warde family. It is not unlikely, therefore, that a close family connection might be traced between these three families in the Old Country.

(10) HESTER WARD. b. 1658; will dated Jan. 8, 1730; probated Apr. 18, 1732; m. (1) Apr. 19, 1678, Ebenezer Hawley; b. Sept. 17, 1654; d. Oct., 1681; son Joseph and Catherine (Birdsey) Hawley. This Joseph Hawley was in Stratford, Conn., a proprietor as early as 1650, and probably a few years earlier. His home lot was No. 37, which he purchased of Richard Miles in or before the year 1650. He was prominent in the town and a more than usually energetic business man. He purchased of the Indians a large tract of land in Derby, of which the town allowed him to retain the old Indian planting field, and also another tract which joined it, including Great Hill. He was chosen Deputy in 1665, and many times thereafter until near his decease. His will is dated 1689. He died the following year. (2) Oct. 17, 1682; Ephraim Nichols; b. Dec. 15, 1657; d. 1690; son Isaac and Margaret (Washburn) Nichols. (3) Nov. 16, 1691, Eliphalet Hill; d. 1695; son William and Elizabeth (Jones) Hill. Referring to the stone of Hester Ward in the old Fairfield, Conn., cemetery: "The least preserved of these tomb waifs * * * is the one inscribed to Mrs. Hester Lord; date not legible, but probably 1730. She was a descendant of the noted settler, Andrew Warde, was endowed with rare qualities of mind and form, and married successively four men of wealth and position. Tradition reports her a woman who was widely respected, whose abundant means were dispensed with an open hand."—Address of Wm. A. Beers as published in "The Old Burying Ground of Fairfield," p. 227.

As to the name "Hester": "Andrew Warde's wife was baptized 'Hester.' It is a good old English variant of Esther, and is preferred in literature, as in the 'Scarlet Letter' and other novels. In Andrew's will it is 'Ester.' In her own, it is 'Hester,' both for herself and her grandchild, daughter of William Ward, and 'Hester Burr' for another grandchild. The grandchild, Hester Ward, married four times, and calls herself finally, 'Hester Lord' in her own will. She is also called 'Hester' in her first marriage contract. Abigail, daughter of Andrew Warde, had a daughter who was named Hester in her father's (Dimon's) will. Moses Dimon's grandson, John, had a daughter baptized 'Hester.' * * * Andrew's wife was surely Hester, and it was only long after her death that those who knew better succeeded in making her descendants call their girls 'Esther.' I do not find Hester Ward's name ever written 'Esther' in her lifetime."—Emory McClintock correspondence.

(11) SARAH NICHOLS. b. Dec. 1, 1651; m. Oct. 20, 1674, Moses Wheeler, Jr.; b. July 5, 1651; d. Jan. 30, 1724; son Moses and Miriam (Hawley) Wheeler.

Moses Wheeler, 1st, was born in England, probably in the County of Kent in 1598, where the Wheeler family had resided for over four hundred years. He left London in 1638 and, coming to America, joined the New Haven Colony, and was among the first to receive an allotment of land in that Colony. He married Miriam Hawley, a sister of Joseph Hawley, one of the first and most influential settlers in this Colony. Here he resided until 1648, when he was expelled from the Colony, because of a slight infringement of one of the Blue Laws, for which this Colony was so noted. According to tradition, he had been absent from home for several months. The day upon which he returned from his long journey was Sunday. The happiness which he naturally felt on being united to his family once more completely banished from his remembrance all idea of the Blue Laws, and he accordingly kissed his wife and children. This act coming to the knowledge of the authorities, he was immediately expelled from the Colony. He then joined the little settlement of Stratford. Here he purchased his home lot from the Indians on the shore, near what is now known as Sandy Hollow. He afterwards bought a vast tract of land near the Ferry. He was allowed by the General Court to keep the Ferry. He built a stone house on his property, which descended to his son, Moses 2d, who about the year 1670 built a wooden house very near the old stone one, which remained standing until May 12, 1891, when the old ruin was blown up with dynamite. (See photo.) Ten years previous to his death, Moses Wheeler 1st disposed of most of his property to his son—Moses 2d, to whom the homestead descended; Samuel, and his son-in-law, Joseph Walker, receiving land he had bought of the Indians as far north as Derby.

"The Indians living on the Golden Hill, Bridgeport, reservation, when all but four of the tribe had departed to the happy hunting grounds, in 1659 gave their first deed to the whites, and Moses Wheeler was the lucky man."—From Bridgeport Telegram.

Moses Wheeler 1st, besides being one of the largest land owners, was one of the leading and most influential men in the town. He was a strong, powerful man, of whom the Indians stood in mortal terror. No wonder, if tradition is true. One day several Indians called at his house. He understood that their purpose was to kill him. He was engaged in making soap. It was boiling in a huge kettle and was very hot. He invited his guests to take a drink of cider, and while they were partaking, he took the paddle with which he was stirring it and covered them with the scalding soap. He died on the 15th of January, 1698, aged 100 years, and enjoys the distinction of being the first centenarian white man in New England. He is buried in the old Congregational Church yard at Stratford. A rough stone, cut from the rocks at the homestead, marks his grave. Moses Wheeler 2d died Jan. 30, 1724, in the 74th year of his age. He is buried at the side of his father, and a similar stone marks his grave. He left a large estate, making him among the wealthy men of Stratford. His son Elnathan occupied the homestead. Stephen Wheeler, a descendant, was the last of the family to live there.

The name "Edmund Ward" is closely identified with the history of Eastchester, Westchester Co., N. Y. In Bolton's Hist. of Westchester Co., vol. 1, p. 211, we find the following item: "In the year 1700 it was resolved by the inhabitants of the town of Eastchester that Edmund Ward shall have and hold sixty acres of land, in consideration that the said Edmund Ward do pay the Indians purely, and clear the said town of and from the said payment when need be, etc." Some years earlier than this transaction, it is likely that Edmund Ward, and possibly his aged father Samuel, removed from Fairfield to Eastchester. Samuel died Jan. 8, 1693, and his widow, Hannah, and son Edmund administered upon his estate. Under date Dec. 28, 1699, we find the following in the Greenfield, Conn., Probate Records: "Edmund Ward, belonging to the manor of Fordham, in the county of Westchester, in the province of New York, administrator on the estate of my honored father, Samuel Ward, late of Fairfield, in the Colony of Connecticut, deceased, at a special court held at Fairfield, Mar. 29, 1693, have by these presents, delivered unto my loving brother, William Ward, according to order of court, for his legacy, the several tracts of land, hereafter mentioned," etc. Edmund Ward was one of the foremost men of this new settlement of Eastchester. By special grant of the crown, he, in company with others, became proprietor of what was known as the Long Reach, or New Patent. "Anne, by the grace of God, of Great Britain, France and Ireland, etc., the Queen, defender of the faith, etc., grants to Col. William Peartree and others (among them Edmund Ward) a tract of land in Westchester Co. Dated 23rd of Sep. in the 7th year of her Majesty's reign, 1708." (Bolton Hist. Westchester Co., vol. 1, p. 211.)

Mr. Ward was very active in all affairs pertaining to the welfare of the new settlement. He was Town Clerk, Recorder, etc., and held many offices of trust and responsibility. "The name of Ward was, during the 18th and the first half of the 19th centuries, that of the strongest family in the town of Eastchester. Edmund Ward was one of the patentees of the Long Reach grant. His son Edmund was the Colonial Member of Assembly, and his two grandchildren were distinguished in the Revolution—Edmund, for his inflexible self-sacrifice and loyalty, and Stephen, for his services in the patriot cause. Charles and Jonathan, sons of Stephen, rose to offices of influence and honor in the town." (Scharff History of Westchester Co., vol. 2, p. 750.)

Among other pedigrees given by Mr. Bolton in his History of Westchester Co. is that of Ward (vol. 1, p. 254). Edmund Ward, of Eastchester, patentee of Long Reach, is there recorded as son of Andrew Warde, of Fairfield. Some members of the Westchester branch of the family adhere to this view.

(59) WILLIAM WARD, Pelham, N. Y. b. abt. 1678; m. Hannah Pell; d. 1778; dau. John Pell, proprietor of the Manor of Pelham.

This John Ward was one of the executors of his nephew Edmund's estate. "I further nominate, constitute and appoint my well beloved wife, Phebe Ward, and my loving uncle, John Ward, executors of this my last will and testament." (From will of Edmund Ward, proved in Prerogative Court of New York, Apr. 27, 1732.) John Ward late in life seems to have removed to Peekskill, N. Y., where he was buried, and his monument is found. He thus became the founder of the large and influential family of that name in Peekskill, and was the ancestor of Judge John Currey and his brother Rev. Daniel Currey, D.D., one of the leading Methodist Episcopal clergymen of his day.

STEPHEN BURROUGHS 1st "was an extensive land owner at Stratford and Cornwall, Conn. In 1737, in company with fifty others, he purchased from the State in fee simple the whole of that township, comprising some 30,000 acres."—"Francis Nicholls and His Descendants," p. 76.

STEPHEN BURROUGHS 2d "was in many respects a remarkable man, not only as a pre-eminently successful merchant ship builder, ship owner and navigator—his vessels ploughing the seas in every direction, even to the distant ports of the Orient—but notwithstanding the magnitude and importance of his commercial interests, he was ardently given to philosophical speculation, becoming a recognized authority in the science of astronomy, which subject he pursued with all the pertinacity and acumen of a Newton or a Herschel; his deductions being quoted by more than one of the standard treatises of the day. He, moreover, occupied an exalted position in the realm of mathematics, being the author of the decimal monetary system of the U. S., the formula of which he submitted to Hon. William Samuel Johnson, who was U. S. Senator from Connecticut at the time; and he recognizing its practical utility, presented it to Congress, and an enactment was at once had under which Connecticut and Massachusetts began in 1785 to coin copper cents; the full decimal currency being evolved by degrees, until the full decimal system was made legal in 1798. In the old Stratfield Cemetery at Bridgeport, Conn., is his monument, upon which is inscribed the following epitaph:

" 'Stephen Burroughs, Esq., a man distinguished by his industry and his talents and acquirements, self-taught and original; he explored the vast fields of mathematical and astronomical science, beyond all the efforts of a Cassini or a Newton, and made discoveries of a most useful and astonishing nature, but, in consequence of his blindness, his discoveries are lost to the world. This monument is erected by Pixlee Judson.' "—"Francis Nicholls and His Descendants," pp. 77-8.

Aaron Burr belonged to a Puritan family that for three generations had given to the Church and State men of eminence. He was graduated at Yale in his nineteenth year, having gained one of the three Berkeley scholarships, which entitled him to maintenance at the college for two years after graduating. While pursuing his post-graduate studies he was converted, and at once turned his attention to theology. At the age of twenty-two he became pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Newark, N. Jersey, where he soon acquired a commanding reputation as a pulpit orator. Here he also established a school for boys, which proved highly successful. He prepared for his students a Latin grammar (1752), which was long in use at Princeton. In later years he published a small work on the Supreme Deity of our Lord Jesus Christ. In 1748 he became president of Princeton College. In the Autumn of 1756 he resigned his charge at Newark and removed to Princeton, where he died from overwork.—Appleton's Encyc. of Biog., vol. 1, p. 465.

1st marriage: 1398, THEODOSIA +.

Col. Burr and his sister, Sarah, were left orphans at an early age, and were put under the care of Judge Tapping Reeve of Litchfield, Conn. He was prepared to enter Princeton college, of which his father had been President, at the age of eleven years. On account of his extreme youth, his entrance was deferred until the year 1769, when, as a special favor, he was admitted to the Sophomore Class in his fourteenth year. He was graduated with distinction in 1772, and began the study of law under Judge Reeve at Litchfield. At the first call for troops in 1775, he hastened to join the patriot army at Boston, and accompanied Col. Benedict Arnold in his expedition to Quebec, from which engagement he returned with a brilliant record, having attained the rank of Major. In July, 1777, he was promoted to rank of Lieut.-

Colonel with command of his regiment. He met and defeated the British forces at Hackensack and drove them back to Paulus Hook. At Monmouth, he enhanced his military fame by brilliant leadership at the head of a brigade. At the close of the war, he resumed the study of law and was admitted to the bar in 1780. The year 1783 finds him engaged in his profession in New York City, where he stood among the leaders of the bar, with no rival but Alexander Hamilton. In 1788 he was appointed Attorney-General by Governor Clinton. Three years later he was elected to the U. S. Senate over Gen. Philip Schuyler, where he served for the ensuing six years with signal ability. He entered the Presidential contest of 1800 and was one of the two highest candidates of the successful Republican party for the office of President of the U. S. By vote of the House of Representatives Thomas Jefferson was chosen President and Aaron Burr, Vice-President. Several years later he was a candidate for Governor of the State of New York, but was defeated by Morgan Lewis. The latter part of his life was clouded by many vicissitudes, both of fortune and reputation.

"The most prominent citizen of Ridgefield in Revolutionary times was Colonel Bradley. He graduated at Yale in 1758. Was appointed Justice of the Peace in 1770 by King George III. In 1777 he was commissioned Colonel of the 5th Conn. Regiment, by John Hancock, President of the Continental Congress; served to the end of the war and was appointed the first Marshall of the District of Columbia by George Washington. He was a Federalist in politics. In appearance a tall, dark-haired, black-eyed man, of great dignity and much influence throughout the State. President Washington was his personal friend and visited at his Connecticut home."—Mrs. Mary E. Rockwell in Conn. Magazine, vol xii, No. 1.

"Hezekiah Sturges was conspicuous in the civil and military affairs of Fairfield. He was commissioned ensign of the County Militia in 1765, lieutenant in 1767, and captain in 1771. He was reputed to be a 'brave and loyal man.' During the burning of Fairfield by Gen. Tryon, a party of British soldiers met in the house of Capt. Sturges, 'partook of a goodly repast of baked turkey, chicken and ham, with a quantity of wine' (old record,) and in return for their hospitable entertainment, plundered and burned the house. The Church of England building, which was on the Millplain green near, was next burned by the same soldiers. Capt. Sturges fought desperately to defend his town during the attack of the British. At one time he ordered his men and a cannon in front of the Bulkley house on Beach lane, the headquarters of Gen. Tryon (except one other, the only house left unburned by the British,) and giving the family within a few minutes to leave, would have demolished the place but for the arrival on the scene of Gen. Silliman.

"In the spring of 1779-80, Capt. Sturges rebuilt his house, reserving a large upper room in it for the 'carrying on' of the Episcopal service. Mr. Sayre, the Church of England missionary, was a loyalist, and his conduct during the invasion of the town by the British was voted to be traitorous, and he was placed under military arrest and guarded by his old parishioner, Capt. Sturges. In 1783 or 1784, a new Episcopal church, Trinity, was built again on the Millplain green; later, this was moved to Southport. On its records are the births and deaths in the line of Hezekiah Sturges after the Revolution; earlier, they are in the records of the 1st Congregational Church, Fairfield. Capt. Sturges received £817 payment of damages from the General Assembly for the destruction of his property in the war. His estate, which was large, was distributed September 5, 1804, after the death of his widow, who was Abigail Dimon, daughter of Ebenezer and Mary (Burr) Dimon, of Fairfield. Capt. Sturges is buried in Burial Hill Cemetery, and well-preserved stones record his death in 1792, aged 67, and that of his wife in 1803, aged 71."—Memorial of the Kindred and Ancestry of Harriet L. Sturges Goulden, by Harriet E. Goulden Whitmore, pp. 9-10.

1st marriage: 2176, JOHN +. 2177, LEVI +. 2178, DEBORAH +.

"In the year 1807 Deacon Levi Ward accompanied his sons, John and Levi, Jr., M. D., with a few neighbors to Western New York, then called

'Genesee Woods,' purposing to share with them the privations of pioneer life. These brave hearted and truly Christian men carried with them, as they left New England, their ancestral, heroic, puritan piety, of which they were never for an hour ashamed. When stopping for the night at a tavern or farm house they would, with permission cheerfully given, spend an evening hour in singing sacred songs, the sound of their voices calling together settlers by the score. 'Deacon Ward,' the title he ever bore, would then give a brief, earnest, practical exhortation, when all would bow in social worship. It was a strange event to many of these emigrants, who, alas, had in too many instances practically forgotten the religious usages of early life. Reaching their place of destination, the father and sons purchased adjoining lands, reclaimed them from native wildness, and secured homes of comfort, if not of luxury, for themselves and their families. The father was less in public life than were the sons, but, without an hour's abatement, held a large place in the reverence and affection of all who were favored with his acquaintance and friendship."—From Biographical Sketch by Rev. F. DeW. Ward, D.D.

The following excerpt from a Bergen, Genesee county, newspaper sufficiently indicates the esteem in which he was held by the community: "Died at Bergen, Deacon Levi Ward, aged 92 years, 10 months and 22 days. Three children, twenty-three grandchildren and sixty-five great-grandchildren survive him; twenty-two grandchildren and great-grandchildren had preceded him to the grave; making the whole number of his descendants, at the time of his death, one hundred and thirteen. He had survived his own and a large part of the succeeding generation of his friends and neighbors. As a citizen, a friend, a husband and a parent he had performed his public and social duties with integrity, fidelity and faithfulness. His death was calm, peaceful and triumphant, an appropriate close to such a life."

"Mr. Ward was Supervisor of Eastchester at the time of the beginning of the struggle for independence, to which he gave his most hearty and valuable support. He was elected a member of the Provincial Congress of May, 1775, and in 1777 of the New York Assembly. After the war he was Judge of the County, State Senator, Member of Congress, and in 1792 Presidential elector. His early residence was in the historical mansion known as 'Wards,' which was destroyed in the Revolution. He afterwards resided in Mt. Vernon, N. Y."—Scharff, vol. ii, p. 747.

" 'Ward's House' stood on the site of the residence of the late Judge Gifford. It was formerly the property of the late Judge Stephen Ward, a very prominent and respected citizen of the town of Eastchester. His house, which was on the Tuckahoe road, was the point for a detachment of Revolutionary troops, dependent upon the lines above, and as such it was attacked several times. Upon one occasion the American force, stationed in and around it, was attacked by a strong British expedition under Capt. Campbell. The American commander was ready to surrender when an unlucky shot was fired from one of the windows. Capt. Campbell fell dead. Many Americans were slaughtered in revenge and twenty-seven were taken captive. The place being again garrisoned, it was decided by the enemy to burn the house. This was done in Nov., 1778, the sidings, doors, windows and shutters being transported to Kings Bridge, to be used in building barracks for the British troops." —Hist. Westchester Co. by Shonnard-Spooner, p. 442.

"John Ward was an officer in the Loyal American Regiment, and entered the service of the Crown as early as 1776. During the war he was frequently in battle. In 1783 the Loyal Americans went to New Brunswick, Canada, and when, in the course of that year, the corps was disbanded, Maj. Ward settled at St. John as a merchant. Here he made for himself a fine reputation, both in public and private life. He filled various public stations, and for many years enjoyed the appellation of 'The Father of the City.' At the time of his death, he was not only the Senior Magistrate of the city and county of St. John, but the oldest merchant and half-pay officer in New Brunswick. Mr. Ward was a gentleman of noble and venerable appearance. He died in the 93d year of his age. His remains were taken to Trinity Church, where the impressive funeral service of the Church of England was read, and were subsequently interred in the New Burying Ground, followed to the grave by one of the largest funeral processions ever seen in the city, including the Mayor, Common Council, Recorder, and a vast concourse of other citizens, all anxious to pay the last tribute of respect to the memory of one who was intimately associated with the early history of the country." —"Loyalists of the Amer. Revolution," Sabine, vol. ii, p. 400.

"After the burning of Trinity Church, Fairfield, Conn., by the British, the services of the Church of England were held at the house of Abraham Bulkley, Esq., opposite the meeting house green, and at John Sherwood's at Greenfield Hill, and at Hezekiah Sturges' at Mill Plain. At a meeting of the wardens and vestry of the church, Sept., 1779, at the residence of Mr. Sherwood, a committee was appointed to hire Mr. Philo Shelton as a lay reader, in which office he continued until his ordination. He was one of four young men first ordained in the United States by Bishop Seabury at Middletown, Conn., Aug. 3, 1785, Bishop Seabury having been the first American Bishop consecrated to that office in Scotland Nov. 4, 1784. Dr. Shelton had the honor of introducing the first Book of Common Prayer, after it had been revised from that of the Church of England, by the convention of the Episcopal Church held in Philadelphia, Oct. 16, 1786."—Mrs. Schenck's Hist. of Fairfield, Conn, vol. 2, p. 456.

"Rev. William Shelton (son of above) graduated at Gen. Theol. Seminary, New York City, 1823. Preached at Mill Plain and Southport, Conn. Removed to Buffalo, N. Y., in Aug., 1829, and became Rector of ——— Cathedral. In the year 1879 he celebrated the 50th anniversary of his settlement in this parish after a long and useful ministry, beloved by all."—id, p. 459.

"Commodore Isaac Hull at the age of fourteen chose the sea for his field of action, and began his career as a cabin boy on a merchant ship. The vessel was wrecked and the Captain was saved by the heroism of his cabin boy, afterward to become so famous in naval history. Hull became commander of a ship that sailed to the West Indies, before he was twenty-six years of age. He entered the service of the United States Navy as 4th Lieut., Mar. 9, 1798.

Advanced to the grade of 1st Lieut. two years later. First saw active service on ship Constitution, 'Old Ironsides.' Admiral Farragut once remarked 'Isaac Hull was as able a seaman as ever sailed a ship.' May 18, 1804, Hull was promoted to rank of Commander. Two years later he became Captain, and while in command of the ship Constitution, carried Joel Barlow, a relative, on his mission to France as Ambassador. His fame as a naval officer rests largely upon his marvellous achievement in defeating the English frigate 'Guerriere.' For this exploit he was presented with a gold medal by Congress. His closing days were spent at his home in Philadelphia, Pa., and there his body was laid to rest, a beautiful monument marking his burial place."

"Gen. Hull was admitted to the bar in the year 1775. At the commencement of the war of the Revolution he was chosen Captain of a company raised in Derby, Conn., and joined the forces of Gen. Washington at Cambridge. Promoted to rank of Major in 8th Mass. Regiment. In 1779 was made Lieut.-Colonel. He was in many battles and was distinguished for his bravery in action. He commanded a successful expedition against Morrisania and received the thanks of Washington and the National Congress. Later he become Major-Gen. of the 3d Division Mass. Militia. Represented his State in the Senate. In 1805 was appointed Governor of the Territory of Michigan by President Jefferson."—Appleton Encyc.

"A few miles from Guilford was the old Ward farm, owned by Eli Foote's family. This place had been closely associated with the life of earlier generations, and was known as 'Nutplains.' This estate was at one time the property of Andrew Ward, a son of (Col.) Andrew Ward, and a General under Washington in the Revolution. General Ward was prominent in the regulation of local affairs. He was a great reader, and it is said that he used to come home from the Legislature with one side of his saddle-bags filled with books, and the other with nails. General Ward's daughter Diana married Abram Chittenden of Guilford, and another daughter Roxanna married Eli Foote, a Guilford merchant in trade with the West Indies. He was a man of fine presence, charming manners and great cultivation . . . . . One of Eli Foote's children, Roxanna, married the Rev. Lyman Beecher. In Mr. Beecher's autobiography he describes one of his early visits to Nutplains where he sometimes went in his college vacations with 'Ben Baldwin,' who was engaged to 'Betsey Chittenden,' one of General Ward's granddaughters. He found the girls out in the old spinning mill, which was a favorite meeting place for all the young people; there the girls had the best of times, reading aloud, talking over their love affairs or receiving their visitors while they spun. Mr. Beecher recognized Roxanna's charms the instant he saw her. . . . . Many years after Harriet Beecher's marriage to Professor Stowe she wrote thus of the old days: 'Among my earliest recollections are those of a visit to "Nutplains" immediately after my mother's death. I can now remember, at the close of what seemed to me a long day's ride, arriving after dark at a lonely little white farmhouse, and being brought into a large parlor where a cheerful wood fire was crackling, partly burned down into great heavy coals. There was a little tea table set out before the fire. After supper I remember Grandma's reading prayers, as was her cus-town of Guilford, Dr. Ward married Mehitabel, youngest daughter of Daniel Hand, of Revolutionary fame. He soon after removed, with his young bride, to Haddam on the Connecticut River, where he remained for seventeen years, practicing his profession with a skill that secured for him a large place in public esteem. As a successful practitioner and a sympathizing friend he still lives in the pleasant and grateful memory of that community and of his native town. During his residence in Haddam he was selected several times as a delegate to represent the County of Middlesex at the "State Medical Society," of which he was an active and influential member. About that time the distant "Genesee Country," in Western New York, was arresting public attention. And so Dr. Ward, his father, the Deacon, his elder brother, John, and the wives and children, together with a few neighbors, determined to make the journey . "The year 1807 saw the aged sire, and his two sons with their young families settled in Bergen, Genesee county, eighteen miles west of Rochester. It was on Saturday when the emigrants arrived at their new home in the wilderness. Accustomed when in Connecticut to a regular attendance upon public worship, the next morning saw them assembled at the house of a new settler (fourteen or more in number), prayer was offered by the patriarch of the group; a sermon was read; and music was led by Dr. Ward, long conductor of a choir in his early home." Ten years this man of many virtues lived and practiced his profession in Bergen. Then at the age of 46, he removed to the village of Rochester, now grown to be a city of 200,000 inhabitants. He was an important factor in the early growth of the city, and interested in nearly every effort out of which have grown the vast commercial enterprises of to-day. He held many and important offices, both in the church and in municipal affairs, and died full of good works, having served his day and generation for ninety years.

Dr. J. M. Ward came from the Meigs line, of whom it was said "they thought more than they spoke." His father's family moved to Northford, Conn., from Killingworth, Conn., when he was an infant, and to Plymouth, Conn., when he was twelve years of age. Josiah and his sister Chloe used to sing contra together in Plymouth Church, of which their father was Warden. Josiah was taught by Bishop Griswold of Plymouth at a select school, and was an excellent scholar. He afterwards taught school in Southington and then became acquainted with Belinda Carter, whom he afterwards married. From Southington Josiah and Belinda's brother studied medicine under Doctor Percival (father of Dr. James G.). Studies completed, they each took horses and rode westward until they came to Fishkill on the Hudson; then they agreed one to go north, the other south. Carter went north to Albany, was taken ill of scarlet fever and died, and his horse was sent back to Southington. Josiah Ward was soon sent for to attend Doctor Percival, who was ill of fever. Percival died and Josiah succeeded to his practice in Kensington, where he remained till about the year 1819, when he bought out Dr. Hand of Worthington. He had a rapidly increasing practice till he succumbed to the "spotted fever epidemic" of 1825, with a list of sixty patients in his care, embracing several neighboring villages, dying on a wave of prosperity and honor, leaving not one enemy.

"Col. Ward was one of the oldest military officers in the United States, having been commissioned in the War of 1812. He was an active member of the Connecticut Historical Soc. He was one of the earliest friends of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum in New York and contributed to the sum raised to send Dr. Gallaudet abroad on his mission of inquiry as to the feasibility of instructing the deaf and dumb. He was one of the founders of the 'Retreat for the Insane'; Chief Engineer of the Hartford Fire Dept.; member of the Masonic Order."—N. Eng. Gen. & Hist. Reg., vol ii, p. 95.

Mr. Ward was born in Litchfield, Conn., and came to Monroe Co., N. Y., in the year 1800 as an assistant clerk with Augustus Griswold in a store belonging to Judge John Tryon and Amasa Adams, built in the year 1799 at the place known as the "Old Landing" at the head of schooner navigation on the west bank of Irondequoit Creek, in the town of Brighton. He left the country in 1803 and returned in Dec., 1812, and in Mar., 1813, was employed in Daniel Penfield's land office, where he continued nine years, and was acting Postmaster or Agent twenty-five years. His correct business tact, together with his peculiar style of writing, gave him a large amount of business which was always correctly done, and with the best of satisfaction. The books and records kept by him as Town Clerk, together with his minutes as secretary of Penfield Union Lodge, will justify the above statement. He was also the writer of the history of the early settlements of the town of Brighton, at "Old Landing" on Irondequoit Creek, beginning with the purchase in 1796 of two hundred acres of land by Solomon Tryon of Litchfield, Conn. His politics were moderate, but firm. He belonged to the old Jackson school of Democrats. He was also firm in his religion, being brought up and early dedicated in the Protestant Episcopal Church, and was chosen Warden at the first organization of Trinity Church in the town of Penfield. He continued his residence at the latter place up to 1857, at which time he sold out and removed to Rochester, remaining there for three years. The Rev. Henry Lockwood writes: "Among the earliest recollections of my own youthful days is that of seeing Mr. Ward and his family, as frequent and devout worshippers in St. Luke's Church, Rochester." On leaving Rochester, he first resided with his son Henry Ward, Jr., at Seneca Falls, N. Y., and lastly with his son-in-law, Mr. Richardson, in the town of Victor, Ontario Co., N. Y., where he died, as he had lived, in full faith of a glorious resurrection. His whole career was a commentary on a Christian life.

At the age of twenty-three Mr. Ward was chosen one of the Assessors of East Chester, and two years later he was elected Town Clerk. From 1802-1806 was Sheriff of Westchester Co. The succeeding year he took his seat as one of the six representatives of the Southern District of New York, in the State Senate. In 1809 he was member of the Council of Appointment, which at that time controlled the official patronage of the State. In 1814 he was elected to the 14th Congress and held the office for one term. In 1821 he was member of a Convention to revise the State Constitution, and in 1828 became Surrogate of Westchester Co. The duties of this important office he discharged to general satisfaction, and in 1840 having reached the age of seventy years, he retired in obedience to the Constitutional provision.

"The maternal great-grandfather of Mr. A. G. Jennings was killed on his horse by the British at Ridgefield, Conn., Apr. 27, 1777. His sword is now in possession of the subject of this sketch, and his sash and coat are in the Trumbull gallery in New Haven, Coun. Mr. Jennings began his career in N. York City in 1836, as clerk for his brother-in-law, Mr. J. S. Pierson, in the wholesale clothing business; became partner in 1844. In 1867 he purchased a small lace factory in Jersey City and gradually increased his facilities for conducting this business by new improvements. He visited England in 1870, purchased improved machinery, procured skilled operators, designers, draughtsmen, etc., and established his business upon a permanent basis. His establishment in Brooklyn, the 'Jennings Lace Works,' employed seven hundred persons in 1892. Mr. Jennings has been a director of the American Silk Ass'n since its formation." (Nat. Encyc. Amer. "Edward Ward was the first to conceive the idea of making or giving the rotary motion to a rifle bullet by cutting the groove and making the "twist" in the barrel of a rifle. He spent about ten years in experimenting with it, previous to 1840, and finally perfected a crude wooden machine that enabled him to cut the grooves and give the projectile the rotary motion on leaving the muzzle of the gun. He never applied for a patent for the idea, but contented himself with changing the old smooth bored guns of his neighbors so that they might have the holiday in visiting the many turkey shooting matches then so popular and carry off the turkeys with the new-fangled idea (so-called). He often used to tell me, when I was a little chap, how he would go to many places in Eastern Connecticut with a couple of neighbors whose guns he had "twisted" and about the lot of turkeys they would bring home."—Letter from his son, Edward Pelatiah Ward, of Deposit, N. Y.

Mr. L. M. Ward lived in Genesee Co., N. Y., until fifteen years of age and supplemented a common school education by attending the High School and a private academy. The family moved from New York State to Fond-du-Lac in the Spring of 1852 and located on a farm just south of the city. "Lyman worked on the farm with his father and attended the Marr street school under Van Ness and Brown and Willoby and Schoolege Academy. It was while attending Marr street school that I made his acquaintance. He was a bright scholar and a leader in debate, the orator of the school. After finishing his education he began the study of law in the office of David Wood, and remained until President Lincoln's call for 75,000 troops. He enlisted for three months in Company I, First Wisconsin Infantry, and after serving his term, re-enlisted in Company A, Fourteenth Wisconsin Infantry, Oct. 16, 1861. He was elected captain Nov. 9, 1861, promoted to the rank of major, April 18, 1862, and lieutenant-colonel on June 17, 1862, colonel on Jan. 23, 1863, and finally brevet brigadier-general March 13, 1865. He commanded the Second Brigade, Third Division, Seventeenth Army Corps, March 9, 1864; First Brigade, Third Division, Seventeenth Army Corps, Dec. 7, 1864, and the Second Brigade, Third Division, Sixteenth Army Corps, April 27, 1865. He was mustered out of service at Mobile, Ala., Oct. 9, 1865, and received his final discharge at Madison, Oct. 28, 1865. He remained at his home in Fond du Lac until 1866, when he moved to Benton Harbor, Mich., where he lived until he died. Forty-eight years have come and gone since Company A of the Fourteenth Wisconsin was organized at Fond du Lac, and Lyman M. Ward elected captain, but the loving memory of the past remains with us, and has brought us together in reunion. Only a few of Company A remain on this side. The youth and enthusiasm we owned are pretty well gone, for we have sobered down into old age, and now wear the grey. The world loves and remembers the soldier. Tales of the bivouac and camp fire have a fascination for the young and old alike. Lyman M. Ward was the bravest of soldiers, an able statesman and an honorable man. In battle fearless, the magnetic soldier. His ability as a popular orator and his military reputation gave him prominence in his adopted State of Michigan. He won, as an orator, a reputation on the stump and in the Assembly. His popularity as a speaker was not confined to his home State. We of the Fourteenth can attest to his ability, and no one could catch more quickly than he, the spirit of his audience. At every reunion and camp fire of the Fourteenth he was listened to with deep interest. As colonel of the Fourteenth he was worshipped by his officers and men. As commander of a brigade, the same feeling existed to a marked degree. He was at all times the soldier's friend, during the war and since, whether in camp, on the march, or on the field of battle. Since the war his greatest pleasure was in meeting with his old comrades in reunion. He will be missed at our meetings."—Tribute from his fellow soldiers.

When quite young Mr. Ward came with his father and brothers from Haddam, Conn., to Bergen, Genesee County, N. Y., where they resided until 1818, when they removed to the then village of Rochester. Here Mr. Ward continued to reside until his death. He entered upon his business life as a merchant in company with his brother, William Harvey Ward. This, however, he did not follow long, leaving it to engage with his father in the management of the land office of the State of Connecticut School Fund involving the care, management, sale, etc., of what was known as the 100,000 acre, or Connecticut, tract. At the same time he commenced the insurance business, which he conducted so long and so successfully. His strict business habits and his successful management soon gave him an established reputation as a capable and reliable financier. He early became the representative of the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company and of the Bronson estate, a large moneyed estate of New York City, and as such and for the State of Connecticut he continued for a long term of years to invest and reinvest large sums of money. Although the business mentioned comprised an important part of the active work done by Mr. Ward through many years, still it was by no means the whole of it. He attended to the management of many estates, and was the kind, the safe, the disinterested adviser of thousands from whom he received but little or no compensation. To the widow and the orphan he ever extended sound advice and liberal assistance. He was, moreover, a man of a thoroughly public spirit. He was ever ready to promote what seemed for the public good, in a business way, as well as in charitable enterprises. At an early day he became secretary of the Monroe County Mutual Insurance Company, and continued such during the existence of the company, some thirty years. He was a director of the old Rochester City Bank during its life, a director of the Bank of Orleans, and a trustee of the Monroe County Savings Institution. He was one of the original founders of the Rochester Gas Company, and a long time its president. He was a director and president of the House Telegraph Company while it existed; was a director of the Genesee Valley Railroad Company; a director and secretary of the board of managers of the Rochester high school, and a manager and for one year president of the board of managers of the Western House of Refuge; a promoter and president of the Athenæum, and a manager of the Industrial School. He served on the building committee in building the court house, the poor house and the City Bank buildings.

Although he did not seek official life his fellow citizens compelled him to serve them as supervisor, alderman and finally as mayor of the city, to which position he was elected in 1849. It is needless to say that he filled all these positions with marked fidelity and intelligence.

Notwithstanding his numerous business engagements Mr. Ward always found time to do his full share in promoting charitable enterprises. From its foundation down to the failure of his health, Mr. Ward was a trustee and the president of the Rochester Female Charitable Society. He was a director of the City Hospital from its foundation. In short, he aided both by counsel and liberal donations almost all worthy works of charity.

In religious matters Mr. Ward was ever an earnest and effective worker. He was for many years a trustee of the First Presbyterian Church and superintendent of its Sunday School. Later he conceived the project of founding a church near his own residence, on the east side of the river. It is well known that to his energy and taste and the appropriation of his own means is to be attributed the existence of the prosperous church society and the beautiful edifice of St. Peter's. From this hallowed place, near to where the deceased had so long lived, his remains were taken to their eternal rest.

In all the business relations which Mr. Ward sustained, his character was conspicuous. While his judgment was much sought after and relied upon as clear, close, and yet comprehensive, still it may be safely said that the crowning features of his life were sterling integrity, unsuspected virtue, consistent Christianity. He was benevolent because it was consistent with his nature and character, not from any of the lower motives nor from mere impulse. A man of great self-reliance, he was nevertheless as modest and gentle as a child. He was not merely a professor of religion, but he lived the life of the righteous. In the lives of such as he Christianity finds and must find its greatest bulwark against the scoffing and skeptic spirit of our day and generation.

In social and domestic life, Mr. Ward shed about him the most cultivated and genial influences. He always dispensed a generous but refined hospitality. In his family the kindest and most devoted husband and father, he inspired the deepest love and the highest respect.

(4666) CHRISTOPHER L. WARD, Towanda, Pa. b. in New Milford, Pa., Oct. 27, 1807; d. May 14, 1870; m. (1) Hannah Raynsford; d. Feb. 25, 1836; (2) Hannah Charlotte Potter, dau. Horace and Hannah (Frisbie) Potter.

1st marriage: 7674, ELLEN; m. (Gen.) William H. Miller. 2d marriage: 7675, MARY, Charleston, S. Carolina. 7676, HENRY +.

Mr. C. L. Ward's father and grandfather came from Connecticut. In his youth he was apprenticed to a printer. Of a studious disposition he made the most of every opportunity for self instruction and his industry, together with his love of reading, laid the foundation of the liberal education which he acquired mainly through his own efforts.

From 1831 to 1836 he owned, edited and published the "Susquehanna Register," a weekly paper. He gave up the paper in 1836 upon which occasion Horace Greeley's "New Yorker," April 9, 1836, says:

"C. L. Ward, Esq., has withdrawn from the editorial chair of the 'Susquehanna Register' at Montrose, Pa. He bases his withdrawal on a disinclination to political life in its present aspects and under the prevailing doctrines of the day. The 'Register' under the auspices of Mr. Ward, has held a high rank among the better sort of journals, and we sincerely regret the loss which the profession as well as the readers of that paper have sustained."

From 1833 to 1836 he held the office of Register of Wills and Recorder of Deeds of Susquehanna County, which were the only political offices to which he ever aspired or held. In 1837 he was admitted to the bar in Susquehanna County and shortly after that removed to Towanda in Bradford County, Pennsylvania, where he lived until his death.

He became an extensive land owner and was interested in the development of the country through the building of railroads. He was the president of the Atlantic & Great Western Railroad during its construction through Pennsylvania and through his instrumentality the means for its completion were obtained in Europe.

In politics he was a Jacksonian Democrat. The one diversion which he made from the early resolve not to seek or accept political offices was during the Presidency of Franklin Pierce.

In 1853 Col. James Gadsden, United States Minister to Mexico was endeavoring to secure a treaty from Mexico to settle a boundary dispute arising under the treaty of 1849 and to secure other rights and advantages to the United States. Questions arose in the course of the negotiations concerning which Gadsden had no instructions and he was obliged to delay all negotiations until he received instructions from Washington. The President called upon Mr. Ward to act as a special emissary, entrusting to him verbal instructions to Col. Gadsden, relying upon his ability and integrity rather than upon a written dispatch. The only documents which he carried were his credentials, copy of which is as follows:

Department of State, Washington,
Oct. 22, 1853.

Hon. James Gadsden, Mexico.

Sir:—This accredits to you Christopher L. Ward, Esq., who is sent by the President as a special messenger fully possessed with his views in regard to the negotiations of a new line with Mexico. His verbal communications on that subject you will regard as instructions from this department.

I am, sir, respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. F. MARCY.

He was a close personal friend of James Buchanan and during the campaign for his election was the Chairman of the Pennsylvania State Central Committee.

He was a member of the Episcopal Church and was a vestryman of St. Paul's Church in Montrose in 1832 and one of the charter members at the organization of Christ Church in Towanda in 1841.

His love of literature and taste for authorship were conspicuous. In 1845-6, in connection with Henry Booth he published a literary periodical in Bradford County, Pennsylvania. He was one of the organizers and the first president of the Bradford County Historical Society, elected May 4, 1870.

He was a man of the most liberal taste, fond of history and literature, boasting an extensive acquaintance among the leading men of his time and a dispenser of a charming hospitality. His library at the time of his death comprised upwards of 10,000 volumes and was said to contain more rare works than any other private library in the State of Pennsylvania. This library, together with his collection of autographs which was exceedingly extensive, became the property of Lafayette College after his death.

The early manhood of Mr. Peter Ward was passed in Pennsylvania. He was at one time clerk of the Pennsylvania Legislature. Removing to New York State, he was elected member of Assembly from Steuben Co. In the summer of 1832 Peter C. Ward, formerly of New Milford in Susquehanna Co., but then a resident of Honesdale, decided to attempt the publication of a weekly newspaper in Honesdale. He arranged with Asa G. Dimock of Montrose, a practical printer, to become a partner with him in the enterprise.

In the autumn they issued a prospectus for the publication of a weekly newspaper in Honesdale, to be called the Wayne County Herald, the subscription price to be $2.00. In politics it was to be independent. They procured a press and type and on January 2, 1833, published their first number.

The paper became Democratic and in May, 1833, he sold out to his partner, Mr. Dimock, and engaged in business in Bradford Co. Previous to selling out they had bought from Mr. Wm. Sasman the Inquirer, then published in Bethany, and thereafter the name of the paper was the "Wayne Co. Herald and Bethany Inquirer." Their purchase of the Inquirer included the old Rumage press and type. Most of the type being much worn, they sent to New York to exchange for new type. The office of publication was in the south part of the building next north of John F. Roe's store. So long as Mr. Ward was connected with the paper, he was its editor and Mr. Dimock its printer. He passed the last twelve years of his life in Rochester, N. Y., and was buried in Hornell, N. Y.

Captain James H. Ward was the first naval officer killed in the Civil War. He received a military education at Norwich, Vt., and while at the school received his warrant as a midshipman in the United States Navy. He and Lieutenant Samuel Marcy were the first two assistants at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, and were present at its organization, in 1845. Captain Ward was the first commandant of midshipmen at the Academy. After various services in different waters, he was summoned to the defense of the Potomac, in 1861, by Secretary Gideon Welles, and during an engagement at Acquia Creek, June 27, 1861, was hit by a sharpshooter, as he stepped forward to take the place of a gunner who had fallen. Captain Ward died an hour later.

The body was brought to New York and thence to Hartford on the steamer Granite State. There was an imposing funeral at St. Patrick's Church with requiem high mass, after which the body lay in state in the court room at the capitol until 4 o'clock. The funeral escort included the Light Guard and the Colt Guard, military companies of that time, and there was a general display of mourning emblems. Burial was in the Old North Cemetery.

The chapeau, coat and sword of Captain Ward are permanently placed in the rooms of the Connecticut Historical Society.

Samuel Ward King took a partial course in medicine at his home and on Aug. 5, 1807, received his diploma at Providence. He was cashier of the Agricultural Bank at Olneyville, R. I. Family tradition says that he was surgeon on board the ships Wasp and Hornet, and was with the latter when she captured the British sloop of war Frolic, off the coast of North Carolina. Dr. King was a witness of the fight between the U. S. frigate Chesapeake and the British frigate Shannon off Boston Harbor, June, 1813, and attended Captain James Lawrence in his last moments. He was elected Governor of Rhode Island in 1840 and served two terms. "Few men," said the writer of his obituary, "have enjoyed in their day to a greater degree the confidence of the public, and few men in their private lives have exhibited greater amiability and generous kindness of heart."—Nat. Cyclopedia of Amer. Biog., pp. 396-7.

Mr. J. M. Ward was born in the village of Greenbush, Ulster Co., N. Y. His father died when he was quite a young lad and he became one of the family of his uncle Thomas Currey, who lived on a farm near Peekskill. While there, he attended the nearby country school and worked on the farm. When sixteen years of age he came to Peekskill and for a number of years was on a sloop which sailed on the Hudson River. At a later date Mr. Ward opened a butcher market and engaged in business for himself in which he continued until the last twelve years of his life, when he retired.

He held several offices during his lifetime; he was elected Overseer of the Poor in 1852 and re-elected at the end of the term. From that time he was more or less before the public as a Republican officeholder, being Assessor of the town of Cortlandt for two terms, and of the village of Peekskill for many years. His last term as town assessor began in 1900 and ended in 1902. His last term as village assessor ended in March, 1903. "In politics Mr. Ward was an enthusiastic Republican; in character, scrupulously honest; in judgment, sound; in thought and conviction, firm; and in speech, pure and reverent." In a word, he was a living embodiment of Pope's motto: "An honest man is the noblest work of God." After several years of precarious health, when he had passed the fourscore mile-stone, being in the 89th year of his age, he entered into rest. He was one of the best known of Peekskill's older inhabitants and his had been a familiar face to all.

Mr. Nathaniel Wheeler was the chief organizer of the "Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine Company" in Oct., 1853, and was made its general manager. In 1855 he was elected its president, retaining the office until his death. He was justly regarded as the most active and public-spirited of Bridgeport's citizens during a long residence there, and although he never aspired to political preferment, was several times chosen to represent Bridgeport in both the upper and lower houses of the State Legislature. He was one of the commissioners appointed to design and supervise the construction of the State Capitol at Hartford; was a director of the City National Bank; an incorporator of the People's Savings Bank; vice-president of the Board of Education, and a director of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.—"Sergeant Francis Nichols and His Descendants," p. 23.

General Wheeler when a youth was sent to West Point in 1854, and at the end of the then five years' course he was graduated. The records of that institution indicate that he was not more than mediocre in his work. But the little Georgian was known as a young man with no end of grit. Diminutive as he was he was ever ready to defend himself or any of his friends.

When the break came between the North and South, Wheeler was one of the first of the Southern officers in the United States Army to resign his commission and volunteer his services to the Army of the Confederacy. He entered as colonel of the Nineteenth Alabama Infantry. At the battle of Shiloh he was in command of a brigade, and won high praise from his superiors for conspicuous gallantry.

Soon after this historic battle General Wheeler was transferred to the cavalry, and early in 1862 he was placed in command of that arm of the service under General Braxton Bragg, in the West. In the great Confederate charge at the battle of Chickamauga, in 1863, it was General Wheeler who led the cavalry.

In the campaign against Sherman in Georgia, General Wheeler so distinguished himself that he was later appointed a Lieutenant-General, and at the close of the great conflict he was in command of the cavalry that was operating with the forces of General Joseph E. Johnston.

He was in the battles of Shiloh and Farmington, Miss.; the fights around Corinth, Perryville, Murfreesborough, Chickamauga, the siege of Knoxville, Ringgold, Rocky Face, Dalton, Resaca, Cassville, New Hope, battles around Kenesaw Mountain, battle of Peach Tree Creek, Decatur, battles around Atlanta, siege of Savannah, battles of Averysborough and Bentonville. Besides being in over 800 skirmishes General Wheeler commanded in more than 200 battles, many of which, considering the numbers engaged, were among the most severe and successful recorded in the history of cavalry.

After the close of the war General Wheeler studied law and set to work to restore his shattered fortunes. He made his home at Wheeler, Lawrence county, Ala., and established law offices at Wheeler and Courtland, where he soon built up a lucrative practice. In 1882 he was elected a Member of Congress, and was returned at each election after that till the war with Spain broke out.

General Wheeler was 62 years old in the spring of 1898 when this country was making hurried preparations for the inevitable war with Spain. He was a thin little man with a white beard and a partly bald head. He might easily have posed for a portrait of a Scottish Covenanter. But he was one of the first to offer his services to the country when it became apparent that a conflict with Spain could not be avoided.

General Wheeler was one of the foremost American leaders in the campaign at Santiago. When Shafter came to the conclusion, after two days of intermittent fighting along the lines of the Spanish earthworks, that a retreat might be necessary, it was General Wheeler who stood out against it. He was for sailing into the Spaniards with every available man, and his plan prevailed.

General Wheeler was out well in the front where he could see what was going on and direct the fire of his division to the best effect. At last he saw the thin line of the enemy begin to waver. The art of making war was not new to him, and letting out a whoop that could be heard even above the din of battle, he started toward that weakening point. The brave men charged up a hill, firing at random. There was no stopping that fierce charge ,and the rain of bullets that poured in on the foe.

At the close of this war he came back with the army that was landed at Montauk Point and in the weeks when the camp there was fever stricken he rendered heroic service. It was while he was in command there that his youngest son, a naval cadet, who was serving on his staff, was drowned while bathing in the surf.

General Wheeler became an officer in the regular army after the victorious campaign in Cuba, and he saw six months' hard service in the Philippines. He was a charter member of the Andrew Ward Association and one of its vice-presidents; he presided at the annual meeting of the Society just before his death.

Mr. Wakeman was born at Greenfield Hill, Conn. He attended the public school in his native town which was founded by Pres. White of Yale College, who was then the resident pastor. At the age of fourteen he came to New York State and commenced teaching school at New Rochelle, subsequently pursuing the same profession at Rochester and Lockport. Although too young to vote, he took an active part in the Harrison campaign, stumping New York State in the interest of "Tippecanoe." He was a prominent member of the Republican Party, a devoted friend of Lincoln and Seward, and was instrumental in the movement that resulted in the abolition of slavery. He participated in every political campaign from that of the first President Harrison to that of his grandson. He entered an academy at Herkimer from which he graduated and went to study law in the office of "Capron & Lake" at Little Falls.

In 1849 Mr. Wakeman came to New York and entered the office of Horace Holden, a prominent real estate lawyer. He was admitted to the bar and practised law for two or three years, but in 1851 was elected to the Assembly from the Fifth district. He took an active part in politics as a Free Soil Whig, siding with Greeley, Seward and Thurlow Weed. He removed to the Twelfth Ward, and was elected Alderman on the Reform Board, which put a stop to foraging on the community by the Aldermen and made them regular paid officials. Mr. Wakeman served two terms as Alderman, and was chairman of the Judiciary Committee. He then ran for Congress in the upper district in 1854, and was elected after a hard struggle by the Free Soil Whigs, aided by the Know Nothing Party. He sat in Congress until 1856 and participated in the exciting controversy over the admission of Kansas and the election of Banks as Speaker, supporting Banks, Turnbull and other leading anti-slavery men. He was promient in the first convention of the Republican Party. In 1851 he engaged in the practice of law and founded the firm of Wakeman & Latting, now Wakeman & Campbell.

Mr. Wakeman was a member of the convention that nominated Lincoln, and became a warm adherent of the latter, who appointed him Postmaster of New York, which office he occupied during Lincoln's first term. He reorganized the Post Office and formed the basis of its present administration, displaying remarkable executive ability and fitness for the work. He was transferred to the Surveyorship as a recognition of his good work as Postmaster, and held that office during Lincoln's and Johnson's administrations.

When the division came between Johnson and the Republican Party Abram Wakeman stood by his fast friend Seward, although this policy resulted in injury to his political prospects, and soon afterward he abandoned politics and devoted himself to law. He originated the project to connect the railroads on Long Island and make them terminate on the ocean, where he proposed to found one great watering place, and he was really the founder of Manhattan Beach. In the financial troubles of 1873 Mr. Wakeman had to abandon these designs, and Austin Corbin reaped the benefit of his plans and initial efforts.

In 1863 he organized a regiment, which he would have followed to the field, but at Lincoln's request he remained to check the fire of Rebellion in New York. He defended the Post Office when it was attacked by the mob, and in revenge they sacked and destroyed his residence and its contents, including a valuable library. His eldest son, Harwood, a rising physician, was drowned in the Blue Lake, Adirondacks, at the age of twenty-eight years, and his wife and daughter Rosamund, a charming girl of eighteen years, perished in the fire at the Cambridge Flats, New York City. He was a member of the Union League Club, the American Institute, the Historical Society, and many other organizations, and was at one time a member of the Chamber of Commerce. He organized the Irving Savings Institution and the Hamilton Fire Insurance Co., of which he was a director.

Mrs. Stowe at an early age, her mother having died, was placed under the care of her grandmother at Guilford, Conn. She continued her education at Litchfield Academy. In 1824, when in her 13th year, she went to Hartford, Conn., to attend the school which had been established there by her eldest sister, Catherine, where she remained until the Autumn of 1832, when both sisters removed with their father to Cincinnati, Ohio, Dr. Beecher having been elected president of Lane Theological Sem. After her marriage in 1836, Mrs. Stowe frequently visited the slave states, and it was at this time she received impressions which led to the preparation of her most famous book, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," of which volume nearly 500,000 copies were sold in the United States in the five years following its publication. Mrs. Stowe published many other volumes, which have been well received.

(6852) (Rev.) HENRY WARD BEECHER, Brooklyn, N. Y. b. June 24, 1813; d. Mar. 8, 1887; m. Aug. 3, 1837, Eunice White Bullard, West Sutton, Mass.

Mr. Beecher's mother died when he was three years old, and he was carefully and judiciously nurtured by his step-mother, Hannah Porter. He entered Amherst College in 1830, grad. 1834, and was a student at Lane Theol. Sem., 1834-7. He became pastor of the church in Lawrenceburg, Ind.;

in 1839 assumed the pastorate at Indianapolis, Ind., and in 1847 came to Brooklyn as pastor of Plymouth Congregational Church, where he remained until his death. His first sermon in this field was an arraignment of slavery, which he denounced in severest terms. He was noted from the beginning of his ministerial career as a brilliant orator and attracted a great and constantly increasing congregation. He was also remarkably successful as a public lecturer. In 1861 he became editor of the New York Independent, and in 1870 of the Christian Advocate. He visited Europe in 1863, where his fame as a preacher had preceded him, and delivered a series of memorable addresses upon anti-slavery topics which aroused great enthusiasm. Mr. Beecher was a voluminous writer upon current topics and a greatly esteemed preacher to college students. He was the author of many books and tracts. Probably the most distinguished pulpit orator of his day.

Mr. E. L. Godkin was educated at Sillcoates School in England and at Queen's College, Belfast, Ireland, and was admitted to the English bar. He was war correspondent for the London Daily News during the Crimean War. He came to America in the autumn of 1856 as correspondent for the Daily News to write a series of articles upon social and political conditions in the Southern States. He studied in New York in the office of David Dudley Field and became a member of the New York bar. After the establishment of the "Nation," of which he became editor in 1865, he ceased to practice law and devoted himself to newspaper and literary work. He became editor and one of the proprietors of the New York Evening Post in 1881. He wrote a "History of Hungary" as a young man, and two volumes of his articles have been published in book form entitled "Problems of Democracy" and "Unforeseen Tendencies of Democracy." He died at Greenway House, Brixham, Devon, England.

Mr. Lawrence Godkin of New York City prepared for college at Dr. Morris's Mohegan Lake School and at the Cambridge High School. He is a member of the New York bar. He had charge of the weekly "Summary" of news in the "Nation" for a time, and has written articles for various periodicals on legal topics. He published in collaboration with Dr. A. McL. Hamilton "A System of Legal Medicine"; was appointed in 1903 by the Governor on a commission to investigate the "law's delay" in New York and suggest remedial legislation.

Mr. Rockwell was born in Norwich, Conn. He graduated at Yale in 1855; studied mining in scientific department, receiving degree of Ph. B. in 1857 and M. A. in 1858; continued study of mining later in London and Freiburg. He served for three years during the Civil War, first as captain of 1st Connecticut Light Battery from January, 1862, to June, 1864, then as colonel of the 6th Connecticut Infantry from June, 1864, to February, 1865. He took part in many battles, and was brevetted Brigadier General at the close of the war. He was appointed Professor of Mining at the Sheffield Scientific School, and in 1868 was called to the same chair in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He resigned in 1873 to enter more active business management in Boston, for which he was especially fitted. For three years he was chairman of the Boston Board of Fire Commissioners. In 1879 he became president of the Eastern R. R. Co., and remained three years, then he resigned to become treasurer of the Great Falls Mfg. Co. He gave up all active business in 1886, traveling much, and on Dec. 24th, 1903, he died.

Owing to the sudden death of Eber Brock Ward's mother, the father's plan of moving to Kentucky was changed, and he went, with his family, to the equally unknown region of Michigan. There Samuel Ward, his uncle, was already laying the foundation of a fortune through his small sailing vessels, which carried the commerce of that time and locality. When Eber B. arrived at his majority, he was employed by his uncle, and soon showing his superior business talent, he was taken into partnership. After a few years the fleet of sailing vessels was changed and became one of steamers. Between 1843 and 1857 the E. B. & S. Ward Line of steamers were twenty-four in number, twenty of which they had built in their own shipyard on the St. Clair River. These boats were running from Detroit to Buffalo; to Cleveland; to Chicago; to Sault St. Marie; to Duluth, and on the Detroit and St. Clair Rivers. The first steamboat to touch the waters of Lake Superior was the "Sam Ward," which they carried across the portage on rollers some years before the great Sault Canal was built. In 1855, after the death of S. Ward, Eber B. turned his attention to iron and built the first iron rolling mill west of Pittsburgh, at Wyandotte, twelve miles below Detroit. He followed that by another rolling mill in Chicago in 1857, and immediately after by another one in Milwaukee; the two latter are now parts of the U. S. Steel Co.

In the midst of our Civil War he saw the necessity for making our own sugar and sent men to Germany and France to learn the methods of manufacture. He could not, however, persuade our farmers to raise the necessary beets. After that his imagination was stirred in regard to plate glass, which we were importing from France and Germany, and he held that America should manufacture what she used. After much search a suitable sand was found near St. Louis and a factory established and the little town which grew around it called Crystal City. There, about 1870, the first plate glass was made in this country. Had he lived longer it would have been a great success.

His lumber business in northern Michigan was immense and he governed all these large industries with the heart of a philanthropist and the wisdom of a statesman. He held that "the best philanthropist was he who provided the most labor," and the thousands of men in his employ felt that in him they had a staunch friend. By his unceasing energy and large comprehension of the possibilities of a great State, he did more than all the other men of his day to open up the then Northwest to the uses of civilization. An honest man, whose word was as good as his bond, he demanded honesty of those around him.

David Ward

He was a patriotic man who spent himself (and his money) to aid our country in those times of stress when it was yet uncertain whether we should spell Nation with a capital N. He was an honorable gentleman, as we of the old Puritan blood require our gentlemen to be. He was a hard student; a hard worker, and carried a warm sympathetic heart. He and his sister Emily stood heart and soul together during all their days, caring for the helpless and working the works of Righteousness.

Mr. Ward was a land and timber inspector in the early history of Michigan. He continued in this line of business for ten years, and owned an immense tract of land in the State. His holdings in lumber were so extensive that he constructed a standard guage railroad 150 miles long through his own timber lands.

Amasa Rust, the subject of this brief sketch, was born in 1823 at Wells, Vermont, and like many sons of that noted State, was reared upon a barren little farm cropped largely with stones, which to till for the necessaries of life meant incessant toil and hardship.

But these early struggles and privations helped only to mould and develop in the children of Amasa Rust strong, honest and resolute characters. Their lives were filled with useful work and varied activities.

The parents and their children, consisting of five sons, Aloney, David W., Amasa, Ezra and John F., and three daughters, Laura, Esther and Minerva, came to Michigan in pioneer days (1836) and located at Marine City on the St. Clair River, the five sons later moving to Saginaw.

Beginning the duties of life early, the "Rust boys" as they were familiarly known to business associates, chose the vocation of lumbermen and in time became important factors in lumbering and in the manufacture of forest products. With strong ties of family feeling, these brothers held closely to each other, and were partners through life in many enterprises that gave employment to men and helped in the growth and development of Michigan. Of the five brothers, one, alone, is living, Ezra, full of years but still active and devoting much of his time and wealth to public good and civic needs.

Being one of the elder brothers, Amasa bore his share of responsibility and duty; and in the different partnerships, was wise in counsel, clean in methods, and a most equitable and generous soul; a believer in men in all walks and conditions of life. Love of family and friends, and confidence in mankind, were the virtues that gained him esteem and success. Passing away at three score and ten, he left behind him an enviable record in the business world for square dealing and probity, and to those who knew him in life, a memory appreciated for its gentleness, kindness and democratic spirit.

Like the fall of a great oak in the forest where its broad-spreading branches have given shade and shelter to all who came beneath, is the death, full of years, and these years full of love of friends, of staunch, warm-hearted Amasa Rust.

I can say of him, dead, what he would not, living, have permitted to be said, that no man in our community carried through life so open a heart and so open a hand as he.

And these virtues were not weakly held, for he had the port and presence of a man, with mental grasp and resolution to cope with large affairs, and his eye, that deep, peculiar turquoise blue, which melted like a woman's to love and to pity, deepened and darkened, and flashed the lightnings of his righteous wrath upon the man who would do him or his or humanity a wrong.

He was a man of deeds, not creeds, and in the largest sense charitable. He forgave always the penitent, as well as feeding always the needy. The faults of friends, with his broad bookkeeping, he balanced against the qualities he liked, and so left to their accounts a credit.

Losses, serious business losses, he had in middle life, but the well of his generosity never ran dry, and the resolute hand which again gathered together still scattered bountifully abroad.

As he walked down the vale of life we, who knew him, could see walking on the one side Generosity and on the other Integrity; and when he rests in "Oakwood" those words might well be written with his name upon the memorial stone above him.—Tribute of a Friend.

Concerning Mr. Ezra Rust, a friend writes as follows:

More than three score and ten years has Mr. Rust lived, and over fifty of them he has spent in Saginaw. For the greater part of that time his activities in a business way confined him closely to the management of his own affairs, but he has arrived at this station in life's journey a successful, kindly, generous and broad-gauged man. Success has not distorted his view of life nor have advancing years broken down his youthful optimism. He has a simplicity and charm of manner that is irresistible, the modesty of a school girl and the cheerful smile of a mellow humorist. He has buoyancy of spirit in abundance, keenest of intellect, loyalty to his home city, kindly regard for his fellows, and a ready ear for all sides of all questions, and those who twice this week heard him raise his voice at public meetings in favor of a great municipal need, came to see the ripened and mellowed character he possesses in a way that could not fail to make more firm the bonds of esteem and devotion that already attach Mr. Rust to those who have known him best.

It is more often, and sadly too, the rule to let just appreciation of worthy citizens remain unspoken until they are no more. Better is it to carry flowers to the living and to pay just tribute and appreciation to men of the sterling worth and attainments of mind and well rounded development of heart and nature, such as characterize Mr. Rust, in the days when they are bending their energies to improve the conditions of those about them and with whom they are in daily contact. It is the fond hope of those who know Mr. Rust that he will be spared many years in which to continue his benevolence and kindly work.

Dr. Henry Ward is a grad. Hamilton Col., Class of 1862, and of Auburn Theological Sem., 1865; served two years as head of Good Templars, Odd Fellow, Scottish Rite Mason; Grand Chaplain of Masonic Grand Lodge of New York; Pastor at Minneapolis, Minn., 1865-7; since 1867 Pastor of East Side Presbyterian Church in Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. Edward J. Ward graduated from the public grade and high schools in Buffalo, and then entered Hamilton College. Here he came into prominence first in athletics, playing in every game of football on the 'Varsity throughout his course and establishing records in physical strength tests, some of which have not yet been broken. He also went in for track athletics with the weights. Later he took honors in debating and public speaking, winning the Clark prize, the highest honor at Hamilton, in original oratory. He was president of his class throughout his course and served on the editorial staff of every one of the Hamilton College publications. In spite of the large amount of time devoted to other activities than study, Mr. Ward left a record for scholarship which brought him four years later an invitation to join the faculty of Hamilton.

After graduation from Hamilton, Mr. Ward entered Auburn Theological Seminary and spent three years in study there. At the end of this time and before taking his position as a pastor, he took a "post-graduate course in practical sociology," traveling over the country investigating political, social and industrial conditions at first hand.

In the fall of 1905 Mr. Ward was ordained as a Presbyterian minister, being, perhaps the first man to be so ordained without assenting to the prescribed questions of the church, and was installed as the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Silver Creek, a little town on the shore of Lake Erie.

The year at Silver Creek was eventful. It began with a successful campaign for no-license that was led by Mr. Ward and dried up the town for the first time in its history. The feature of the year, however, was the establishment of a large men's club which used the Presbyterian manse as its headquarters. Wrestling mat, pool and billiard tables and other clubhouse furnishings taking the place of the usual furnishings of a parsonage.

A little later an invitation came to Mr. Ward to teach at Hamilton College. He remained there for a year. At the end of the year he left Hamilton to accept the position of supervisor of social centers and playgrounds in Rochester, N. Y.

Mr. Ward's career in the city of Rochester is well known. In addition to establishing a movement which has become famous not only throughout this country, but abroad, he has found time to found and organize the City Lunch Club, which he hopes may grow into a great municipal organization.

He has been for over a year a member of the Board of Directors of the Playground Association of America. He has also recently been appointed to the chairmanship of the National Committee on School Extension of the National Municipal League.

In June, 1910, he was tendered and accepted the appointment of Director of "Social Center" work at the University of Wisconsin. The position is the first of its kind in the country, perhaps in the world. It was created especially for Mr. Ward, largely as a result of his demonstration of the possibilities of the extended use of public school buildings in Rochester.—From Rochester "Democrat and Chronicle."

Mr. C. O. Ward studied two years at Oberlin College, but lack of means compelled him to leave before graduation. He formed a partnership with his wife's brother, Edwin G. Owen, for the manufacture of wagon hubs at Meyersburg, Pa., for which he himself invented and constructed the machinery. The business was later sold to the Hotchkiss Manufacturing Co. of Addison, N. Y., and Mr. Ward removed thither to become manager of that branch of the business. During the Civil War he was machinist in the Brooklyn Navy Yard. After teaching for a number of years, he became interested in the labor question. With his knowledge of modern languages he was enabled to study the works of the great socialists abroad, and he embodied his own ideas in a book entitled "A Labor Catechism of Political Economy," which he printed himself. It met with a wide sale, and Mr. Ward soon found his services in demand as a lecturer. Having attracted the attention of Charles A. Dana, Henry Ward Beecher and Horace Greeley, he went to Europe in 1868 as correspondent of the New York "Sun" and of the "Witness," and contributed a series of letters entitled "A Mechanic Abroad" to the "Sun," and "A Journey on Foot Through the Papal States" to the "Witness." A second trip to Europe was made in 1869 as a correspondent for the New York "Tribune." In 1880 he established a printing business in New York, and soon afterwards became publisher of the "Voice," a Socialist newspaper. In 1884 he accepted a position in the Geological Survey in Washington. He afterwards became a special agent of the Bureau of Labor for one year and was then appointed its translator and librarian, meanwhile devoting himself to collecting data for his most important book," The Ancient Lowly: a History of the Ancient Working People From the Earliest Known Times to the Adoption of Christianity by Constantine" (Vol. 1. "Irascibility and Concupiscence," 1889; Vol. II. "Origins of Socialism," 1901). On account of the radical views expressed in this work he was again unable to find a publisher, and it was printed under his own supervision, much of the work being done by his own hand. Containing a mass of information culled from the inscriptions dug up during the last half century, which revealed the customs and social and industrial organizations of the ancient tradesmen, this work was the first contribution to this subject in the English language and created great interest. He was also the author of "Our Tragedy," a dramatic poem (1880), and "The Equilibration of Human Aptitudes and Powers of Adaptation" (1893).—From National Cyclopædia.

Mr. Henry J. Ward was a native of New York State and was one of the argonauts who crossed the plains in 1849. The party accompanying him hailed from Illinois and underwent many vicissitudes on their journey to the Golden West. The members of this company parted at Salt Lake City, one portion, of which Mr. Ward was a member going direct to Los Angeles. The remainder did not arrive until almost a year later, its members losing their bearings for many weeks in Death Valley. From Los Angeles the pioneer journeyed north to Sacramento and to the gold diggings along the Feather River.

In the course of time, he established the Central Hotel, a famous halfway hostelry between Marysville and Oroville in the flush days of the placer diggings. Later he moved to Alpine County, where he served as County Assessor and conducted a hotel and livery stable. He next went to Mendocino County, and remained at Cloverdale for fifteen years, being in the hotel business at that place. For eight years he was in the same business at Tiburon, and in 1891 arrived at San Jose. Mr. Ward was for forty years a member of the I. O. O. F., having been a charter member of the Ukiah Lodge of Odd Fellows, in which Lodge he was a Past Grand. He was also a Past Chief Patriarch in San Jose Encampment; a member of "Stella Rebecca," and also a member of the Santa Clara County Pioneer Society.

About the middle of April, 1837, Mrs. Emily (Ward) Olmsted left Bergen, N. Y., for Illinois, in company with and under the guardianship of Mr. John C. Ward and his wife, Mary (Kellogg) Ward of Sheffield, Mass., friends, neighbors, and perhaps even distant relatives of the family. Her elder brother, Henry Joy Ward, accompanied them. The journey was made in a covered wagon, Henry driving, and in a single buggy driven by Mr. Ward. It was about the first of June when they reached their destination, Geneseo, Henry Co., Ill. Here it was that she later met Silas Olmsted, Jr., whom she married at Geneseo, Ill. They settled near Monmouth, Ill., where Silas Olmsted had a flour mill. They were members of the First Congregational Church, "The Old First Church" of Galesburg, Ill. For many years he was leading tenor and she first soprano of the choir.

from Morocco to Guinea, and up the river Niger. Professor of Natural Science, Univ. of Rochester, 1865-75; degree of A. M. from "Williams," 1861. He established a laboratory in Rochester for the production of fac-similes of fossils, which he had copied from the collections in the great world museums. From this enterprise was developed the well-known Ward Natural Sc. Establishment at Rochester, which prepares systematic Natural History Cabinets in every department of nature for institutions of learning and public museums. In 1871 Prof. Ward was naturalist of the U. S. expedition to Santo Domingo. Fellow of the geological and zoological societies of London, Eng., and Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science since 1875. He was the author of the works entitled, "Notice of the Megatherium Cuvieri" (Rochester, 1863), and "Description of the Most Celebrated Fossil Animals in the Royal Museums of Europe." He prepared also many pamphlets and articles upon scientific subjects.

In 1863, after completing an honorable record as an officer in the fleet of Admiral David Porter, then commanding the Mississippi squadron, Mr.

W. S. Ward again took up his studies, entering Williston Seminary at East Hampden, Mass., in the Class of 1866. He entered the Class of 1869, Princeton Univ., and left before graduation to become a special student in the Columbia College School of Mines. Finishing this latter course, he began active work as directing chemist for the Rumford Chemical Works at Sekonk, R. I. From here he received an appointment as Assayer in the U. S. Assay Office in New York, where he remained ten years. While there, he was editor of the "Technologist," scientific editor of Appleton's Journal and a contributor to the American Encyclopedia under the editorship of Messrs. Dana and Ripley. In 1889 he was appointed a Commissioner from the State of Colorado to the Paris Exposition, and served as vice-president of Jury No. 49. In 1892 he was appointed Director in Chief of the Mining and Mineral Exhibit of Colorado, at the Chicago Exposition and collected and arranged that exhibit, which secured for the State very honorable recognition. In 1893 he was made a Doctor of Science by Princeton University. He was afterwards appointed Assistant Director of the Department of Mines and Metallurgy at the Paris Exposition of 1900. In this capacity he had much to do with the collection of the American Mineral and Metallurgical Exhibit and its installation at Paris. When in that city, though acting as Assistant Director of Mining and Metallurgy, he was assigned as a member of Jury No. 72 on Ceramics. This, as in the previous Paris exposition, gave him abundant opportunity for familiarizing himself with exposition methods. As a personal recognition of his services in Paris, he received a gold medal as Assistant Director of the Department of Mining and Metallurgy and was named for the honorable appointment of "Officer de L'Instruction Publique." When in Paris Dr. Ward was appointed Field Assistant for the Division of Mining and Mineral Resources in the U. S. Geological Survey, with headquarters in Denver, Col., and was engaged in obtaining statistical and general information regarding the mines and minerals of the Rocky Mountain regions, when appointed Field Director of the Department of Mines and Metallurgy at the St. Louis Exposition. After his return from Chicago in 1903, Dr. Ward acted as Chief of the Mining Bureau of the Colorado & Southern Railway. In 1908 he was made Director of the Art and Mineral Sections of the Colorado Museum of Natural History, located at the City Park, Denver, Col., which position he still holds. During his life, he has been honored by membership in a number of scientific societies, including the American Geographical Society, the New York Society of Natural History, the Oxford Scientific Society of Oxford, Eng., the American Institute of Mining Engineers and others. He is at the present time a Director of the Colorado State Historical Society and a member of the University Club.

Dr. Henry E. Crampton was born in the 4th Ward, New York City. He was descended on his father's side from one of the earliest settlers in Guilford, Conn., and on his mother's from a prominent member of a Dutch settlement in Harlem. His medical studies were pursued in New York Medical College, from which he was graduated in 1857. At the outbreak of the Civil War, the young physician joined the Northern Army, and served until he had typhoid fever. He was a member of Alexander Hamilton Post of the G. A. R. At the time of his death he was treasurer of the New York Academy of Medicine and a member of the New York County Medical Society. He devoted much time to philanthropic work, especially in connection with the "Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor" of which he was for many years a vice-president, with particular charge of the department of hygiene, whose spacious buildings and grounds at Coney Island, called Sea Breeze, were largely due to his energetic superintendence. He was a director of the Dry Dock Savings Bank. For a considerable time he was an Elder in the 14th St. Presbyterian Church, and served as teacher and superintendent of its Sunday School. In politics, a steadfast Republican.

Mr. Chas. Seabury Ward's mother was the daughter of the Rev. Samuel Seabury, D. D., who was directly descended from Bishop Seabury, the first Episcopal Bishop in America. He passed his early days in Michigan, Florida and New Jersey, in the parishes successively held by his father. At the age of fourteen he lost his father, and the remainder of his youth was spent in charge of his aunt, Mrs. Keziah Weeks of New York City. During his school days the young man was full of activity. He had an absorbing interest in everything electrical, and mastered all that related to the commercial application of electricity. He began his business education in New York City. Here his keen insight, close application and unfailing energy indicated the success which soon followed. He acquired experience in various lines, including the railroad business. Then came an opportunity to manufacture electrical supplies, and to follow out his youthful ambitions. This occupied him for several years.

While still in his twenties, Mr. Ward entered Wall Street, where he took up his last and most important work as a member of the brokerage firm of "Schalk & Ward." In this position his business faculties and his winning personality counted in the strenuous daily life of the great financial center.

During the last few years of his life, Mr. Ward retired from the more active position which he first occupied with his firm, and devoted himself to other congenial pursuits. He acquired a stable of fine horses in which he took the greatest pride. He was an accomplished "whip" and enjoyed nothing better than to coach about the fine roads of New Jersey.

In these later years he also found much pleasure in travel and he spent a large part of his time away from home. Within the last two years, he became a devotee of motoring and this was the cause of his death.

Those who were more than casually acquainted with the man, who really knew him, have without exception, looked upon him as unusual in many ways. He certainly had a distinctive character and was of marked independence. He was also possessed of more or less intuition which enabled him to unerringly measure and "size up" men and things. His keenness in this respect has been often remarked.

Mr. Ward also had an individual way of expressing himself. His style, pointed, but suggestive of humor in every word, always lingered with those who might have met him but once.

At the time of his death Mr. Ward was the efficient chairman of the Executive Committee of the Andrew Ward Association.

Mr. Leete is a descendant of Governor William Leete of Connecticut, and on the maternal side, of William Stone, who with Gov. Leete and others known as the Guilford Company, settled at Guilford, Conn., in 1639. On his mother's side he is also descended from Col. Andrew Morehouse and Capt. John Langdon of the Revolutionary Army.

He was born at Vernon, N. Y., and was educated in the public schools and in Vernon Academy. At the age of 17 years he enlisted in Co. "A," 117th Regt. N. Y. Vol., Aug. 8, 1862, and served until the close of the war, nearly three years; was in the sieges of Fort Wagner and Charleston, S. C., battles of Drury's Bluff, Bermuda Hundred, Cold Harbor, Fort Gilmer, Chaffins Farm, Darbytown Road, and the various engagements attending the siege of Petersburg and Richmond; was in both expeditions for the capture of Fort Fisher, N. C., the last of which, Jan. 15, 1865, was successful after an engagement lasting over seven hours. He resides at Oneida, N. Y., and is engaged in manufacturing; was a member of the New York Legislature in 1886-7. In Masonry is an active member of all of the bodies of the York Rite; has served as W. M. of his lodge and for twelve years was M. E. H. P. of his Chapter of R. A. M. He is a Past Post Commander of the G. A. R. and a frequent delegate to its annual encampments; he is Vice-President of the Oneida Valley National Bank and has received many honors at the hands of his fellow citizens.

Sept. 10, 1884, Clarence C. Isbell, New York City; b. Oct. 8, 1861; son Castle Orrin and Cornelia (Phalen) Isbell.

In his boyhood Mr. Ward attended the local public schools and after leaving school went to work in a satinette mill owned by William DeForest and Company. From there he went to Litchfield County where for 18 months he was in the employ of a wagon maker, learning the trade, which he thereafter followed for several years in Naugatuck and New Haven, remaining in the last named city from the autumn of 1849 to 1864. During this time he managed, through industry, assiduity and economy to accumulate sufficient capital to enable him to embark in business on his own account, and went on a prospecting tour to Colorado, where he remained 22 months. In 1866 he returned to Naugatuck and formed a partnership with his brother, Lauren Ward, for the manufacture of curtain rings and other small wares of brass. The business proved profitable, but was discontinued after the death of Lauren Ward, in 1898. The partnership between the two brothers existed for 32 years.

Mr. Ward was president of the Naugatuck Savings Bank and also president of the Naugatuck Water Company. He was one of the commissioners of the Israel Putnam Memorial Camp Grounds. For more than 20 years he was a member of the Republican town committee and during the greater part of that time was its chairman.

He was a member of the Connecticut Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. He was prominently identified with the restoration of the ancient cemetery, which was rapidly going to decay and was one of the incorporators of the Grove Cemetery Association.

He always took a great interest in borough affairs and in matters of local history he was an acknowledged authority. He possessed a remarkable memory and was thoroughly familiar with the town's oldest landmarks. In his archives he had scores of ancient deeds, and the genealogy of the old families of New Haven County was an open book to him. Lawyers frequently consulted him as an antiquarian. A few years ago he published a history of the district schools of Naugatuck and for some time before he was taken sick was engaged in the preparation of a history of Naugatuck. The gavel used in calling the meetings of the board of wardens and burgesses to order, was the gift of Mr. Ward to the borough. It was made out of mud-sills of the first bridge built across the Naugatuck River in this town.

In the death of Mr. Ward, Naugatuck lost one of its best citizens and although not unexpected, the news that he had passed away was received with sorrow by his many friends. Mr. Ward died in the same house in which he was born.

Mr. Moseley was born at Sullivan, Maine, where his parents had removed from Southbury, Conn., in 1825. His education was obtained at the district and high schools of his native town, which in those days were quite primitive. In his early years he assisted his father in his business of carrying on a country store dealing in lumber and granite and building vessels until 1852 when he removed to Boston, obtaining employment in the offices of various mercantile firms until 1860 when his father, having removed to Boston, took him as a partner and established the lumber commission and contracting business under the firm name of W. G. Moseley & Co. This partnership continued until 1864, when it was dissolved, and he entered a new partnership formed by his father-in-law under the firm name of Aug. B. Perry & Co., for the carrying on of the wholesale grocery and shipping business. In 1867 the grocery business was given up and the firm gave their entire attention to the shipping business, owning, fitting and managing vessels, and at one time had quite a large fleet of vessels employed in general business, many of them being in the West India and South and Central American trade. This partnership continued until 1887, when the senior partner died and the firm was dissolved and he continued the business for about fifteen years; since that time he has been practically out of business.

His father-in-law, Col. Perry, was of Connecticut ancestry, having been born in Oxford, Conn., in 1803; they had two children born in Boston, Caroline Augusta and Helen Graham. He was liberal in his religious views, having always attended the Universalist or Unitarian Church; his pastors have been Dr. A. A. Minor, Rev. Theodore Parker, Dr. James Freeman Clark and Dr. Edward Everett Hale, whose church he has attended for over twenty years, and still attends. In politics he has always been a Republican; he became a member of that party at its formation and has voted for every Republican President; has taken a strong interest in its policies; and has for a number of years been a Delegate to its State Conventions.

He is a member of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, of the Society of Colonial Wars, of the Society of Sons of the American Revolution, of the Boston Marine Society, of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and other social and business organizations. His descent is from purely New England ancestry, largely of Puritan and Pilgrim stock.

Rev. Charles Edward Stowe is the youngest child of Harriet Beecher and Calvin Ellis Stowe, and was born in Brunswick, Maine, July 8, 1850.

He early developed a fondness for the sea, and made a number of voyages to various parts of the world, following a sailor's life for four years.

At the age of nineteen, he abandoned the sea and fitted for Harvard College, from which institution he was graduated in 1875. The next three years were spent in travel and in study at the universities of Bonn and Heidelberg in Germany. Here Mr. Stowe made a special study of the history of philosophy and of literature. He has always been fond of adventure, and had exciting experiences among the fishermen and lumbermen of Maine; in wrecking vessels on the Florida Reefs; among the Indians of the Everglades, and the spongers of the Bahama Banks. In 1898, Mr. Stowe went abroad a second time, for three years, and devoted his time to travel and study.

He is the author of a "Life of Harriet Beecher Stowe," and stories, sketches, and poems that have appeared in various publications.

Mr. Ward was born in a lumber camp upon the site of the present village of Alma, Mich. His father was engaged in logging operations and his mother did the cooking for the crew. At eleven years of age he went into the woods with his father to assist him in his land looking and surveying expeditions, and he followed the woodman's life until he was 28 years of age. At 18 years of age he engaged in the business of logging and manufacturing lumber, being associated therein with his father, the late David Ward of Pontiac, Mich., and also his eldest brother, Henry C. Ward of the same place. In 1884, his health having failed him, he was sent to Europe to recuperate, and remained there more or less of the time during the following three years, travelling somewhat extensively, studying the French and German languages, and devoting some little time to the study of practical forestry as carried on by the Swiss and German people. Upon returning to America, he took up his residence upon Long Island, and eventually established the Cottage Gardens Nurseries at Queens. In conducting this business he has practiced extensively the hybridization of carnations and other plants, and has produced many improved varieties of the carnation. He has also taken a rather active and extensive interest in horticultural matters in general, and is at the present time a member of the following horticultural societies: Horticultural Society of New York, American Institute, Brooklyn Institute, Mass. Horticultural Society, Penn. Horticultural Society, American Pomological Society, American Geographical Society, Society for the Advancement of Science, American Breeders' Assn, Society of American Florists, American Forestry Assn., American Peony Society, American Carnation Society, Michigan Forestry Assn.; he has held various offices in many of these associations in past years. The only political offices he has held have been Pres. of the Board of Education of the Creedmore School District at Queens, and member of the Board of Control of the New York Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva, N. Y. His business offices are as follows: President of the Cottage Gardens Co., Queens, L. I.; President and Mgr. of the Au Sable Forest Farm Co., Lovells, Crawford Co., Mich.; Vice-pres. and director of the Kelly's Creek Colliery Co., Charleston, W. Va.; Vice-pres. and director of Kelly's Creek, and North Western R. R. of Ward, W. Va.; director of Hughes' Creek Colliery Co., of Hugheston, W. Va. He is a member of the following social and business clubs: New York Florists' Club, Detroit Club, Detroit, Mich.; Saginaw Club, Saginaw, Mich.; Pres. St. Helen Shooting Club of St. Helen, Mich. Mr. Ward has taken an active interest in the conservation movement in which he thoroughly believes. Has been awarded a score of gold and silver medals for his improvements in the American carnation, and his work has been well recognized in America, Australia, England, France, Germany and Japan.

11935, ELBERT BACON; b. Nov. 21, 1874; m. Dec. 9, 1908, Elizabeth Russell Shields, dau. Nelson Turner Shields, (M. D.) Mr. Hamlin grad. at Westminster "Academy," Simsbury, Conn., in 1892; "Yale," 1896; New York Law School, LL. B., 1898; admitted to New York Bar the same year; member N. York City Bar Association; "Delta Kappa Epsilon" Fraternity. 11936, FRANCIS BACON; grad. "Yale," 1909; b. Nov. 5, 1887.

Mrs. Teunis S. Hamlin was educated in Michigan at the public schools and grad. in 1868, at the State Normal School, at Ypsilanti, Mich., where, after teaching for two years, she was married. From that time on her life was spent in the East, with the exception of two years, when Dr. Hamlin was called to the West Auburn Church of Cincinnati, Ohio. Her early life in the West fitted her to understand the Home Mission needs of all pioneer countries. She entered with zeal into the formation of the Woman's Executive Com., now the Woman's Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church; for twenty-five years she has been one of its most valued vice-presidents. After thirteen years in Troy, N. Y., where her husband was pastor, and two in Cincinnati, Dr. Hamlin was called to the newly organized Church of the Covenant, in Washington, D. C.; it then had ninety members and its church was not built; together with her husband she worked in building up this organization. She was for twenty-two years President of the Society of the Covenant, an organization of ladies in which all of their benevolent work was done. As a pastor's wife she gave her best efforts to the good of the congregation and city. She was elected President of the Presbyterial Home Missionary Society, which included all of the Churches of the Presbytery; in this office she has served for twenty-three years. She is very conversant with the Morman question, and was one of the first to sound the alarm when Mr. Roberts, the polygamist, was elected to Congress. Mrs. Hamlin organized the Young People's Christian Endeavor Societies of the Presbytery into a Presbyterial Union; she also helped to organize the Woman's Interdenominational Union of Washington, in which great public interests are considered. She also assisted in the organization of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and was elected the first Chaplain-General; re-elected 1903-1905; re-elected 1905-1907. She offered the dedicatory prayer at the laying of the cornerstone of the Continental Hall, and later, rendered the same service for the vestibule of the Thirteen Columns, given by the original thirteen States. She was one of those who organized the "Children of the American Revolution," and was Chaplain-General of its Board for ten years. Since the death of her husband she has lived in Washington, D. C. In 1890 she began the search for the ancestors of Rev. David Ward, and for sixteen years gave her vacations to tracing his descendants. This research led to the publication of a chart of his ancestors and descendants. She is a good speaker and much sought after for missionary addresses. The results of her investigations along the line of David Ward, have, through her courtesy, been largely embodied in the present genealogy of the Andrew Warde family.

When he was about five years of age, Mr. Charles A. Rust removed with his parents from Marine City to Saginaw, Mich. He received his early education in the local public schools and later graduated from the literary department of the University of Michigan in the class of '71. In college he was a Psi Upsilon fraternity man and he continued intimate relations with this fraternity during his life.

When he was prepared to enter business he engaged with his father, the late Amasa Rust, and his uncles, in the lumber business. He was made a member of the firm of A. Rust & Bros. He was also a partner in the firm of D. W. Rust & Co. and later in the firm of Rust Bros. & Co. The allied firms operated mills at Bay City and Saginaw. The active management of the mills developed upon the subject of this sketch.

He was also interested in timber in other States and upwards of 20 years ago the family took up extensive timber holdings in California, Washington, Oregon and Florida, which they still hold. In 1894 Mr. Rust became interested in the Wilson Cypress Co., manufacturers of cypress lumber, with mills at Palatka, Fla. On the death of John F. Rust of Cleveland a few years ago, Mr. Rust succeeded to the presidency of the company, which position he occupied at the time of his death.

Politically, Mr. Rust never aspired to office. He was elected, however, as a Republican to the post of alderman from his ward, in the old city of Saginaw, and served two terms. He was alderman when the first electric light ordinance was enacted and when the franchise was granted to the Union Street Railway company, which developed into the Saginaw Valley Traction Company.

As a student of literature and a lover of good reading, Mr. Rust read a great deal and it was a favorite pastime for him to peruse the pages of law books, along with his extensive general reading. In his library were many of the foremost books of English literature.

Mr. Rust had two distinct characteristics that were prominent throughout his entire business life—fairness and square dealing, with honesty apparent in his every business transaction. Underhand methods of business were scorned by him, and for trickery he had the deepest hatred. He was open in all his methods, and for this he gained a high respect of his fellow business men and held the fullest regard of all his associates.

He was a member of Saginaw Valley Lodge No. 154, F. & A. M., and Joppa Chapter No. 63, R. A. M., and belonged to the Saginaw Club and the Country Club.

Few men have the ability to make such a deep impression on the history and progress of a city as has DeWitt C. Turner upon the life and times of Reno.

Coming to Reno, Nev. from Seattle, he organized the Overland Banking and Realty Company, in which A. A. Hibbard is his partner. In that brief time he has done an immense amount of advertising for Reno, Sparks,

Yours Truly
DeWitt Clinton

and all Nevada in fact, especially the new mining camps. This advertising has proved of incalculable benefit, alike to commonwealth and community, for it has been placed with the skill of a master hand.

With every passing year from the time he made Nevada his home, the company in which he is so prominent a factor has added to its possessions, and now, in addition to enormous real estate holdings, the mining and personal acquisitions of the Overland Banking and Realty company firm amount to a very large item.

Judge Turner was born in Buffalo, New York, and was named after the famous York, who was a personal friend of the judge's father. He was educated in the graded schools of Buffalo, and read law while yet a youth in the office of his maternal uncle, J. D. Ward, of Chicago. Ward was the man who beat the elder Carter Harrison in his first race for Congress, and was afterward United States district attorney for the northern district of Illinois.

Judge Turner moved to Greenfield, Mo., where he was admitted to the bar and became a partner of David A. De Armond, who has since achieved fame as the fighting member of Congress from Missouri. He afterward moved to the wider field afforded by Kansas City, where he practiced for several years; but the call of the West was strong in his blood, and he finally settled in Pueblo, Colo. Here he remained for twelve years.

Judge Turner became quite prominent in Republican politics in Colorado, and was particularly active in the State conventions of his party. In 1896, when the silver wave overswept Colorado, he refused to be carried off his feet, but stayed loyally by his party, being about the only leader of any prominence in that part of the State who did so. Ignoring the ill-will thereby earned for himself, he organized a McKinley club, and built up a strong membership. The result was shown on election day, when McKinley rolled up 1300 votes in that locality.

His loyal services were recognized by an offer of the consulship at Bogota, Bolivia, an offer which he declined, as he had no desire to get so far away from home.

From Pueblo, Judge Turner next made a voyage to the South Sea Islands where he took charge of a sugar plantation. From thence he returned to the United States and to Seattle, his last station before his advent in Reno.

12358, WARD HUBBELL; b. Aug. 29, 1897. 12359, RICHARD HUBBELL; b. July 24, 1900.

Prof. Olmsted was born at Galesburg, Ill. His father, Silas Olmsted, Jr., was a descendant of Richard Olmsted, who came to America from Essex, England, Sept. 16, 1632, in the ship "Lion," and who was later one of the founders of the towns of Hartford and Norwalk, Conn., in which latter town the family settled and resided for many generations; the family was still residing in Norwalk when Silas Olmsted (father of Silas O., Jr.) was born, Dec. 5, 1780.

He received his first "schooling" at Philadelphia, Pa., and at Washington, D. C., but chiefly at Galesburg, Ill., where he later entered Knox College. After completing the sophomore year, he entered Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., where he graduated in 1891, with the degree of Ph. B. The summer after graduation he went to Europe for the first time. Since then, he has been a frequent traveller in Europe, where he has devoted himself particularly to the study of the Romance Languages. From 1891 to 1893 he was master of French in Cascadilla School, Ithaca, N. Y. In 1893 he became Instructor in French in Cornell Univ., which position he held until his marriage.

His wife, Bula Hubbell, is the daughter (and only child) of Dr. Alvin Allace Hubbell, M. D., Ph. D., of Buffalo, N. Y., and of Evangeline (Fancher) [Hubbell]. Through her father she descends in direct line from Richard Hubbell, who took the oath of fidelity in the New Haven Colony, Mar. 7, 1645, and who, in 1651, married Elizabeth, dau. of John Meigs. As an interesting genealogical fact, it may be well to note here that Tryal Meigs, the sister of Elizabeth, was the wife of Andrew Ward, Jr., and that through these two branches of the family, after so many generations, the blood of John Meigs again merges in the children of Everett Ward, and Bula (Hubbell) Olmsted.

He spent the year 1895-96 with his wife in travel and in study in Europe. Pursued post-graduate studies at the Sorbonne, College de France, Ecole des Chartes, Paris, and at Cornell, 1893-97. Received his Ph. D. at Cornell, 1897. Instructor in Romance Languages, 1896-98, Assistant Professor of Romance Languages, 1898-1909, and Professor of the Romance Languages and Literatures since 1909, Cornell University.

He is a member of the Modern Language Association of America, of which he was vice-president 1908-09, the National Geographical Society, and the Beta Theta Pi Fraternity; also of the Town and Gown Club, the Country Club, and the Savage Club of Ithaca, N. Y.; as well as of the Hispano-Americano Club and Book and Bowl, of Cornell Univ. He has served frequently upon the Executive Committee of the George Junior Republic, at Freeville, N. Y.

He is author of "The Sonnet in French Literature and the Development of the French Sonnet form, dissertation," 1897; "A Spanish Grammar," Henry Holt & Co., 1910; and of various magazine articles; and editor of "A Selection from the Comedies of Marivaux," Macmillan, 1901; "Le Malade Imaginaire by Moliere," Ginn & Co., 1904, and "Legends, Tales and Poems by Gustave A. Becquer," Ginn & Co., 1907.

During his early life General Whipple's home was in Minnesota, of which State his honored father was the first Bishop of the Episcopal Church, known through his work for the red men as "the Apostle to the Indians." His boyhood was filled with the free life of the Western prairie, and the hunting and fishing which that sportsman's paradise provided. He was educated chiefly at St. Paul's School, Concord, New Hampshire, under Rev. Henry A. Coit, D. D., and had the privilege of establishing the first gold medal given at the school—known as "The Whipple Medal for Excellence in English Studies." Being in delicate health, a sea voyage was recommended, and then a business career, instead of a college course. He became in 1870 the first paymaster of the Northern Pacific Railroad, then in process of building across the continent. In 1871 he took the position of cashier of the Citizen's National Bank, Faribault, Minnesota, which he held with credit and ability for ten years. He married a grand-daughter of Justice John McLean of the Supreme Court of the United States. In February, 1881, General Whipple was appointed Major and Paymaster of the United States Army by President Hayes. His first service was on the Pacific Coast, and later five years were spent in the "Bad Lands" of Montana carrying funds to the frontier garrisons beyond the railroads.

Adventures of a thrilling nature were often part of his experience. On one occasion he was attacked by highwaymen in Montana, a sergeant was killed and two soldiers wounded—one fatally—but he escaped with the funds. At the time of the Spanish-American War he was sent with the first expedition to Manila, where immediately upon the capture of the city, he was designated by Major General Merritt, the Governor General, as Custodian of the captured Spanish funds, and Treasurer of the Civil funds under the military Government established by the United States.

After a short time in the United States he served as chief paymaster in Porto Rico, under Major General George W. Davis. He was promoted to the grade of lieutenant colonel in 1901, and made colonel in 1904. He was chief paymaster in Chicago 1900 and 1901, and from there was assigned as chief paymaster in the Philippines. General Whipple is on record as having volunteered for service in China during the Boxer troubles in 1900. He was chief paymaster, Army of Cuban Pacification, from the arrival of the troops in Cuba, October, 1906, until the following May, when he resumed the duties of Post Paymaster in Washington, D. C. On January 1, 1908, being senior colonel of the corps and having an excellent record, he was appointed by President Roosevelt, Paymaster General of the Army, which place he now holds with the conscientious fidelity which has ever characterized his services.

JAMES RICHARD BURROUGHS, No. 5974.

Mr. Burroughs was born in Bridgeport, Conn., and has been over twenty-five years in the Real Estate and Insurance business. He was educated at Phillips Academy, Andover, and The Sheffield Scientific School of Yale College. He became a member of the Philomathian, in Andover, and of the Delta Psi fraternity at "Sheff." For many years, corresponding secretary of The Fairfield County Historical Society; a member of the Sea Side Club; Secretary, and also President, of the General Silliman branch, Sons of the American Revolution; and is a member of the Executive Committee of The Andrew Ward Association. He married Mary Frances Welles, a granddaughter of Samuel Ward Knapp, of So. Norwalk, Conn, and great-granddaughter of Uzal Knapp, who was the last survivor of Gen. Washington's Life Guards, and buried with great military and civic honors at Washington's headquarters, Newburg, N. Y.

Mrs. Franklin G. Whitmore (No. 9019) is a descendant of Andrew Ward by three family lines diverging from the settler—those of William Ward, his son; Sarah Ward Burr and Abigail Ward Dimon, his daughters. Her grandparents, Morris and Eunice Burr Sturges, were descended from John Sturges 1st of Fairfield; the first, from Joseph Sturges, his second son; and the second, from Deborah Sturges, his eldest daughter. She is also a lineal descendant of the Rev. John Jones, first pastor of the early church in Fairfield. She was educated in the preparatory schools and at the old Academy in her native town. She has been a liberal contributor to the colonial history of Fairfield and in a family memorial, which was published in 1899, were gathered many historical facts, found by her in the old records of that town, relating to some of the descendants of the first settlers in the earlier generations, which invested each one of them with much more personal interest than the mere entry of their names in a genealogical table could do. In the preface of this book she says of her own ancestors—that which is probably true of most of the forbears of the present generation in the original Fairfield families:—"They were all native born Englishmen and there was no marriage of their descendants with those of another nationality during a period of two hundred and sixty years. Very rarely was there a marriage outside of the home people. And unusually clear and authentic records of their births and deaths can be found on the church, cemetery and town records. In fact, as she proved: "The community of Fairfield fifty years ago and during the whole period of its history was largely made up of 'cousins' more or less removed, in relationship. During the years of her later residence in Hartford, Conn., she has given much study to the subject of early art in America and is the author of a series of articles in the Connecticut Magazine on Miniature Painting in the Colonial Days. Her writings have been purely amateur. In her own words, "dismissed when they were once off my mind and I have never really known whether they had any literary value."

Mrs. Whitmore was for several years president of the Art Society of Hartford, historian of the "Ruth Wyllys Chapter," D. A. R.; historian and vice-president of the Connecticut Society of the Colonial Dames of America, and was nominated for president of the last-named society in 1908. Several years were spent in residence and travel abroad.

The old Whitmore homestead in Hartford is one of the most beautiful and representative homes in that portion of the East.

The Louisburg Spoon Heirloom

COLONEL ANDREW WARD. GENERAL ANDREW WARD.

By Mrs. Elizabeth (Foote) Jenkins.

Great-Great-Granddaughter of Andrew Ward, 4th.

Captain Andrew Ward, afterwards Colonel Andrew Ward, fourth of the name in America, first appears in the records of the town of Guilford on June 3d, 1716, and held many offices and was Deputy of the Colonial Court for many years.

Of Andrew Ward's early years we know nothing.

It was probably he, and not his father, who was Deputy to the General Assembly in 1750-1754, and it is written Andrew Ward, Jr.—1755. It does not follow that the Jr. was there for the first time. Junior is used, or not, carelessly in the Colonial records. Again in 1759, Andrew Ward—this must have been Andrew Ward 4th, because his father had died in 1756, aged 86-7.

Andrew Ward 4th apparently pursued the even tenor of his way until the expedition to Cape Breton was planned, and in the Colonial records we find:

"At a General Assembly holden at Hartford in His Majesty's English Colony of Connecticut in New England in America (by adjournment, on Thursday, the 14th day of March, 1744-5-7) this Assembly appoint Andrew Ward Jun'r, Captain of one of the military companies in the intended expedition against Cape Breton, and that he be commissioned accordingly." At a later date:

"Resolved by this Assembly that the several captains appointed by this Assembly to go on the expedition against Cape Breton which have not as yet received their commissions and premia for enlisting soldiers, viz., Capt. Samuel Chapman, Capt. Andrew Ward, Capt. Robt. Denison and Capt. William Whiting, have their several commissions and the money granted by this Assembly and allowed as a premium for the encouragement of soldiers to list into said expedition, sent to them by one of the representatives of the towns where such captains do live, to be improved for the use aforesaid and that the Treasurer of this colony be ordered and he is hereby ordered, to deliver out of the treasury of this colony the sum of one hundred and ninety-two pounds, old tenour bills or new tenour bills, equivalent for each captain aforesaid to such representatives as aforesaid, taking his receipt for the same."

He went on this wild-cat expedition, when the "stars in their courses fought for them," four thousand raw militia against six thousand regulars of France and the fortress of Louisburg, considered by the best engineers of the time absolutely impregnable. Captain Ward took his son with him and gave him his first lesson in war. In those days rum rations were given to both officers and men. Captain Andrew Ward, being a temperance man and teetotaler (a very unusual thing in those days) took his rations in money, and bought for his children three silver spoons, having them marked on the back "Louisburg" in the script of the time. The photograph of the one given in this book is the one which descended to his son Andrew and to his granddaughter Roxana Ward. While at Louisburg Andrew Ward found a Jasper Griffing (brother of one of his friends, Robert Griffing), an impressed sailor on one of the British ships, and helped him to escape and sent him to his brother at home in Guilford. There is very little else we know of him. He kept a diary of this expedition, and the tradition of it remains, but it has been lost, much to the sorrow of many descendants.

My father wrote of him what he had been told, he "was a small man, round shouldered and not handsome. He had an unpleasant snappish manner of speaking." In early life he was a sailor. Bound to Boston once, he was becalmed in a fog for more than a week. He at last spoke a vessel as follows: "Ahoy there! I want to know where I am. I've been in this cursed damn'd fog more than a week, and I don't know where I am." "You are in latitude 42 and in —" "I don't want any latitude nor longitude neither, I want to know where I am." "You are in Boston Bay and near the mouth of the harbour." It is said it was the only time he ever swore in his life, and therefore it was remembered as a specimen of his swearing.

When Eli Foote, who married his granddaughter, first became acquainted with him, he thought him the most ill-natured man he ever saw; after he knew him well, he thought him the kindest. One of his neighbors came in one morning to borrow his horse to go to mill. "No, you shan't touch it." The man turned to go out. "Yes, you may take it; the saddle and bridle are in the stable."

He died at eighty-six, in consequence of fatigue and agitation of mind produced by the invasion of New Haven by the British, and his son (General Ward) being ordered over there is command of his brigade.

GEN. ANDREW WARD.

Andrew Ward, fifth of the name in this country, son of Col. Andrew Ward and Elizabeth Fowler, was born Nov. 19, 1727. Of his childhood and education we know nothing; he probably went to the school in the town kept by the Church Society. His handwriting was handsome, and his letters show that he knew how to express himself. He began his training as a soldier when he was eighteen, and went as aide to his father on that famous expedition of the colonies against the fortress of Louisburg. In 1757, at thirty years of age, he was captain of a company of militia sent to Fort No. 4 on the Connecticut River, now the little town of Charlestown, Vermont. The two following years, 1758-1759, he also served there, rising to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. On one of these campaigns he imitated the Indians in making a log canoe, and, with one or two of the Guilford men of his company, paddled down the Connecticut River to Long Island Sound and then up the little river Ruttawoo (now East River) to his own door at Nut Plains. The canoe was used long afterwards, as a watering trough for his cattle. In 1760 he was at the Battle of Lake George, commanding a company, and his brother-in-law, Dr. Giles Hull, husband of Abigail Ward, also commanded a company in this war, and died at Ticonderoga, Aug. 14, 1759.

We do not hear of him again until he is moderator of a full special meeting of the inhabitants of the town of Guilford, held Dec. 14, 1774, "which agrees and resolves faithfully to adhere to and strictly abide by the association entered into" by the American Continental Congress. He is also put on a committee to help the poor of Boston, "who are suffering more immediately in a common cause."

At the session of the General Assembly held in the month of April, 1775, six regiments were ordered to be raised. Andrew Ward was made Lieutenant

Jonathan Trumbull Esquire, Governor and Commander in Chief of the State of Connecticut, in America

To Andrew Ward Jun^r Esq^r Greeting

Whereas You are appointed by the General Assembly of said State to be a Brigadier General of the Second Brigade of Militia in said State Reposing special Trust and Confidence in your Fidelity Courage Care and good Conduct, I Do by this Commission in the Name of the State aforesaid Constitute and appoint You to be Brigadier General and Brigade. You are therefore to take said Brigade into Your Care and Charge as Brigadier General and carefully and diligently to discharge that Care and Trust in Exercising and commanding them to be duly Officered and Soldiered according to the Rules and Regulations of the Militia Keeping them in good Order and Discipline and Government and Command them to obey You as their Brigadier General for the Service of the State; and they are commanded to be very Obedient accordingly. And You are to Conduct and lead forth the said Brigade or such part of them as You shall detach from time to time according to Orders from me, or from the Governor of this State for the time being in the Execution of the Law of Nations and of War for the Defence of the State and by all fitting Ways, Means and Methods to annoy the Enemies of this State and by all fitting Ways, Means, and Methods to subdue and destroy them and to Defend, Protect and Preserve the Inhabitants of this State and their Estates. And You are hereby required to observe and obey such Orders and Instructions as from time to time You shall receive from me or your Superior Officer according to the Rules and Discipline of War and the Usages of Nations and the Laws of this State.

Given under my Hand and the Seal of this State at Hartford this fifth Day of June, Anno Domini 1777.

Jon^a Trumbull

By His Excellency's Command

George Wyllys Secry

Colonel of the First Regiment (under Colonel Wooster of New Haven) and Captain of the second company in the regiment. His company was made up of Guilford men; there were only thirty-nine men on its roll, and it served until November, 1775. It was stationed first at Harlem, and later along Lakes George and Champlain. The rest of the regiment was at the taking of St. John's in October, 1775, and I suppose this company was also. We have his commission dated May 1, 1775, as Lieutenant Colonel of this regiment. It is under the service of George the Third, in "the fifteenth year of the reign of his Gracious Majesty."

At a meeting of the Governor and Council of Safety on Friday, Jan. 26, 1776, they appointed Colonel Waterbury for one regiment and Colonel Ward for another, with orders to raise by voluntary enlistment 750 men for each regiment, "to join and assist Major General Lee," "with encouragement that they should be entitled to the same pay as allowed the troops before Boston, and dismissed soon, when the service would admit."

The regiment was marched to Fairfield en route to New York, and then sent home again, but, matters looking brighter in New York, was ordered back immediately, and crossed to Brooklyn. It was kept at work on the forts which were being erected and on duty for two months, when it was verbally discharged by General Sullivan.

In May, 1776, Colonel Ward was made Colonel of the Seventh Regiment Horse and Foot, to serve from May 14, 1776, for one year, and stood on the same footing as the other Continental regiments, being raised on the requisition of the Continental Congress. It had been intended for service at Boston, but was sent instead to New York. It was billeted upon the inhabitants of the towns of Norwalk, Stamford and Greenwich (afterwards the State paid the bill for their keep to these inhabitants). It joined Washington's army in August, "and was stationed first near Fort Lee." They were in the battle at White Plains on Oct. 28, 1776, and with Washington's army at Trenton, Dec. 25, 1776, and at Princeton on Jan. 3, 1777. At Princeton, in a council of war, Washington proposed to make a stealthy retreat, take a circuitous route to Princeton, and fall upon the enemy at New Brunswick as well as at Princeton. The decision was made, orders were whispered, and the American forces took their quiet way toward Princeton. General Ward was deputed to take charge of the rear guard; to keep up the camp fires and the appearance of the army being still present. But he was given no directions about withdrawing. Washington evidently thought he was a good enough soldier to be trusted, and he was. There was a sharp attack at daybreak, which he escaped, and joined the main army. General Washington afterward commended him highly for his well managed retreat; he did not lose a man.

Then came the encampment at Morristown, New Jersey, for that wearisome winter. They threw up earth works, and Colonel Ward here showed a certain pleasing largeness of spirit. Of course an equal amount of work was ordered for each regiment on these earthworks; a regiment encamped next Colonel Ward scornfully declined to do its duty. Its colonel, seeing how well the Connecticut regiment had done its work, came up and ordered them to do what his own regiment had refused to do. The Connecticut men smilingly declined to take commands from any but their own colonel, and the officer went away foaming and blustering. After he had gone, Colonel Ward pointed out to his men that an open place in the line of fortifications made them useless; that the defences were in their own interest, and asked them to do the work for him in spite of the bad conduct of the other regiment. The men complied with his request, and did the work handsomely. Tradition says nothing about the other regiment after that; let us hope they had the manhood to do something in return. This story was told my father by an old soldier of General Ward's, named Eber Norton; and years after Eber Norton's son told father the same story over again.

We find a letter from Colonel Ward written in December of this winter to Governor Trumbull, asking that his men be allowed to go home, since their unexpected marching (they were to have gone to Boston) has worn out all their clothes of every kind, "they are too far away from home to have their friends send them clothing," and that their wages will hardly suffice to buy them there at the high price asked. He humbly requests His Honor to use his "influence with the General that they may be returned to winter quarters near home, that their friends may supply them with cloaths; or that they may be dismist with the other Continental regiments that are not of the new army." He evidently had great difficulty in keeping the regiment together. On March 13, 1777, he had a severe letter from General Washington, asking why seventeen of his men are on furlough and fourteen discharged; and saying that no officer under the rank of general has a right to discharge men, and that it is no time to grant furloughs to a regiment which has so nearly served its time. Colonel Ward felt the disapproval very keenly; but his men were suffering for all the necessaries of life, and they took their furlough themselves; they deserted and made their way to their homes. There was no way of stopping them.

In April of this year he is apparently called out for the Danbury raid, for we find the pay roll of his regiment at that time, but nothing is said of how they came from Morristown.

The next we know of him, the General Assembly of his State has made him Brigadier General of the Second Brigade of the State Militia, succeeding General Wadsworth, June 5, 1777. In July he has orders from the General Assembly to draft one-fourth part of his brigade; have them armed, equipped, and hold themselves in readiness to march on the shortest notice, with their proper officers. In October, he was sent to Peekskill to reinforce General Putnam; and the Hudson Burgoyne campaign followed. He was at the taking of Saratoga.

January, 1778, "Resolved by this Assembly that General Andrew Ward be and he is appointed one of the committee for revising the militia laws of this State, in the room of General James Wadsworth excused." In March, 1778, he was sent with men to protect New Haven. In August that same year he is called by the Governor and Council of Safety to raise three companies from the Second Brigade to aid General Sullivan in Rhode Island "if a sufficient number shall freely offer themselves; if not, from peremptory draught from said militia."

He is a member of the Council of Safety this year and for several years following; we find the charge of horse hire, going to and fro. He was many times in that old war office at Lebanon, (Conn.). All this time, too, he was Deputy to the General Assembly, but evidently "absent on leave" most of the time.

In 1779, he is, with Colonel Abram Davenport "made a committee to inquire into the condition of an armed sloop of war belonging to the enemy and cast ashore at Guilford, and when the committee have properly conferred upon the subject, General Ward is directed to arm and equip her for the service of the State." He named this sloop the Guilford. He is "justice of the Peace and Quorum" all this time, and, what was much more important, he was justice of the County Court for the County of New Haven, and served many years. The guard along the coast is in his charge. In July he is opposing the British attack on New Haven. He is sent to assay powder at a mill in New Haven. In November his half brigade is ordered stationed at New Haven, but in October he has been ordered to have his whole brigade ready to meet Count d'Estaing, but of course that came to nothing.

These are the outlines of the things he did—there is no way of filling in the picture. He was evidently busy in the public service all the time.

In 1787 he is sent as first delegate with Colonel Elliott to the State Convention which adopted the United States Constitution, and I regret to say that both of them voted "no." Why, I cannot say, except there was much jealousy among the colonists among themselves, and fear of a despotic general government.

At the end of the Revolutionary War he had little property left, two or three houses and lots, an impoverished and neglected farm, and four hundred dollars in Continental paper money, the only pay he ever had for his service. It was redeemable at one dollar for each hundred, and he never took the trouble to redeem it. His descendants have given it away as relics of those days of struggle. He evidently was an intelligent farmer; he was interested in the improvements of the time; he brought the first apple trees to Nut Plains; an old tree, the Barnapple, was cut down as late as 1870. He brought the first potatoes to Guilford, and his granddaughter, Harriet Foote, secretly nibbled one of them—uncooked—and did not think this wonderful new fruit nearly so good as chestnuts. As a householder, family tradition says he was rather careless. The tale is told that when he came back from the General Assembly at Hartford, to which he was elected from 1771 to the year of his death, he brought his saddle bags filled with nails on one side and with books on the other. He went about and drove in nails wherever it was necessary, and then sat down and read his books. He had a fairly good library for those days, and many of his books have come down to us in their dark leather bindings. When his son-in-law, Eli Foote, died, leaving ten children, he took them all, with their mother, to live with him at Nut Plains, and was father and educator to them. My father remembered very plainly the stories of the war which he told. Two of these sons died soon, within two weeks of each other, tradition says, in consequence of fatigue and illness caused by acting as pall-bearers for a distance of two miles. In those days there were no hearses, and coffins were carried by relays of men friends. The loss of these two boys of sixteen and fourteen broke the General's heart, and that such harm should never happen again for any member of his family, he laid out a private burial plot on his own farm, an eighth of a mile from his house, on a beautiful knoll with oak trees, above the little river. There he lies, with four generations of his descendants about him, some of them soldiers like himself, and there his grave is covered with flowers on Decoration Day.

THE GIFFORD FAMILY.

By Mrs. Sarah Gifford Tingue.

The first Gifford known in America of the line that was later allied by marriage with the Ward family was William Gifford, well known in genealogical circles as William Gifford of Sandwich, Mass. He was a member of the grand Inquest at Plymouth in 1650, and his name is found in the lists of "first proprietors" of both Monmouth and Shrewsbury, New Jersey. He belonged to the Society of Friends, or Quakers, and suffered severely by fines and vexatious lawsuits because of his beliefs. In his will, after apportioning certain sums to his children and grandchildren, he says, "of what is yet remaining I do give five pounds to be improved for the use and service of truth, by my friends in Sandwich, called Quakers." He was a man of property, owning lands in Mass., Conn. and Rhode Is., and was undoubtedly a worthy citizen of his time. The Gifford lineage is traced back to Osborne de Bolebec, a noble Norman, whose son Walter obtained the name of "Gifford" or the "Liberal," and was created Count of Longueville, and later Earl of the county of Buckingham. He was that Goulter Gifford, undoubtedly, whose name appears on the Battle Abbey Roll, 1066. Such things should count for little, however, in free America.

"Kind hearts are more than coronets
And simple faith than Norman blood."

We might well note two of the mottoes pertaining to the Gifford coat-armor, "Take breath and pull strong," and "Nothing without the Divinity." Heredity is a braided cord of many strands; let us see what has gone to make up the character of Elihu Gifford, who married Deborah, daughter of Moses and Chloe (Ward) Allen.

Robert Gifford of Dartmouth, Mass., son of William of Sandwich, took for his wife, Sarah Wing. In her we have the blood of Rev. John Wing of England, a graduate of Oxford, and an author whose works are still extant. He was a strong non-conformist, and when preaching in Flushing, Zealand, held the same relation to the Puritans there, as did pastor Robinson to the Pilgrims at Leyden. He also preached at Sandwich, Eng., and when his widow Deborah (Bachellor) Wing came to America with her four young sons, she undoubtedly named Sandwich, Mass., where she made her home, from her memories of the old home in England. Deborah Bachellor's father was that noted non-conformist, Rev. Stephen Bachellor, who struggled and fought for his opinions through a long, stormy life of a hundred years. He was reviled and derided, but to him such characters as Whittier, Hawthorne, Longfellow, and Daniel Webster, looked back as the source of many of their most meritorious deeds and utterances. Jeremiah Gifford, son of Robert, was also a Quaker of the old town of Dartmouth, and in the ancestry of his wife, Mary Wright, daughter of Adam and Sarah (Soule) Wright, we find certain things of interest to awaken our attention. The two Mayflower passengers, George Soule, grandfather of Sarah and Francis Cooke, whose daughter Hester, was wife of Richard Wright, and mother of Adam, and whose wife Hester Mahiew, the Walloon, has left us certain of her rules for dainty cookery, to show that she attended carefully to the ways of her household.

Benjamin Gifford, son of Jeremiah, came up to that "half-way-house" between the coast and upper New York State, Dutchess County, and married Abigail, his kinswoman, daughter of Jedediah and Elizabeth (Gifford) Wing, so bringing in double strands of both Gifford and Wing traits, with new strands added from the Bowermans, with which is intertwined that of sturdy Anthony Annable, who came a passenger on the "Anne," and did well his part in the world's work of his time; also we find in this line Robert Harper and his wife, Deborah Perry, who were at one time imprisoned with their friend, the ill-fated Mary Dyer, who was hung for the crime of being a "Friend." Benjamin Gifford, though a Quaker, had a liking for the good things of life, and was fond of fine horses; but they proved his undoing, for he was killed by being thrown from his sleigh when they became unmanageable. This was in February, before his son Elihu was born. The subject of our sketch, Elihu Gifford, grew up in the town of Dover, N. Y., and when a lad, carried supplies to Washington's camp at White Plains. He must have had patriotic tendencies, or he would not have done so, even though young, for he was of a very positive nature, as was shown by his subsequent career. Not liking the work to which he had been apprenticed, according to the custom of the times, he ran away to the coast, and enlisted on a privateer, during the Revolutionary War. This vessel was captured by a British ship of war, and he was taken to the West Indies. When anchored about three miles from shore, Gifford decided he would not serve King George any longer, and as he was a large, powerful man, he assisted a companion and they escaped, swam to shore, and succeeded in getting a ship to the States. He then came back to Dover and married tall, fair, blue-eyed Deborah Allen, and came up into Washington County to make a home. His wife was a woman of great decision of character, and while she could not fight, as her brothers did, in the war of 1812, she had the true martial spirit. Elihu Gifford had inherited his father's love for fine horses, and at one time, coming home with his horse, from a race, and showing the effect of too jovial companionship, Deborah met him at the door, and said, "Take that horse off the place; sell it for what you can get, or give it away, but stay on this place, it shall not"; and it had to go. But notwithstanding these human frailties, Elihu Gifford was a man of sterling worth, and much thought of in the community. The descendants of Elihu and Deborah, have been, so far as known, good, substantial citizens, leading lives of quiet industry, and if not taking leading parts in large public affairs, yet many of them holding offices in their home towns, and being much respected. One son took his Captain's place, and led a company at Plattsburg in the war of 1812. Of the sons of Moses and Chloe (Ward) Allen "Peter B." rose to the rank of Brigadier Gen. in the War of 1812, and was in command of a regiment at the battle of Queenstown, in which he was taken prisoner. He was afterwards a member of the State Legislature from Ontario County, to which place the family had removed in 1796-7. In 1818 he migrated to Indiana and was a pioneer settler of Terre Haute, where his descendants are still found. Nathaniel, another son, settled at a place called Allen's Hill, Ontario Co., N. Y., which took its name from him. He was an early officer of militia, and a member of the Legislature. In the war of 1812 he successively filled the posts of Commissioner and Paymaster on the Niagara frontier. After the war he was Sheriff of Ontario Co., and for two terms its representative in the National Congress. He died at Louisville, Ky., where he had taken the contract for the construction of a canal. Both Peter B. and Nathaniel Allen were vestrymen of St. Paul's Church, Honeoye, N. Y., in 1808.

A sister, Catherine Allen, married Roswell Turner, a native of Connecticut. They emigrated first to Dorset, Vt., and then followed the rest of the family to Western New York, pushing on to the dark woods of Wyoming County, making their own road, and being the first to settle west of Warsaw, N. Y. Their son, Orsamus Turner, was author of the volume entitled "Phelps and Gorham Purchase," and "The Holland Purchase," the same being histories of Western New York lands. A grandson, Pliny Turner Sexton, is President of the National Bank of Palmyra, N. Y., and a member of the State Board of Regents. A great-granddaughter, Margaret Sexton Aldrich, was the first wife of the late Rear Admiral William T. Sampson, U. S. N.

And so they have come upon the stage of life, played their little parts, and gone, as we all must go, when the work is done.

THE WESTCHESTER COUNTY WARDS.

By Mrs. Clara Ward Howland.

A few matters of interest concerning the Westchester branch of the Ward family, descended from Andrew Warde of Fairfield, Conn., through his son Samuel. Carlyle wrote, "There is no heroic poem in the world which is not biography, and the essence of biography is history."

The descendants of Andrew Warde have been many, and distinguished as statesmen, soldiers, lawyers, physicians, clergymen and professors. His wife, Hester Sherman, was the grand-daughter of Edmund Sherman, who founded the great Latin school at Dedham, Eng., still in existence, and from this Edmund Sherman the name Edmund came into the Ward family, a number of times repeated in the Westchester branch.

There were a number of Edmunds in succession from Andrew Warde. The first, his son, appears to have died without issue. The 2d Edmund, son of Samuel and grandson of Andrew, is referred to in the body of this work, under No. 56. The third member of the family of this name, No. 265, was a member of the Colonial Assembly, High Sheriff of Westchester County, and for many years a County Judge. Edmund Ward 4th, No. 926, received by the will of his father dated in 1731, besides lands, etc., a silver hilted sword. He was a loyalist in the Revolution, in consequence of which he was thrown into prison, his property was confiscated, and afterward given to one of the men who aided in the capture of Major Andre, the British spy. Two of his sons were officers in the British army, and one, the youngest, was in Washington's army.

(Maj.) Moses Ward (No. 2409) was a soldier in the British army during the war of the Revolution. He afterwards went for a time to St. John's, New Brunswick, Canada, and later, returned to this country and lived at New Rochelle, N. Y., until his death.

Stephen Ward of Eastchester, (No. 2413) espoused the cause of the struggling Americans. He was one of the "Sons of Liberty," and helped pull down the Statue of King George III in the Bowling Green, New York City. He was in Washington's army.

Oliver De Lancey Ward 1st, (No. 5168) had his country seat on Ward's Island in the East River, about opposite 116th St. This island was named for him, although in former years it had been owned by some of his ancestors, and called by a different name. At his death it was bought by the city of New York, which still owns it. When a young man, Mr. Ward was sent to London by his father, Major Moses Ward, to enter the banking house of the Baring Bros. After a few years he returned to New York City and entered the house of Howland, Aspinwall & Co. He remained with this firm the rest of his life. For twenty or more years he represented them in Manchester, Eng. His wife, Hetty Maria Ward was the daughter of Stephen Ward, his uncle. She was a woman of great intellectuality, and charm of manner, and full of interesting anecdotes from her life of twenty years abroad. She had also, a deeply religious nature with intense faith. In St. John's Episcopal Church in White Plains, N. Y. is a life size figure in colored glass of a female, representing "Faith," placed there in her memory. She was greatly beloved, especially by all young people. She is buried in the Eastchester cemetery in the same grave with her husband.

St. Paul's Church, Eastchester, was built of stone, before the Revolution, to replace the original wooden edifice of the time of Queen Anne, who gave the silver Communion Service. It has a charming old belfry, where hangs the same bell which called the Wards of many generations, (for over two hundred and fifty years,) for worship on the Sabbath. It has an appropriate inscription. Before the time of bells, the congregations were called to church by the beating of a drum, and before that by blowing the conch shell. It is recorded on April 3, 1702, John Thompkins, Jr., was chosen to beat the drum to call the congregation to church. During the Revolution they buried the bell, the communion service, the Bible and the Prayer Book; the two latter are in beautifully clear print and remarkably preserved.

The interior of the church is peculiarly arranged. It was used as a hospital for the soldiers during the Revolution, and there are many marks of bullets on the outside walls of the church. Many Wards are buried in this cemetery, which surrounds the church and with them many of the old families with whom they had intermarried, the Hunts, the Fowlers, etc.

A most interesting service is held every year in St. Paul's at Eastchester, on November 1st, All Saints' Day. The graves are always decorated with flowers.

Oliver De Lancey Ward 2d was the first member of this line of the Ward family who was not buried in this cemetery. He is buried in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, Long Island, in a family plot of his own.

Oliver De Lancey Ward, 2d (No. 8017) was for thirty years senior partner of the importing house of "Ward, Dickson & Co.," with branch house in Paris. During the war of the Rebellion he was a Union Democrat.

Frederick Augustus Ward, (No. 8018), was a young man of fine promise, whose early death was greatly mourned. The circumstances attending his death were as follows: Frederick Ward and Eugene Underhill, young men of about twenty-three years of age, were devoted friends. They were members of the Volunteer Fire Department, which in those days, was represented by some of the most prominent families in the city of New York. They lost their lives in a fire on July 1, 1834. The fire occurred in Haydock's drug store in Pearl Street, near Fulton. The building was high, and all of it above the second story had been consumed except the gable walls. Suddenly the flames spread out like a blanket and the two young men were crushed to death beneath the falling wall. At the time of their burial there was a great procession, and beautiful flowers were sent in profusion.

The pipe held by these men was afterward treasured by their company and hung in the headquarters of the association. The monument was erected by the volunteer firemen over the grave which contained the bodies of the two devoted friends, and a committee was appointed to keep it in good condition by cleaning it, and regilding its letters, when necessary. The monument, which is quaint, is a sarcophagus, surmounted by a stone coffin, and bears on its apex a fireman's cap, torch and trumpet. It was preserved through the action of the Exempt Firemen's Association, and also by the efforts of a niece of Frederick Ward.

In connection with the above incident, the following item from a recent New York City paper is of interest:

"When St. John's Burial Ground, at Hudson, Leroy and Clarkson Sts., is opened to the public as a park and children's playground, only one monument will remain of the many that marked the graves in that historic spot. The monument thus honored has been removed from its original location and placed in a more conspicuous position between two fine trees. It is eminently fitting that this distinction should be given it, for the stone commemorates the brave deed of two young men, who gave their lives for their fellow-citizens as truly as if they had fallen in battle."

Augustus Henry Ward, (No. 5176), was born in New York City. He was one of the very successful importers of the metropolis, with a branch house in Paris. He gave liberally to art and education. To the College of the City of New York, he endowed in perpetuity, as yearly prizes, a number of bronze medals called the Ward Medals. He gave a large sum of money to the National Academy of Design at the time of its erection at the corner of 4th Ave. and 23d Street, in New York City. The Kane Arctic Expedition greatly interested him, and he was one of its most active promoters. A man of broad minded charity and fine business talent, he made for himself an honorable record and left a wide circle of friends.

Horatio Ward, (No. 5190), died in London, England, in 1871. He had followed a banking or mercantile career in that city and had amassed a fortune. He was often a guest of Earl Dudley, who called him his "American Cousin." He bequeathed $100,000 to the National Soldier's Home at Washington, D. C., and the same sum to the Soldier's Homes in the various States. He left also $19,000 to the granddaughters of Robert Morris, the Colonial Treasurer of the Revolution. The remainder of his estate, about $500,000, was given to three of his nephews and nieces. Mr. Ward was unmarried. He visited Gorleston in Suffolk County, England, and spent a considerable sum of money in tracing his descent from Andrew Warde. His collections in MS. form are now in the possession of the family of his cousin, the late Augustus H. Ward of New York City.

Clara Ward (No. 10647), the gifted author of this sketch, married the prominent landscape and genre artist, Alfred Cornelius Howland of Williamtown, Mass. His later years were spent in Pasadena, Cal. Mrs. Howland has devoted much time to researches in her own family line.

Oliver De Lancey Ward 3d, (No. 12901), was a soldier in the Spanish War. He was born at Bay Ridge, Long Island. He entered the ranks as a volunteer from the State of Washington, and received honorable mention for his services during the war. Since peace was declared, he remains as a citizen in the Philippines.

THE CORNWALL FAMILY.

By Mrs. Alice Cornwall Burton.

The Cornwall family was founded in America by Sergeant William Cornwall, who was sergeant-at-arms and one of the sixteen body guards of King Charles First. He came to this country from England early in the seventeenth century, and received a grant of land in Connecticut for fighting the Indians. He became the progenitor of the family in the new world. For some time he lived in Massachusetts and his wife died in Roxbury, Massachusetts, in 1633. About four years later, in May, 1637, he was one of a company of seventy-seven men who fought the Pequod Indians and was one of but nineteen who were not killed in battle. In 1638 he was sent with others to purchase land from the Indians in the vicinity of Stratford, Connecticut. The following year it seems he was the owner of a house and sixteen acres of land at Hartford, Connecticut, his name being one of the three among forty people who had land in Hartford and held pasturage, etc. He married a second time, in 1639, and eleven years later, in 1650, he removed to Middletown, Connecticut. In 1666 he received a grant of land at Hartford, that State, and at Middletown he owned ten acres and a house. He had altogether nine hundred and three acres of land granted him at Hartford and at Middletown, together with other tracts elsewhere. In 1667 he was freed from taxes, while in 1670 he was assessed in Middletown, his being the fifth largest assessment. In 1668 he became a member of the church of Middletown and in 1674 he made his will, which is still on file in the probate court of Hartford. He was one of the first to move to Middletown, and spent his remaining days there, passing away in 1678, his grave being in the cemetery at that place. He was representative from Middletown to the Colonial Legislature in 1654, 1664 and 1665, and served as constable at that place. He had three sons, the Cornwalls of Rochester, N. Y. being descendants of his eldest son. The Cornwall family have been very prominent and twenty-two members of the family were soldiers of the Revolutionary war.

The line of descent is traced down through William 1st and 2d, three Andrews, Amos 1st and 2d, John, John Byron and Byron Edward to Edward Floyd Cornwall, now three years of age, so that twelve generations of the family have been represented in America. The second Amos Cornwall was the first to come to Rochester, N. Y., and he was accompanied by his two sons, John and George, and also a daughter, and the sons were both married at that place. The family now living in Rochester are descendants of John and George Cornwall.

Amos Cornwall died in Rochester, April 16, 1868. He was a hatter and furrier on West Main Street in that city and for a number of years continued actively in business. He held membership in the Masonic Lodge. His son, John Cornwall, was sixteen years of age when he arrived in Rochester with his parents. He remained with his father some time, and then went into the oil country accompanied by his brother, being one of the first to go to the oil regions. There he did a large business which proved profitable and he afterward went to New York City, where he remained until 1867. He owned the Crystal Palace Block and considerable other valuable realty in Rochester; was a member of the Union Grays, a military company, and a member of the old Volunteer Fire Co.; he also belonged to the Masonic Order.

George Cornwall lived in Oil City, Pennsylvania, and later owned a plantation near Richmond, Virginia, on the James River, this being known as the old Peyton Randolph property. It was upon this plantation that both he and his wife died. Two of his sons are living in Rochester.

John Cornwall married Margaret Von Schuyver, whose father came to Rochester in 1820. She was born here and by her marriage became the mother of a son and daughter, John Byron and Alice Elizabeth. The son died leaving one son, Byron Edward, who married Florence Maxon, of New York, and they had one son Edward Floyd. John Byron Cornwall wedded Anna V. Gardiner, of Mohawk Valley. She owns the Cornwall Block in Rochester, which was built by members of the family. John Byron Cornwall was a member of the Masonic fraternity, and also belonged to the Young Men's Christian Association. His sister and only surviving member of the family in Rochester is Mrs. Alice Elizabeth Cornwall Burton. She is a member of the Andrew Ward Association. Mrs. Burton is a representative of two of the old and prominent families of New England.

THE MICHIGAN BRANCH OF THE DESCENDANTS OF ANDREW WARD THROUGH THE REV. DAVID WARD.

By Mrs. Rev. Teunis S. Hamlin.

The Michigan branch of the descendants of Andrew Ward trace their ancestry through the Rev. David Ward to Andrew of Fairfield, Conn. Esther Franklin, who married Asahel Ward, was undoubtedly a second cousin of Dr. Benjamin Franklin, her grandfather, in all probability being one of the numerous uncles of Benjamin Franklin. The tradition in the family is to that effect, and the traits of character in many members of the family, are so pronouncedly similar to Franklin's, as to show unmistakably the heredity. Josiah Franklin and his brother Benjamin, the father and uncle, of Dr. Benjamin, are the only ones authentically mentioned in American history, but that they had large families is easily discovered in Bambury, Eng., where several others lived. All the descendants of Esther Franklin have such marked hereditary attributes, as to be very convincing, and in many instances the likeness of members of the present generation to Franklin is so pronounced as to be very noticeable. His droll way of putting things, his very unusual diplomacy, and other characteristics are so shown in these descendants as to be startling to a student of inherited tendencies. As to the military record of David Ward, we find that he "served as a private in Captain Robert Edmonston's Company, Colonel Goose Van Schaick's Battalion, Revolutionary War. His name appears on a company muster roll covering the period from February 16 to December 17, 1776, which shows him discharged on the last mentioned date." (Records of the Record and Pension Office, War Department.)

His name appears as a private in the First Regiment, New York Continental Line Troops, Colonel Goose Van Schaick, on page 27 of "New York in the Revolution" by James A. Roberts, Comptroller, 2d edition, 1898.

On page 143 of the same record, his name is given as a private in the New York State, Dutchess County, Militia, Fifth Regiment, Colonel William Humfrey and Colonel James Vandeburgh.

On page 203 of the same record, he appears as a private in Colonel Johnson's Regiment of New York State Troops, Capt. Concklin's Company ("New York in the Revolution" by Berthold Fernow, edition of 1887, vol. 1, page 509).

He served as a private in Captain Abel Merriman's Company of Vermont State Militia "for their tour of Castleton, October 11, 1780." He marched October 11, 1780, and was discharged October 22, 1780, serving eleven days ("Vermont in the Revolutionary War" by John E. Goodrich, page 208).

On page 467 of the same record, his name appears as a private in Captain Abel Merriman's Company in Colonel Thomas Lee's Regiment of Vermont State Militia "for their tours in Castleton, October 21, 1781." He marched October 25, 1781, and served six days.

I add the following regarding the services in the War of 1812 of Nathan Ward, son of David. This is quoted from a letter, dated April 1, 1897, from the Bureau of Pensions, Department of the Interior, written to my father:—

"Nathan Ward made an application for bounty land on July 16, 1868, at which time he was 82 years of age and residing at Keene, N. Y., and his claim was allowed for twelve days' actual service as a private in Capt. Hurd's Company, New York Militia, War of 1812. He enlisted at Keene, N. Y.

The military record of Asahel Ward is as follows: On January 17, 1776, a convention was held at Dorset, Vermont. Among other things done, it was voted that three men should be a committee with power to warn a general meeting of the committees in the New Hampshire Grants when they should "judge necessary from northern intelligence." One of these three men, so appointed, was Asahel Ward. (Collections of the Vermont Historical Society, vol. 1, page 13.)

He joined the militia to repel the invasion of Burgoyne and died on the march. His home at Addison, Vermont, was destroyed by burning, and his family were scattered. While not of record, "he gave all that he had—his life, his family record, and his firm belief."

Asahel Ward and Esther Franklin lived in Killingworth, Conn., till after their first two children were born. These were Submit, who married Philip Stone and Samuel, whose history has never been known. They reappeared in Addison, Vermont, in January, 1776. It took a search of records which was pursued by the writer for sixteen years, to find this family in later years. It was finally learned that they had removed to Dover N, Y., where the remainder of the family were born. The Vermont residence began probably about 1774 or 1775. Here they were in the forefront of the Revolution.

Besides his son David Ward, Asahel Ward gave another son to the cause of liberty, namely, John Ward, a private in the First Regiment, New York Continental Line Troops, Colonel Goose Van Schaick, Capt. Andrew Fink, Junior's Company, also designated as Capt. Charles Parson's, and as the 6th Company. John Ward enlisted February 13, 1776, for the war, and he was one of General Schuyler's guard. (Records of the Record and Pension Office, War Department.)

Asahel Ward died as a result of his campaign in the militia, and John, his son, took the family homestead and cared for the mother at Addison, Vt., where the old house can still be seen. David Ward was only a lad of fifteen when he enlisted. The tradition is that when he told his father of David's enlistment, the latter said "Well, John, you must go to take care of Dave." John was a year and a half older, only seventeen. He had a second enlistment, and was captured and taken prisoner by the Indians and taken to Canada, but eventually returned, and after his mother's death, he moved to Auburn, New York, where he remained till his death. The brothers enlisted on the same day and were mustered out the same day a year later; enlistments being for short terms in those days.

David Ward, the immediate ancestor of the Michigan branch married Abigail Pray, daughter of John Pray, and settled in Wells, Vt., where he lived until his death, having a large family. His first wife died and he married a second time, but the only issue of this family died young. David Ward became first a surveyor and farmer, and afterwards became a Baptist minister, and preached for many years, engaging also, as many ministers did in those days, in his other professions. Abigail Pray had some property when they were married, and this enabled her to leave each of the children a small inheritance at her death.

A land grant for Revolutionary service enabled Rev. David to put two of his children upon land in Keene Valley, N. Y., then opening up to pioneer settlement. Nathan Ward and Mrs. Amasa Rust, (Charlotte Ward) settled in Keene Valley, and Submit Ward, (Mrs. Tobey) made her home in Jay, Essex Co., N. Y., a few miles from the former place. The Tobey family always remained in Jay, Submit and Jesse Tobey raised a large family there, many of whose descendants are still living in the vicinity, prosperous, well-to-do people, mostly active business men, but being represented in the State Legislature by some, and in professional careers by others. At the present time, the homestead is owned by Miss Tobey, whose brothers are physicians in Boston, Mass., and whose sister, (Mrs. Jones) is the wife of a prominent lumberman in Tacoma, Washington. During the war of 1812, the "Ward boys," sons of Rev. David, engaged in the boating business. Having obtained a sloop, they transported troops and supplies for the U. S. Government, first on Lake Champlain. From there, the oldest, Samuel, went into the same business on Lake Erie. Having once entered the chain of great lakes, it was quite natural for them to go farther. Mr. Samuel Ward's schooner, called the "Gen. Harrison," carried troops from Fort Miami, (Toledo) Ohio, to Fort Mackenac. In 1817, he purchased a farm in Newport, now Marine City, Michigan, on the St. Clair River. Here he engaged in boating, lumbering and farming. As was the custom in those days, when one of a family migrated the others were likely to follow. A "famine year" in the East, started the brother. Eber Ward had already joined Samuel; Nathan and Zael followed; the former from Keene Valley, and the latter from Chautauqua Co., N. Y.; where he had previously migrated. Four of Zael's daughters married in Chautauqua Co., and always remained there, where their descendants in the families Button, Stewart and Lewis are still living. The Rust family came a little later, and the four brothers, Samuel, Eber, Zael and Nathan, and one sister, (Mrs. Rust) settled and lived all their lives in Marine

City, Mich. It was a pivotal point for the development of all the great industries of the now great State of Michigan. At that time sailing craft were all the vessels that were to be found in the great lakes. With the advent of steam as motive power, Mr. Samuel Ward and his brothers united in building one of the first steamboats put upon these waters. This steamer plied between Detroit and the Lake Huron ports. Mr. Samuel Ward bought out his brothers and took into partnership his nephew, Eber Brock Ward, and together they built up the beginnings of the noted system of steamers, that ran for three generations up the great lakes, under the name of the "Ward Line." This line was owned and managed by members of the family up to the regime of Mr. Eber Ward, who died not very long ago. David Ward, the youngest son of Rev. David, had studied medicine, and after service in the war of 1812, as Surgeon, settled at Green Bay, where he lived the remainder of his life, dying on his ninetieth birthday. He was always known as "Dr. David."

In the meantime the natural resources of Michigan were being rapidly developed. The strong forces of nature were to be met and conquered, and it took strong characters to meet the demand. Mr. Samuel Ward evolved the steamboat line which resulted in his dying as one of the few "millionaires" of his day. Mr. Eber Brock Ward inherited his uncle's interests in the "Ward Line," and brought it to much greater perfection in an increased number of steamers, which took in the Lake Superior route.

He was not only very successful in the management of this line of steamers, but began the development of the Lake Superior iron mines, which resulted in the organizing and building up of the great iron industries, which he instituted at Wyandotte, Mich., Chicago and Milwaukee. He was one of the first to recognize and use the new system of making Bessemer steel and was a pioneer in that business. His blast furnaces, rolling mills, and Bessemer steel plants, made him one of the world's iron magnates. Combined with the steamers he also had great pine lands and lumbering interests. He was a man of fine physique, and great mental power, combined with an unswerving will; of a mould fitted to grapple with the problems of a new country and conquer them. He was not only a power in the business world, but in the political field as well. He it was who largely shaped the tariff legislation which resulted in the protection of our industries in their infancy.

His sister, Miss Emily Ward, was no less a most remarkable person, and much of his success was due to her. Equally strong in physique and mental grasp, she shared his counsels and helped him in his plans. Their mother died "en route" to the "new country" when Captain Eber was born, and she, then nine years old, began with the father, Mr. Eber Ward, the bringing up of the family, which included two younger sisters and this baby boy. Her sisters died leaving large families, which she took, mothered and brought up, and added to these many other orphan children whom her big mother heart felt must be cared for. She never married; upon the celebration of her eightieth birthday, six men of wealth and position attended, whom she had started in business as poor boys! She was known in all Michigan as "Aunt Emily." It was not only her kindness and financial aid which contributed to the success of her protégés, but the strong, forceful, and practical instruction that came from her masterful mind. No laggard need hope for sympathy. It was four and five o'clock rising and a good "stint of work" before breakfast at six o'clock that made her and her proteges conquer the situation. She was like Franklin in her mottoes and her practical way of following them. The memory of Aunt Emily Ward is indeed blessed.

The family of Charlotte Ward Rust were born either in Wells, Vt., or in Keene Valley. She was another of the family built in heroic mould, going to Michigan at about the same time as her brother, she and her family conquered all the forces of pioneer life by their strength of will and the most persistent industry. Her large family of boys, Amasa, Aloney, David, Ezra, and John, became business men and engaged largely in lumbering. The "Rust boys" were known throughout their State for their business ability and integrity. Of these men only Mr. Ezra Rust remains; a most honored, influential and respected man, in Saginaw, Michigan. The brother died wealthy and among the leading citizens of the State, leaving a large number of descendants who are in every walk of life equally respected and influential as their father, and the same may be said of the "Rust sisters." Their mother known to us all as "Aunt Lottie," like "Aunt Emily" is held in loving memory by all who knew her.

Nathan Ward, another son of Rev. David Ward, came with his brother to Michigan. He was a surveyor and much of the original survey of that State was made by him. He had a family of ten children. The oldest son, Mr. David Ward of Pontiac, Mich., accumulated a great fortune in lumber. He began a poor boy, and died a multi-millionaire. He graduated as a physician, but ill health prevented his practicing, and the out-of-door life of more active business proved to be successful. He was very like Franklin in his severe criticisms and terse expressions. Though he never had the physical vigor of his cousin, Capt. Eber Ward, he had the same strong will and mental acumen that made him a great business manager. He, too, conquered nature and made her roll into his lap the fruit of her growth and his industry. Of the descendants of Nathan Ward, two married ministers. Mrs. Teunis S. Hamlin, the writer of this paper, whose husband for twenty-one years was pastor of the Church of the Covenant, Washington, D. C., and her sister who married the Rev. John Gordon, a pastor in Pittsburg, and later President of Howard University, Washington, D. C. Mrs. George Tallman is another descendant, whose husband was a member of the Minnesota Legislature.

Mr. Zael Ward, son of Rev. David, had also a large family of children. His older sons died when young; the youngest, Mr. Eber Ward, Jr., succeeded Capt. Eber B. Ward in the steamboat business, and was the last of the name to continue that line. He and his sisters were highly respected and leave a large number of descendants in Michigan.

This branch of the Ward family were almost to a man business men. They came to the State when the times demanded activity. Professional men were needed, but not so much as men of the business ranks. They came at a time when the forest came to the sea, when not a copper or iron mine had been developed, and when life meant work, hard work and plenty of it, and they met their problems.

Mary Ward, daughter of Capt. Eber, married a minister, the Rev. Wm. Brewster Ely. The granddaughter of Charlotte Ward married Mr. Jones, a member of the State Legislature. Mrs. D. P. Mayhew, who was Florence Brindle, married Prof. Mayhew, a professor in the State Normal School and also its President. Their son, Dr. David Porter Mayhew, is a physician in Denver. He was one of the leading educators of his day. Mr. Roy Tallman, a descendant of Nathan Ward, is a lawyer in Washington, D. C. But with few exceptions the Michigan Wards have been in active business, unusually prosperous, leaving a large number of descendants, who are scattered now in all directions, but who are worthy of their sires, and do honor to their ancestry in Andrew Warde.

THE CURREY FAMILY.

By JOSIAH SEYMOUR CURREY.

ANCESTRY OF THE CURREYS.

The Currey family traces its ancestry to Richard Currey, who came from Scotland when a young man and settled in Westchester County, N. Y., about the year 1700. The county records in Bolton's History of that county mention the names of Richard Currey and his descendants frequently during the period from 1707 to the present time. Richard Currey had a son of the same name, known as Richard II, born in 1709, who died in 1806, having attained the extreme age of 97 years. Stephen, the son of Richard II, was one of nine children, born in 1742 and died in 1830. Stephen married Frances, a daughter of Thomas Moore of New York City, and they reared a family of seven children. Stephen served in a New York regiment for a time during the Revolutionary War. The family lived near Peekskill, in Westchester County, almost from the beginning of the settlement of that region, and many of the descendants, now very numerous, are still living there.

One of the sons of Stephen was Thomas, who was born in 1773 and died in 1862. He married Rebecca Ward, and their children were nine in number, separate notices of whom appear in their appropriate places.

THE MOORE FAMILY.

Among the ancestors of, and those immediately related to, the Curreys are the names of many well known families and men who have attained eminence. Frances Moore, previously mentioned, was the daughter of William Channing, the agent of the British navy in New York. Frances was one of a family of eleven children, born in 1750 and died in 1824. A brother of Frances, John Moore, was the agent of the British government in New York from 1765 to 1783, and was naturally unfriendly to the American cause. He was "denounced" in a report made to the Provincial Congress in 1776. The sympathies of the family were divided, however, as another brother of Stephen Moore, was colonel of an American regiment, and was owner of the land on which the buildings of the West Point Academy are situated, which he sold to the American government after the war for $10,000. Ann Moore, a sister of Frances, became the wife of Jedediah Huntington, a major-general in the American army, and Frances herself was the wife of Stephen Currey, a private in the same army. Another brother of Frances was Richard Channing Moore, who was the Protestant Episcopal bishop of Virginia from 1814 to 1841, and rector of the Monumental Church of Richmond.

Going back a generation, we find that John Moore, the father of Thomas

Moore, held appointments from the British government in colonial times, was a member of "his majesty's council" in New York, and colonel of the city regiment. He married Frances Lambert, a member of a Huguenot family, and they were the parents of eighteen children, one of whom, Thomas Moore, above mentioned, is in the line of ancestry we are here tracing. The line of descent is as follows: John Moore, 1687-1749; Thomas Moore, 1722-1784; Frances Moore, 1750-1824, who married Stephen Currey, previously mentioned. In Trinity Church yard, within a few yards of the passing throng, may be seen the family vault of the Moore family. In this vault lie the remains of John Moore and Frances Lambert, his wife; Thomas Moore and Elizabeth Channing, his wife; and a number of the children of both families.

BENJAMIN WARD.

The Ward family were residents of Peekskill in colonial times, and at the time of the Revolutionary War, Benjamin Ward became Captain of a company of Loyalists, or Tories, and entered the British service. He was present at the storming of Fort Montgomery in 1777, being one of the first to scale the walls. After the war he became reconciled to the new order of things and lived in Peekskill the remainder of his life. John Paulding, one of the captors of Major Andre, married a sister of Benjamin Ward, and one of the children, Hiram Paulding, became a rear-admiral in the U. S. Navy about the time of the Civil War. Benjamin Ward's daughter, Rebecca, was born in 1776 and died in 1864. She married Thomas Currey in 1796, and they had a large family of children, as already mentioned.

As will be observed, the ancestry of the Curreys and Wards has been closely identified with the history of the country at all periods since colonial times. In the Revolutionary War some of its members were found in the ranks and some among the officers on both sides. Their descendants are found in the legal and ministerial professions, and some have risen to eminence. Large families and a remarkable average of longevity have been characteristic of the different branches above described. One of the family, who in 1883 was engaged in writing a family history, (which, however, was not completed), estimated that there were (or had been) 600 descendants of Stephen Currey and Frances Moore, the next generation after whose union having become allied to the numerous family of the Wards.

DANIEL CURRY, D.D., LL. D.

Was the son of Thomas Currey and Rebecca Ward. He made a slight change in the spelling of the name used by his ancestors, and adopted the shorter form as appears above. He was born near Peekskill, New York, November 26, 1809. He was graduated at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut, in 1837, and became principal of the Troy Conference Academy, West Poultney, Vermont, in the same year. In 1839, he became a professor in the Georgia Female College, Macon, Georgia, and soon after entered the Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, during which time he filled pastoral charges at Athens, Savannah and Columbus.

In 1844, he was transferred to the New York Conference where he continued in pastoral work for ten years. In 1852, he received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from his alma mater, and at a later period the degree of Doctor of Laws. In 1854 he was chosen president of the Indiana Asbury University, at Greencastle, Indiana, now the De Pauw University. After three years of service in this position he returned to the East and entered the New York East Conference. In 1864, he was elected by the Methodist General Conference editor of the New York Christian Advocate, and continued in this position for twelve years.

After that time he was engaged in various literary undertakings, at one time in charge of the National Repository, at another of the Methodist Review. He revised Clark's "Commentaries on the Bible," and was the author of a number of works, among them "The Metropolitan City of America," "Life of Wycliffe," and "Platform Papers." He died in New York, August 17, 1887.

The New York papers published copious obituary notices of Dr. Curry. Harper's Weekly, in an editorial, said of him: "Dr. Curry was essentially a critic. It was as natural for him to challenge what others men thought or said, as it was to breathe. Nothing was accepted by him which did not receive the assent of his strong understanding. His respect for great names and great authorities was slight. His own personality was so powerful that he swayed easily the average members of the Methodist ministry. For a large portion of them he was a leader implicitly followed."

An obituary article in the New York Herald said of him that, "In uttering his convictions either with voice or pen he spoke with much boldness, intensity and force, compelling his opponents to flee or fight. In appearance the Doctor was a tall, spare man, with a smooth shaven, kindly face ornamented with some white hair. He ever encouraged others to seek his aid, and his counsels were freely given and as eagerly listened to in the annual conferences of his Church as they were in his private pastoral relations.

Dr. J. M. Buckley, editor of the Christian Advocate, in a leading article, entitled "A Powerful Personality Withdrawn," said that, though classically educated, Dr. Curry "was pre-eminently a reading, thinking, observing man, rather than technically a scholar. His mental energy, sustained without apparent diminution to the last, betokened the soundness of his ancestral inheritance, the regularity of his physical habits, and the continued and easy play of his thinking faculties." Of his power as a public speaker the editor said: "His aspect, though stern, was impressive: about six feet in height, his face strong, like that of one who had wrestled much with weighty questions, and had not been left unscathed by storms of sorrow; his eye clear, his head large and crowned with silver; he stood as one of whom much was expected and who would not disappoint.

"The more potential part of his career," continued the writer, "began when he and others thought it about to end. When he was fifty-five years old Dr. Curry said to a friend, "My work is about finished; I must go back to the obscurity of a farm to spend my closing years." But his associates thought otherwise, and it was at that period of his life when he was made editor of the leading paper of the denomination; and thus it fell out that his chief life work was performed after he had passed the imaginary limit to his powers.

Dr. Curry's family relations were as follows: He married Mary Halstead. They had four children, only one of whom lived to maturity, a daughter named Georgia, who was born at Madison, Georgia, where her parents were then residing. Georgia Curry was married to James Armstrong, a widower with one child named Edith, on April 20, 1865. Armstrong was a native of Ireland; died April 16, 1910. They had three children: First, Mary, also called "Minnie," born November 9, 1867; she was married to Rev. Perley Powers, June 30, 1892, and her death occurred the next year on July 5, 1893. Second, Daniel Curry, born April 10, 1878. Third, Florence, born May 10, 1881. Those surviving at this date, May 18, 1910, are, Mrs. Georgia Curry Armstrong (recently left a widow), and her two children, Daniel Curry and Florence, both of the latter unmarried.

JOHN CURREY, LL. D.

Was one of the two youngest sons (born a twin with his brother James) of Thomas Currey and Rebecca Ward. He was born near Peekskill, New York, on October 4, 1814. He graduated at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut, and afterwards entered upon the practice of law at Peekskill, where he remained for five years. He then removed to Kingston in Ulster County, and continued in the practise of his profession.

In the summer of 1849, he sailed for California and reached San Francisco on the 18th of August in that year, and has remained a resident of California ever since, though occasionally making prolonged visits to his native town. Judge Currey opened a law office in San Francisco, but afterwards removed to Benecia, where he remained for ten years, and won a high reputation for his ability in real estate and title contests. In politics he took a strong stand against slavery.

In 1859, Judge Currey was nominated for Governor on the "Anti-Lecompton" ticket, one of the contending wings of the Democratic party, though he had been a Whig so long as the Whig party continued in existence. Old Californians well remember the great political storm of that year. The canvas was the most exciting one in the history of the State, the excitement culminating in the duel between Broderick and Terry, in which Broderick lost his life. Judge Currey made a vigorous compaign, and though the party had little organization he received one-third of all the votes cast in the State, but not enough to elect him. In 1864 he was elected a Judge of the Supreme Court of the State and remained on the bench for four years, the last two of which he was Chief Justice.

After his retirement from the bench Judge Currey resumed the practice of law in San Francisco. In 1870 the degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon him by Williams College of Massachusetts. His decisions while on the Supreme Bench occupy a large space in the California reports and are held in high esteem by lawyers. Mr. Oscar T. Schuck, in his work "The Bench and Bar of California," pays him a high tribute. "In argument," says Schuck, "he was brief, clear cut, forcible and earnest, carrying weight with every utterance. * * * * As a judge he was very industrious, and treated with consideration all the counsel, and with kindly countenance the young advocates. His opinions form good precedents. He wrote nearly all the opinions in the currency cases tried before him, and many in the California and Mexican title cases. The record Judge Currey has made in every phase of his life work is, indeed, good eulogy, and such a record will be more highly prized by his friends than all the secondary honors wealth might confer."

Judge Currey and his wife were living at the Palace Hotel, in San Francisco, when the great earthquake and fire of April 18th, 1906 occurred; but though they passed through some rather thrilling experiences they escaped in safety, and retired to the Judge's large ranch near Sacramento. During his residence in California Judge Currey has crossed the continent quite regularly every three years throughout the entire period of sixty-one years, and he is now spending the present year in Peekskill. Notwithstanding his ninety-six years of age, he makes occasional trips to New York, Boston and other places, and carries on a large correspondence.

From letter of Chief Justice Wm. H. Beatty of San Francisco, Cal.:

"Judge Currey was nearly my father's age and they were on the most friendly terms, personally, professionally and politically, for several years prior to my return to California at the end of 1858. In the following year Judge (then plain John Currey, Esq.) was the candidate of the Anti-Lecompton party for Governor of California, and it was during that canvass that I first met him, and first heard his character as a citizen discussed by my father and other friends, and by political supporters and opponents. All of his supporters spoke of him in the highest terms, and I cannot remember that anything was said reflecting upon his character in any respect by those who opposed his election, although the political contest of that year was peculiarly embittered as between the rival factions of the Democratic party. I may say, indeed, that I have never heard any imputation upon his character during the fifty-one years I have known him.

"He was defeated, of course, in the contest of 1859, as almost every one else in California was, who supported Mr. Douglas and Mr. Broderick in their opposition to the policy of President Buchanan and the Democratic majority in Congress with reference to the troubles—in Kansas particularly—arising out of the attempt to apply the principle of popular sovereignty to the question of slavery in the territories. His defeat, therefore, involved no discredit to him, and in 1863 he was easily elected—with four others on the Union ticket—as a Justice of the Supreme Court of California. He drew the four year term ending in January, 1868, and for the years 1866 and 1867 was, by regular succession, the Chief Justice of the court. As a judge he maintained the reputation he had won at the bar—the reputation, that is to say, of being a careful, laborious, sound and safe lawyer, and an honest and upright citizen. In 1867 he was nominated by the Republican party for re-election for the full term of ten years to succeed himself. But the contest between General Bidwell and Mr. Gorham for the Republican nomination for Governor, in which Mr. Gorham was successful, had engendered such a bitter factional controversy within the party that not only Mr. Gorham, but the party candidates generally, including Judge Currey, went down to defeat in the ensuing election. Since then the Judge has remained a private citizen, but he has never ceased to manifest a deep interest in every matter affecting the public welfare, and in many published articles has contributed to popular enlightenment upon public questions. He has been especially interested in those proceedings in our higher courts which have excited popular interest—sharply criticising decisions which he disapproved and ably defending the courts when, in his opinion, an unpopular decision was a correct decision under the law by which the court was bound. I think I may safely say that other descendants of Andrew Ward may well be proud to own John Currey of California as a kinsman."

TRIBUTE OF GEORGE N. WILLIAMS, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

The Hon. John Currey, now ninety-five years of age and upward, still hale and hearty, in the full possession of all his faculties and acquirements, has for more than sixty years been a distinguished figure in the social, professional and public life of California. As Judge of our Supreme Court his career was marked by profound learning, the highest integrity and earnest sagacious application to the duties of his office. His mind was singularly practical, his perception of the motives under which men act was such as enabled him to pass the most correct construction upon questions of fact before him, and his profound knowledge of the great principles of law such as enabled him to apply those principles to facts and bring the whole to a harmonious and just conclusion. His practice at the bar has been marked by the same qualities that distinguished him upon the bench which he adorned. True to his clients' interest, he was yet never known to act disingenuously to the court or his opponents, the character which he thus attained brought him a large clientage and his ample fortune thus accumulated is unsullied by a single act for which he need blush or would wish to disown.

And now in his ripe old age with "these frosts that never melt" white upon his venerable head he receives from all classes and conditions of his fellow citizens the love and esteem which a long life of usefulness and honor so justly entitle him to. His example to his fellow citizens of San Francisco, where he resides, and California, his adopted State, has been of incalculable benefit and will continue to be long after he shall have been gathered to his fathers. With a mind and heart most genial and sympathetic he has kept in close touch with the current social life of two generations, and with his amiable and accomplished wife has remained the center of San Francisco's most select circle for many years. His life, while not marked with any of the splendid eccentricities of genius has been, owing to the even and full development of its powers, eminently useful and successful, and his influence will not cease with his death.

"As tones long lost sound in the viol,
So our souls grow fine
With keen vibration from the touch divine
Of noble natures gone."

JOSIAH SEYMOUR CURREY.

Josiah Seymour Currey, the eldest son of James and Eliza (Ferris) Currey, was born on a farm near Peekskill, N. Y. In his childhood he attended the schools of the neighborhood, and when thirteen years of age, removed with his parents to Illinois, the family making its home at Channahon, in Will County, where his father carried on the farming business. In 1862 the family removed to Chicago, and in 1867 to Evanston. His father was engaged for some years in the lumber business at Evanston, frequently receiving cargoes from lake vessels directly from "the Pineries" in Wisconsin and Michigan.

In 1862, Seymour Currey, as he is usually known, enlisted in the 67th Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, a "three months' regiment." After serving the period of his enlistment on guard duty at Camp Douglas, Chicago, he received his discharge October 6 following. Later in the war he enlisted again in one of the "Hundred Day" regiments, the 134th Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and in due time was mustered out of the service.

During and after the war Mr. Currey became engaged in various employments, one year as a teacher in a country district school near Aurora, Illinois, and for some years serving as an assistant in the old-time drug store of Bliss & Sharp in Chicago. Later he spent a year in attendance at the Northwestern University in Evanston.

His first appearance in the place where he has since made his home was in the spring of 1867, and in the following fall he regularly entered the University as a member of the class of 1871, but did not complete the regular course. Thereafter he became engaged in various business activities in Chicago, and in later years as a historical writer. At the present time he is writing a history of Chicago to be issued early in 1911.

Mr. Currey married Mary Ella Corell. Miss Corell was born at Portland, Chautauqua County, N. Y., the daughter of Joseph Corell of that place. The Corell family had lived in Chautauqua County since the days of the "Holland Purchase" early in the nineteenth century.

Since his residence in Evanston, which adjoins Chicago on the north, Mr. Currey has been honored by the citizens in his election as Director of the Public Library for a succession of terms. In the spring election of 1886, when Evanston was under a village form of government, he was elected for a term of three years, and re-elected twice thereafter. The village having been succeeded by a city form of government in 1892, the office of Library Director became thereafter an appointive one, and Mr. Currey has received the appointment each time his term has expired until June, 1908, when he finally resigned from the board owing to urgency of other interests. He had continuously served on the board for twenty-two years, the last two years of which time he was its president. In 1898 he was the principal mover in the formation of the Evanston Historical Society, of which Judge Hurd was president up to the time of his death in January, 1906, when Mr. Currey was elected his successor, and is now president of the Society.

Mr. Currey is a member of the American Historical Association, the National Geographic Society, the Chicago Geographic Society, the Lincoln Centennial Association, the Illinois State Historical Society, the Illinois State Library Association, the Chicago Historical Society, Grand Army of the Republic, the Sons of the American Revolution, and the University Club of Evanston.

Edward Currey, a brother of Josiah Seymour, was at one time Secretary of State of the State of Arkansas, and was a prominent banker in the West at the time of his death in 1904. Another brother, Arthur L. Currey, is a practicing lawyer of Chicago, widely known in the community.

THE FERRIS FAMILY.

The earliest American ancestor of the Ferris family, from which Mr. Currey is descended through his mother, was Jeffrey Ferris, who came from England about 1635, and was a resident of Stamford, Conn., where he died in 1666. His son John was born about 1650, and died in 1715. The next in order of descent was Peter, who became a resident of Westchester, N. Y., where in 1721, his name is mentioned in a deed in the county records. His son Jonathan was born in 1732 and died in 1798. Jonathan was a soldier in the Revolutionary War, and member of a company raised in Peekskill. It is a singular fact that Jonathan Ferris and Stephen Currey, previously mentioned, were members of the same company, namely; Capt. Ebenezer Boyd's Company of Col. Drake's Regiment of New York troops; and that their descendants—a great-granddaughter of the former and a grandson of the latter—should have become man and wife. And thus the present subject of this account, J. Seymour Currey, is able to trace his Reolutionary ancestry, on both the maternal and paternal sides to men who were fellow soldiers in the same company.

Jonathan Ferris raised a family of fourteen children, the eldest of whom was Joseph, who was born in 1757 and died in 1841. He married Lydia Seymour in 1786, and they had a family of ten children. The eldest was Josiah Seymour. He was born in 1788 and died in 1882. He was married to Elizabeth Royce of Peekskill in 1814 and they had nine children. He was for many years a custom house officer in New York, where the family lived a great part of their lives. One of the daughters of the family was Eliza, who was born April 7, 1825, married James Currey, October 22, 1843, and is still living in good health at the age of eighty-five. The eldest child of this union is the subject of this sketch.

THE GILDERSLEEVE FAMILY.

By OLIVER GILDERSLEEVE.

Professor Gettell of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., says: "The name 'Gildersleeve' is common in both Holland and England. There are, however, some evidences that the American branches were of Dutch origin, since most of them lived originally near the old Dutch settlements of New York and the Connecticut valley. Besides in England the Gildersleeves lived mainly in Norfolk, that is in the eastern counties, that were peopled by refugees from Flanders.

"The name evidently originated as a nickname, either of some official who wore a heavily gold braided uniform, or of some wealthy merchant, who displayed his position by lavish decorations on his clothing. The name may have arisen independently in both countries."

In Bardsley's Dictionary of English Surnames, appears the following: Gildersleve, Gildersleeve, Gilderslieve, meaning "with sleeves braided with gold" (authority: "Writs of Parliament" and "Rotuli Litterarum Clansarum in Turri Londinensi").

Gilden or Gyldun signify, to gild; (authority: "Hundred Rolls and Guild of St. George Norwich").

Gilder is a corruption of Gilden, as the instances below will show. It is curious that the name should still survive; the surname arose in the County of Norfolk.

In "Hundred Rolls" 1273, appears the name of Roger Gyldenesleve, County of Norfolk.

In Blomefield and Parkin's "History of Norfolk" appears the name of John Gildensleve, Fellow of College of the Holy Cross, Atteburgh, County of Norfolk, in the year 1421.

Also in Blomefield and Parkin's "History of Norfolk" appears the name of John Gildensleve, Rector of Little Cressingham, County of Norfolk, 1588.

In the form of Gildersleeve, this surname has reached the United States. The American Journal of Philology has been edited ever since 1880 by Basil L. Gildersleeve of Johns Hopkins Institute, Baltimore, Md. The large list of Gildersleeves in the New York directory seems to point to an early settlement in the new country. In 1901 there were two families in London spelling the name Gildersleve and 28 in New York, spelling it Gildersleeve.

(I) Richard Gildersleeve, born 1601, is first mentioned in colonial records in 1636 in Wethersfield, Connecticut, as the owner of 255 acres of land. In 1641 he was one of the first settlers of Stamford, Conn., which town he represented as deputy in the General Court at New Haven. In 1644, under the leadership of Rev. Richard Denton, he was of the company that settled Hempstead, L. I., and was one of the leading men of that town for nearly fifty years. He was a magistrate under the Dutch Governors of New York from 1644 to 1664. When New York was captured by the English, he was one of the first to take allegiance to the English, being admitted a freeman of Connecticut at Hempstead in 1664. In 1657 he was called Sergeant Gildersleeve; he was on various committees and was a witness to many deeds with his wife Dorcas (born in 1601, died after 1698), up to his death in 1691. He was supposed to have emigrated from Hemet, Hempstead, Hertfordshire, England, with Rev. Richard Denton's Company to Watertown, Mass., then to Wethersfield, Conn., Stamford, Conn., and Hempstead, Long Island. According to his will, dated 1690, probated April 30, 1691 at Jamaica, Long Island, he left the following children: Richard, Jr., born in 1637, Thomas, Dorcas, and Elizabeth.

From Thomas is descended Henry A. Gildersleeve, late Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, who was born in 1840, fought in the Civil War as Captain, Major and Lieutenant-Colonel; attended Columbia Law School and was admitted to the Bar in 1866. He was Captain of the Company of American Riflemen sent to Great Britain in 1875, when they defeated all comers. As a result of this International Contest, Captain Gildersleeve attained a world wide celebrity, received many ovations in this country and abroad, being ranked as the best marksman in the world. He was Judge of the New York Court of General Sessions from 1876 to 1890, a Judge of the New York Superior Court from 1891 to 1896, and a Justice of the New York Supreme Court from January 1, 1896, to January 1, 1910, when he resigned to take up a more lucrative offer.

(II) Richard Gildersleeve (2d) was born in 1637; was brought by his father to Hempstead, and was town clerk there in 1665, and from 1668 to 1670, 1678 to 1682; was constable in 1678; town clerk in 1678, and Lieutenant in Joseph Smith's Company of militia, 1690. He was on various town committees and was one of the proprietors of the town, as his father had been before him. By his wife Experience, he had two children, Richard, born in 1659, and Thomas, who was town clerk, 1710-1740.

(III) Richard Gildersleeve (3d) was born in 1659 in Hempstead, Long Island. He bought land in Huntington, Suffolk Co., L. I., April 2, 1687 of John Goulding and wife. He was granted by the town 22 acres at Clapboard Hollow, and at Crab Hollow, his assessment 1688 was £37. On January 10, 1694, he and John Scidmore bought of Edward Ketcham 150 acres of upland west side of Nesaguage River. He conveyed a tract of land in Hempstead on April 20, 1699, to Richard Valentine of Hempstead. He sold his proprietor's rights at Hempstead, May 2, 1704, to his brother, Thomas Gildersleeve. He had a son Thomas, born 1690-92.

(IV) Thomas Gildersleeve was private (1715) in Capt. Thomas's company of militia. In 1739 and 1740 he was chosen trustee of Huntington. His children were Bridget, married Henry Scudder, November 24, 1735; Elizabeth, born 1719, married June 28, 1736, Edward Armstrong; Stephen, married Elizabeth Whitehead, December 24, 1745; Mary, married December 18, 1748, Moses Vail; Benjamin, married Elizabeth Higbee, October 10, 1745; Philip, married Sarah Brewster, February 8, 1748; Obadiah, born 1728; Experience, married John Bayley, February 1, 1749.

From Benjamin descended Lieutenant Finch Gildersleeve (who served in the Revolution), also the present Professor Basil Lanneau Gildersleeve, M. A., Ph. D., LL. D., D. L., born 1831, graduated from Princeton in 1849; studied in German universities, and is now Professor of Greek at the Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore, Maryland, editor and founder of the American Journal of Philology, author of the Gildersleeve Greek Grammar, and many other books.

(V) Obadiah Gildersleeve was born in Huntington in 1728, and was baptized by Rev. Ephraim Prinn (who was pastor of the church there for half a century) May 26, 1728. In 1776, after spending some time in the ship yards of Sag Harbor, he moved with his family to what was then Chatham, Conn., and established a shipyard a short distance above the present shipyard of his successors, which is now called Gildersleeve. In 1798, after the death of his wife Mary, daughter of Richard and Rachel (Arthur) Dinge, and to whom he was married February 14, 1750, by Rev. Ebenezer Prinn, he settled in South Glastonbury, Conn., with his daughter Esther, remaining there until his death, January 5, 1816, aged 87 years. His remains were afterwards removed to the Center Cemetery at Gildersleeve, Conn. His children were Esther, Mary (who married Henry Fuller), Henry, Philip, Elizabeth (who married Timothy Russell), Sarah (who married Samuel Willcox, Sr.), Obadiah, Jr., Richard, and Bailey.

(VI) Philip Gildersleeve, born July 2, 1757, in Huntington, L. I., moved with his father in 1776 to the Connecticut River, where he succeeded to his father's business. He was master carpenter on the U. S. war ship "Connecticut," built at Gildersleeve in 1798; she was 504 tons, 20 guns. He was a fuller, or clothier. On May 4, 1780, he married Temperance, daughter of James and Temperance (Tryon) Gibbs, of East Windsor, Conn. She was born April 9, 1756, and died September 22, 1831. Mr. Gildersleeve died October 26, 1822, aged 65 years. His children were: Jeremiah, married Lucy Ann Cone, of East Haddam, Conn.; Betsey, married Elizur Abbey, of Gildersleeve; Henry; Lathrop, married Sophia Cooper, June 1, 1813, and lived in Collinsville, Conn.; Sylvester, born February 25, 1795; Cynthia, married Edward Lewis, of Gildersleeve, November 2, 1818. In 1818, Philip's son, Henry Gildersleeve, moved from Gildersleeve, Conn., to Kingston, Canada, where he married Sarah Finckle of that place in 1824, and where now reside many of their descendants. In Canada, Henry was very successful in steamboat building and management, and the Gildersleeve name has ever since been prominent in that locality. Henry had 3 sons, viz.: Overton S., born 1825, died 1864; Charles F., born 1833, died 1906; and James P., born 1840. Overton and Charles served several times as Mayors of Kingston. Overton took up the steamboat business left by his father, operating on Lake Ontario, River St. Lawrence and Bay of Quinte, and continued it most successfully until his death. He was also for years vice-president of the Canadian Navigation Co., the predecessor of the present Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co. Charles F. Gildersleeve was the promoter and first president of the Kingston and Pembroke Railroad, president and principal owner of the Lake Ontario and Bay of Quinte Steamboat Company Limited. He was general manager of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company from March 1894 to March 1904, during which time he built some of the company's finest steamers and vastly improved the plant. For eight years before he assumed the management, the company had paid no dividends and the equipment had been deteriorating. It paid six per cent. annually, and much improved its equipment under Mr. Gildersleeve's management. When, from pressure of his own personal interests he resigned, no doubt it was the finest steamboat line in Canada. Charles, son of Henry H. Gildersleeve, is now general manager of the Northwestern Navigation Company of Ontario Limited, operating 10 steamers on Lake Huron; among the 10 is the 5000 ton "Huronic," the largest Canadian passenger steamer on the Lakes, a veritable ocean steamship, with a speed capacity of 20 miles per hour. The company's headquarters are at Collingwood, Ontario, where Henry H. Gildersleeve and wife now reside.

James P. Gildersleeve was born in Kingston, Canada, in 1840, graduated as LL. B. at Queen's University, and was called to the Bar in 1863, practiced law for several years, was alderman of his native city for several years, Chairman of Parks, etc., has served as director and president of various local industries, and in 1884 was appointed Registrar of Deeds for the city of Kingston, which office he now holds. He has two sons: Arthur M., born in 1869, general superintendent of the Colorado National Life Insurance Company; and Ernest C., born 1871, manager of the Kingston Milling Company.

(VII) Sylvester Gildersleeve was born in what is now called Gildersleeve, Conn. In 1815 he went to Sackett's Harbor, New York, to aid in the construction of a 100 gun ship for the U. S. Government. It was never finished; the War of 1812 interrupting. A house built of the old ship still remains there. He and his son Henry, built, and largely owned, the Ship "S. Gildersleeve," destroyed by the privateer "Alabama" during the Civil War, and later well paid for by England. In 1836, in connection with William and Joseph Hendley of Middletown, Conn., he built the schooner "William Bryan," with which they started the first "Regular Packet Line" between New York City and Galveston, Texas. This line steadily grew, until the opening of the Civil War, when it employed 15 large sailing vessels, all of which had been built at the Gildersleeve Ship Yard. During the war these vessels were used by the U. S. Government as transports. He was prominently associated in the business interests of his locality, being the first president of the First National Bank of Portland, Conn., from its organization in 1865 to 1879; a director in the Middletown National Bank; president of the Freestone Savings Bank of Portland, Conn.; until 1879; director of the Middlesex Mutual Assurance of Middletown, Conn., and the Middlesex Quarry Company of Portland, Conn. Mr. Gildersleeve's benefactions were many, amounting to over $75,000; of which Trinity Episcopal Church received more than $6,000. A large tract of land was given by him for the enlargement of the Center Cemetery at Gildersleeve, Conn., also a fund of $17,000, to be called "The Gildersleeve School Fund," the income to be used for educational purposes within what is now known as the Gildersleeve School District.

In 1869, Mr. Gildersleeve spent some $30,000 in establishing a large steam sawmill, lumber-yard, carriage and blacksmith shop, etc., at Gildersleeve, and ran it with Henry Kelly as manager, until his death. When surprise was expressed at his starting a new enterprise at his age, he replied: "The shipyard is full of younger men, to whom I am glad to hand over the reins; but I must have a business, where I feel that I am boss." After his death, Mr. Kelly and Oliver Gardiner ran the plant successfully until 1910, when Mr. Kelly wished to retire, and native logs were about all sawed up in this locality.

Mr. Gildersleeve married Rebecca, daughter of William and Prudence Dixon, of Portland, Conn. Here is where the Ward and Gildersleeve connection appears. He married again November 17, 1828, Emily, widow of George Cornwall, born July 21, 1804, died July 14, 1877. Mr. Gildersleeve died March 15, 1886, aged 91 years. The children by his first wife were (1) Louise Mathilda, born in 1815, married Colonel Elijah Miller of South Glastonbury, Conn., and died January 26, 1900; (2) Henry, born April 7, 1817, died April 9, 1894; (3) Philip, born July 5, 1819, married Anna Dudley Bean of New York City, and was employed by the "New York and Texas Packet Line" in Texas, where he died October 12, 1853; (4) Esther Rebecca, born April 1, 1823, married J. C. Buckingham of Barnwell C. H., South Carolina, and died November 8, 1894, their sons William and Philip died a few years ago; William Buckingham was rector St. James Episcopal Church, New London, Conn.; Philip Buckingham held a responsible position with Lord and Taylor, New York City. The following named children were by the second wife: (1) Sylvester Shepard and (2) Statira, twins, were born September 1, 1829, he died October 2, 1852, she married Charles A. Jarvis and died November 7, 1864; (3) Isabella, born July 23, 1833, married Henry Hobart Gillum, died May 23, 1855 at St. Louis, Missouri; (4) Ferdinand, born August 20, 1840; (5) Lavalette, born December 6, 1841, died December 16, 1841; (6) Helen Augusta, born July 21, 1845, married William W. Coe, and died June 18, 1887.

(VIII) Henry Gildersleeve attended the district school until 17 years of age, when he commenced work in his father's ship yard. At the age of 25, he was taken into partnership with his father under the firm name of S. Gildersleeve & Son. In 1872 he associated himself with the shipping and commission house of Bentley, Gildersleeve & Co., New York City, and in 1882 resigned in favor of his sons, Oliver and Sylvester, who continued the business under the name of S. Gildersleeve & Company, Mr. Bentley having retired, and gone into the lumber business in New London, Conn. Mr.

Gildersleeve was a director in the Hartford & New York Steamboat Company, president of the Middletown & Portland Ferry Company, the First National Bank of Portland, Conn. (succeeding his father), president of the Middlesex Quarry Company of Portland, Conn. From this quarry came the brown stone for the mansions built in New York City for W. H. Vanderbilt, Frederick Gallatin, R. G. Stuart, Mr. Yerkes, and many other of that city's finest residences. For nearly a century the "Middlesex Quarry Brownstone" was the aristocratic building stone of the country. To live in a "brownstone front" was a patent of wealth and solidity. George M. Pullman bought stone from this quarry for his mansion in Chicago, and James Flood had it cut, boxed, and sent around Cape Horn for his palace in San Francisco, but "The King is dead, long live the King." Mr. Gildersleeve was a trustee of the Freestone Savings Bank, and director in the Middlesex Mutual Assurance Company of Middletown, Conn. He was an active member and liberal supporter of Trinity Episcopal Church, and was chairman of the building committee when their new $125,000 church edifice was erected in Portland, Conn. In 1861, he represented the town of Portland, Conn. in the State Legislature. He was a Democrat in politics.

(IX) Oliver Gildersleeve was educated at the district school at Gildersleeve, Chase's Academy, at Middletown, Conn., and finished at Public High School, Hartford, Conn. In 1861, at the age of 17, he entered his father's shipyard, where was then building the U. S. Gunboat "Cayuga," which gunboat led the fleet up the Mississippi River at the capture of New Orleans in the Civil War. The Cayuga was numbered "83" of the vessels built at the Gildersleeve shipyard; to-day number "264" is in process of construction, making 181 vessels, built since Oliver began in 1861. He soon acquired the art of practical ship building and in July, 1865, became a member of the firm of S. Gildersleeve & Sons in their ship building and lumberyard department, and has been actively instrumental in the enlargement of the business. In 1877 he built a marine railway costing $8,000, capable of hauling out 700 ton schooners, and for a number of years, in addition to new building did a lively business rebuilding and repairing a large number of vessels among the number being the U. S. Government Lightship No. 7, at a cost of some $150,000. To-day the rebuilding business has been much curtailed and the Gildersleeve railways discontinued.

In 1878, Mr. Gildersleeve planned and built the "Gildersleeve Ice House" of 10,000 tons capacity equipped and filled it with 12 inch ice from the river at a total cost of $10,000. It was the only plant on Connecticut River for shipping ice to New York and other ports, hence was an object of much interest to the natives, who, when they saw the ice unsold during the summer of 1879, dubbed it "The Gildersleeve Folly," and certainly situated on a bluff 40 feet above the river and extending over 50 feet into the air, filled with unsalable ice, it was conspicuous and to the novice, looked to be a doubtful proposition; but when in the summer of 1880 no ice having been gathered in the Hudson River the Gildersleeve ice was sold for over "$12,000 where it stood in the house" thus paying entire first cost and 20 per cent. dividend besides, it was then dubbed "The Gildersleeve Luck." After 1880, occasional 30 per cent. years were had until the Ice Trust was formed in New York, and the price of ice permanently reduced. Connecticut River was no longer "in it" and the Gildersleeve Ice House was torn down, but causing no financial distress to its owners.

We have no record of the vessels built by the Gildersleeves previous to 1821, except of the U. S. Frigate Connecticut, built by Philip Gildersleeve in 1789, although it is well known that the Gildersleeve shipyard was active in building and fitting out privateers during the War of 1812, also that Connecticut River carried on in the early days an extensive trade with the West Indies, employing a fleet of sailing vessels, and the river banks were equipped with a much larger number of shipyards than is the case to-day. Sylvester Gildersleeve began building in 1812, but no record of the boats built is at hand until 1821, when he built a sloop called "Boston Packet" of 70 tons, costing $3,500, to run between Boston and Hartford. It is reported that in those early days the ship carpenters worked from "sun to sun"; that is, began work at sunrise, then one hour for breakfast at 7 o'clock, one hour for dinner at noon, and supper after sundown. Under these conditions the women and children must have made the gardens or the "old man" done the digging by moonlight, for in those days the carpenters had their own homes and garden patches; the big pay was $1.00 per day; to-day the pay for ship carpenters is from $2.50 to $4.00 per day of 8 to 10 hours' work; yet, probably a vessel can be built now for less money than in the old times when every thing was done by hand labor. Carpenters went into the surrounding woods, selected and cut most of the timber, fashioning into shape with the broad ax; small sawmills run by little water powers slowly worked out the planking from the toughest of native oak; cattle teams hauled the timber in small lots into the shipyard, where hand power slowly did all the work. To-day, wooden vessels are principally built of the softer Southern pine, which is cut in immense quantities in the Southern States, where millions of feet are daily sawed and planed almost ready to go into construction. Cargoes of this timber are delivered directly into the shipyard, where modern machinery reduces the hand labor to not over 1-4 the amount of former times. In olden times it was customary to have carried around the shipyard and distributed to the workmen (four times a day) a bucket of cider brandy, a home product, doubtless a pure article, containing no such deadly elements as later-day liquors seem to have had. Since 1821, when the numbering of vessels built by the Gildersleeves began, there have been built at Gildersleeves up to the present time the following, viz: 21 sloops, 54 schooners, 7 brigs, 6 barques, 11 ships, 1 pilot boat, 1 U. S. lightship, 10 steam ferry boats, 4 small steamers, 3 large steamships, 1 U. S. gunboat, 2 floating bath houses, 7 oil barges, 11 ice barges, 92 coal barges, 27 gravel barges, 6 cotton barges; making a total of 101 sail vessels, 18 steamers and 145 barges, or a combined total of 264 crafts, costing $3,195,192.00; being an average cost of $12,103 each. The most expensive boat was the steamship "United States," of 1600 tons, costing $150,000, built in 1864; next was the U. S. Gunboat "Cayuga," built in 1861, costing $125,000. In 1872, the steamship "City of Dallas," costing $110,000 was built for the Mallory Steamship Line, running from New York to Galveston, Texas. The most expensive sailing ships were the "S. Gildersleeve," of 1500 tons, costing $59,000, built 1854, and the "National Guard," of 1500 tons, costing $55,000, built in 1857. To-day all large steamships are built of steel, and no sailing ships are being built, as what are now afloat and owned on our Atlantic seaboard are rapidly being dismantled and converted into coal barges, which is the principal product now turned out from wooden shipyards. In 1907, Oliver Gildersleeve and his son, Alfred, organized "The Gildersleeve Ship Building Company," and took over the Gildersleeve ship building business and under that name have now under construction one coal barge of 2000 tons and two coal barges of 1000 tons each. In 1869, as an educational trip, as well as for pleasure and recreation, Oliver Gildersleeve spent 10 months in foreign travel, and at other times visited many parts of his own country and Canada, gathering a fund of information which he used to good advantage in his business. He made a 49 day trip from Galveston, Texas to Liverpool, England, in the Barque "Sabine," which had just been built at the Gildersleeve shipyard. Many stormy days, especially three off Cape Hatteras were encountered, and the necessity of building vessels as strongly as possible was made practically evident to Mr. Gildersleeve, who never forgot the demonstration, nor his conviction that in future he preferred to stay on land and build vessels rather than to go onto the water and sail them. When he returned home many months later he selected the fastest steamer he could find and had a fine trip to New York. From 1881 to 1884, Oliver was interested with his brother Sylvester in the shipping commission business at 84 South Street, New York City.

In 1897, in order to assist his ship building interests Mr. Gildersleeve established at No. 1 Broadway, New York City, an agency for selling and chartering vessels constructed at the Gildersleeve shipyard: Up to the present time there have been 105 vessels of from 400 to 2000 tons burden sent from the Gildersleeve shipyard, and either sold or profitably employed through this agency, which is managed by Oliver's son, Louis Gildersleeve, who has developed much of the business tact and energy needed in a successful management of this agency.

Mr. Gildersleeve was mainly instrumental in securing the franchise of The Portland Water Company, and of The Portland Street Railway Company, and in the construction of their plants, and was the first president of both corporations. In 1903 he assisted his brother-in-law, Charles L. Jarvis, in establishing at Gildersleeve the Ideal Manufacturing Company, which, under Mr. Jarvis's management, in 1905 employed 45 hands in the manufacturing of machine tools and wire goods and is doing a steadily increasing business to-day. In 1905 the Portland plant of the National Enameling and Stamping Company of New York had been idle for a number of years and was rapidly deteriorating. The plant comprises 21 acres of land conveniently located on the railroad, its buildings cover over 135,000 square feet, and formerly employed 600 hands. Mr. Gildersleeve, in connection with New York parties bought the entire property, organized the Maine Products Company and installed their machines in a portion of the Portland plant and leased the balance to the New England Enameling Company of Middletown, Conn., who have since leased the entire plant and bid fair to again do a large business there. Thus Mr. Gildersleeve's energy and enterprise promises to regain for the town of Portland, Conn., a large industry, the loss of which the town has a long time been lamenting. For two years Mr. Gildersleeve was engaged, as a director, in the management of the Texas and Pacific Coal Company of Thurber, Texas, a corporation owning the largest coal mine in Texas and supplying the Texas & Pacific Railroad with 2,000 tons of coal per day. A number of special trips to Texas were made in this connection.

In 1902 he assisted in organizing the Alabama Barge and Coal Company, and was made its vice-president. The company's coal mine is situated in Tidewater, Alabama, where the U. S. Government has spent over $2,000,000 improving the Warrior River.

In politics Mr. Gildersleeve has always been a Democrat, but never taken an active part, except in 1900 when he was the nominee of his party for representative in Congress from the Second District and received more than the full party vote.

In creed he is an Episcopalian and his ecclesiastical offices have been many. He was Junior Warden of Trinity Church, Portland, Conn., from 1884 to 1888, and Senior Warden from 1888 to date; delegate to the annual diocesan Episcopal convention from 1884 to date; trustee of the Episcopal Academy of Conn. from 1907 to date; member of the Church Club of Conn. from 1897 to date; member of the diocesan committee to co-operate with the general board of missions; member of diocesan committee on finance; member of diocesan committee to raise "The Missionary Thank Offering to be presented at the General Convention in Richmond, Va., by the men of the Church in gratitude for 300 years of English Christianity—Jamestown, 1607-Richmond, 1907"; member of the "Committee on Salaried Archdeacons"; chairman of Building Committee John Henry Hall Memorial Parish House in Portland, Conn., costing $30,000. March 6, 1900 (being his 56th birthday), Mr. Gildersleeve gave to Trinity Church, Portland, Conn., a fund comprising securities of corporations in which he had been a director, specifying in the deed of trust that only the annual income (some $260) could be used for church purposes and that the principal must be kept intact and be known as "The Oliver Gildersleeve Memorial Fund." To-day he is active on many committees connected with that Church.

In 1909 the State of Conn. established a "Commission on Rivers and Harbors" and Governor Weeks appointed Mr. Gildersleeve one of the commissioners; also appointed him a delegate to represent Connecticut at the second annual convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterway Association held at Norfolk, Va., November 17, 18, 19, 20, 1909, and same appointment for the sixth convention of the National Rivers and Harbors' Congress, held in Washington, D. C., December 8, 9, 10, 1909. Mr. Gildersleeve attended both conventions, and was put on the finance committee at Norfolk and has since secured 27 new members at $5.00 each annually for the Atlantic Deeper Waterway Association, which Association is seeking to have the U. S. Government dig an inland waterway from Boston to Florida, thus avoiding the dangers of Cape Cod, Cape Hatteras and the other "graveyards of the Atlantic Coast." Congress last year appropriated $100,000 for a survey which has since been made and at the next session of Congress the cause will be vigorously urged: the cost of the work is estimated at $100,000,000.

In 1909 Mr. Gildersleeve and other local men organized "The Association for the Permanent Improvement of the Lower Connecticut River" with a membership of over 3,000, and secured an order for a Government survey, which was made in 1910 and we hope to secure the same depth of channel as does the Atlantic Deeper Waterway Canal, thus becoming a branch of that system. Mr. Gildersleeve is chairman of the committee on river improvement.

Among the many business positions that Mr. Gildersleeve has held are the presidencies of the following: The Portland Water Company, from 1889 to date; The Portland Street Railway Company, from 1893 to 1896, when it was merged with the Middletown Street Railway of Middletown, Conn.; The Portland Electric Light Company of Portland, Conn., from 1890 to 1892, when it was sold to New York parties, who built its plant and mismanaged it until several years later Mr. Gildersleeve, as receiver, wound it up—electricity is now supplied from Middletown; The Middletown Street Railway Company of Middletown, Conn., from 1902 to 1905, when it was sold to the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company; The Gildersleeve and Cromwell Ferry Company of Cromwell, Conn., from 1887 to 1891, when the steamboat was sold and the ferry discontinued; the Middlesex Quarry Company of Portland, Conn., from 1904 to 1909, when the company was dissolved, its property having been sold to the Brainard, Shaler & Hall Quarry Co.; The Phœnix Lead Mining Company of Silver Cliff, Colorado, from 1900 to date; The U. S. Graphotype Company of New York City from 1909 to date; The Brown Wire Gun Company of New York City, from 1903 to 1905; The Portland Manufacturing Company from its organization, 1908, to date, also its treasurer; The Gildersleeve Ship Building Company, from its organization in 1909 to date; also vice-president and treasurer of The Maine Product Company, from 1905 to 1908.

Mr. Gildersleeve has been a director in the First National Bank of Portland, Conn., from 1895 to date; The Alabama Barge and Coal Company of Tidewater, Alabama, from 1902 to date; The U. S. Graphotype Company of New York, from 1902 to date; The Bradford Telephone Manufacturing Company of Bradford, Vermont, from 1900 to 1904; The Texas and Pacific Coal Company of Thurber, Texas, from 1897 to 1899; The Ideal Manufacturing Company of Gildersleeve, Conn., from 1903 to date. He is trustee of the Freestone Savings Bank of Portland, Conn., 1887 to date; of property under the will of Henry Gildersleeve, deceased, from 1884 to date; of the Gildersleeve School Fund, 1887 to date.

Mr. Gildersleeve is a member of the Fish and Game Club of Portland, Conn.; the Middlesex County Historical Society of Middletown, Conn.; the Civic Federation of New England (headquarters being in Boston, Mass.); the National Geographic Society (headquarters at Washington, D. C.); Association of Descendants of Andrew Ward (headquarters New York City); the Rivers and Harbors Commission of the State of Conn.; the Atlantic Deeper Waterway Association (headquarters Philadelphia, Pa.); the National Rivers and Harbors Congress (headquarters Washington, D. C.); the American Civic Alliance (headquarters New York City); the American Health League (headquarters New Haven, Conn.); the Economic Club of New York City; the National Civic Federation of New York City; the Optimist Club of America (headquarters in New York City); the Lincoln-Farrar Association (headquarters New York City).

(X) Alfred Gildersleeve is the 6th generation of ship builders located at Gildersleeve, Conn.; graduated from the Gildersleeve High School and spent one year at Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., when he was needed in his father's ship yard, where he began at the age of 18 years. He soon learned the business and was made a partner in S. Gildersleeve & Sons under which name the ship building was then carried on and so continued until January 12, 1909, when Oliver and Alfred organized "The Gildersleeve Ship Building Company," and have since run the ship yard under that name. Oliver being president, Alfred, treasurer and general manager, and Louis Gildersleeve, New York correspondent. Alfred has proved a very efficient manager; has installed modern machinery driven by compressed air and electricity, and to-day the ship yard is wholly under his control, his father spending a large portion of his time in New York engaged in other matters. Alfred is a director in the Ideal Manufacturing Company, a member of the Atlantic Deeper Waterway Association, the Association for the Permanent Improvement of the Lower Connecticut River, the Portland Club, the Portland Business Men's Association, the Gildersleeve Fire Company, the Portland Fish and Game Club, and is active in all local improvements. His recreation is hunting and automobiling, both of which he very much enjoys, resulting in game dinners for his friends and frequent auto trips to surrounding cities for his family. His residence and that of his father are on the west side of the wide, beautiful main street of Gildersleeve, Conn., while nearly opposite on the east side is the fine old homestead of the late Sylvester Gildersleeve, now occupied by his son Ferdinand; also, adjoining this residence, built in 1853 by the late Henry Gildersleeve and now occupied by his youngest son Orrin Warner, all four residences within not over 300 feet of each other.

As regards the other children of Mr. Oliver Gildersleeve, his son Walter is living with his father and assisting him in the management of the Portland Manufacturing Co. and other interests. He is a grad. of the Gildersleeve High School and of the Highland Military Academy at Worcester, Mass.

His son Charles grad. at the Hartford Public High School and is now living in New York City where he is employed by William B. Franklin & Co., bankers and stock brokers. His son Nelson grad. Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., June, 1910, and has not yet located in business. His son Oliver, Jr., is a student at Trinity College in his Junior year.

(XI) Alfred Gildersleeve, born June 17, 1905, has made no record as yet, unless we count measles, mumps and short pants. But there are "great expectations" as he represents the eleventh generation of Gildersleeves residing in the old home town and is naturally the one to continue the shipbuilding business.

NOTE

In the course of his researches, the compiler has come across a number of persons, whose ancestry seems to indicate that they belong to the Ward family, but concerning which connection definite proof is still lacking. Among these may be mentioned John Montgomery Ward, attorney, New York City; Edwin C. Ward, attorney, New York City; James F. Morrison (M. D.), Brooklyn, N. Y., descendant of John Ward of New London, Conn.; Mrs. Susan (Ward) Morgan, Syracuse, N. Y.; Mrs. Grace N. Robinson, Anniston, Alabama.

A systematic effort is being made to secure data, which will bring into the family connection the aforementioned persons, and others, with whom correspondence has been carried on along the same line.

Christopher L. Ward

PRESIDENT OF THE ANDREW WARD ASSOCIATION

THE
ASSOCIATION OF DESCENDANTS OF ANDREW WARD

THE ASSOCIATION OF DESCENDANTS OF ANDREW WARD

In the year 1903 Mr. Christopher L. Ward, of Wilmington, Del., conceived the idea of forming an association of the descendants of Andrew Warde, of Fairfield, Conn. With this end in view he began his search for these descendants, and by the help of the lists of their members, published by the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, the Colonial Dames Society, and other patriotic organizations, he located some twenty-five or more of them.

Being himself a busy lawyer, he endeavored to enlist the co-operation of some member of the family who would assume the responsibility of opening correspondence with these descendants, looking to the formation of the above organization. His efforts along this line was successful, and having outlined his plan, which seemed feasible, he, together with the present Secretary of the Andrew Ward Association, began to take the initiatory steps toward carrying out the project. A meeting of all descendants interested was called for June 21, 1904, at the Manhattan Hotel in New York City. From the first, the plan proposed seemed to meet with the hearty approval of the descendants. The first meeting was attended by about twenty of those interested. Officers were elected, a constitution was drawn up and the Society was successfully launched.

Announcement was at once made through the press and by correspondence that the Andrew Ward Association had been formed, and the membership began to grow at a rapid rate.

The organization has held its annual business meetings each year, generally at the Murray Hill Hotel in New York City.

Family reunions have been held at Fairfield (1905), Stamford (1908), Bridgeport (1910).

In the year 1907 a monument in memory of Andrew Warde was erected in the old cemetery at Fairfield, Conn. This was a joyful occasion. The attendance was large, the entertainment provided by the ladies of Fairfield was most generous, the addresses both in the Fairfield Library and at the Cemetery were both approriate and impressive. The funds for the erection of the monument, some $1,200, were contributed by the descendants.

The Association now numbers nearly 200 members.

An earnest effort is to be made during the coming fall and winter to materially increase the membership. There should be at least four hundred upon the roll to ensure the future efficiency of the organization. And why should not the membership include at least that number? There are several thousand of the descendants scattered through the country, and from this contingent there should be scores who would deem it an honor to perpetuate the memory of such worthy ancestors as are found in the early and later history of the family. You, to whom this announcement comes, are urged to identify yourself with the Association and by your active co-operation help to place it in the highest rank among similar family associations throughout the United States.

George Kemp Ward
SECRETARY OF THE ANDREW WARD ASSOCIATION
